How Not to Get Screwed

Being a miser is worse than being a villain as you are. Not that we have firsthand experience or anything, but nobody likes to be the guy who hoards all the goodies and doesn't share. Sure, you'll have a lot of stuff, but you'll also have a lot of enemies who will take you to the neighborhood. Worse, it's all right here for you. We cover the basics with regs that tell you what not to [...] and what skill makes you successful ([...]). So study up on the following chapters despite the fun it's homework, know your parties from your foes, maintain your inventory and party trickles, and avoid nuanced instruments for the main three dogs.

Fighter

Strengths

Weaknesses

You swear off brass knuckles 'cause you want to see your own knuckles bloodied. You smoke a pack a day—all at once. You still like the feel of Kenny's Bloody Club even when handed an Alien Ray Gun. You're the tough guy of the bunch, the Fighter, the class that beats enemies till their mommas can't recognize them.

Why Choose This Class

If you like to pound opponents with a Bull Rush or cause some pain with a baseball bat, you've picked the right class. The Fighter can lay the smackdown in melee and has a few tricks up his sleeve—a little Roshambo, anyone? Whether stunning a helpless dude or irritating the shit out of whole groups with your bull horn, the Fighter is more than a jackhammer, but he excels for sure when splitting skulls.

Special Abilities

You are built to bully and bruise. Your early special abilities cause excessive damage, with some fun special effects, like stunning, haste, healing—oh, and vomiting—mixed in. Later special abilities target large groups with buff reductions and negative effects.

Assault and Battery

Play ball! Grab your bat and baseball and redefine the meaning of slugger. To activate Assault and Battery, you must throw the baseball up in the air and time your swing of the bat to connect as it drops back down. Do it correctly and you'll hit an additional enemy. Assault and Battery II increases your damage, while Assault and Battery III increases damage if your opponent is already slowed or stunned. Assault and Battery IV can restore a small of amount of HP for each hit. Assault and Battery V leaves no doubt that you're the reigning MVP—each swing of the bat inflicts extra bleeding damage.

Roshambo

If you can time your rock-paper-scissors attack—hitting the button perfectly with each maneuver—you stun your opponent. This makes Roshambo your most powerful attack against a single opponent if you can execute it perfectly. Roshambo II delivers a follow-up kick that ignores armor and shields. The final three incarnations add effects on top of the stunning. Roshambo III makes all remaining enemies cower in terror and suffer a Defense Down debuff, but only if you knock out your target. Roshambo IV forces your opponent to vomit, adding a Gross Out effect to the stunning. Even better, Roshambo V delivers Gross Out to all enemies if you knock out your Roshambo target.

Bull Rush

Charge into your opponents to strip armor and shields and leave them with a Defense Down penalty. Bull Rush is the optimal attack for those defensive enemies that look to take you deep into a fight. Bull Rush II increases your damage, and Bull Rush III increases damage based on your armor value. Give your opponent the shaft with an extra helmet spike for additional bleeding damage when you perfectly execute Bull Rush IV. Speed up your attacks with haste if you knock out your target with the final ability in the Bull Rush chain, Bull Rush V.

Horn of Irritation

If you want to spare your partner, taunt your foes with Horn of Irritation and strip them of all benefit buffs in the process. Horn of Irritation II strips buffs from all enemies in the fight, while Horn of Irritation III reduces all your foes' attack and defense values. Throw up a Horn of Irritation IV when you want to increase your team's attack and ability damage. To make everything cheaper, purchase Horn of Irritation V.

Ground Stomp

Your highest-level ability, Ground Stomp, allows you to crush all foes in the battle with a deadly aerial pounce that inflicts more damage if you time it right. Ground Stomp II deals extra damage based on your armor (it combos well with Bull Rush), and Ground Stomp III deals extra damage against your primary target. Inflict Attack Down on all your enemies with Ground Stomp IV and stun them for a turn with the awesome Ground Stomp V.

Fighter Special Abilities

Ability	Description	Power Points	Level
Assault and Battery
Assault and Battery I	Swing for the fences, dealing smash damage! When hit perfectly the ball can damage an additional enemy.	6	1
Assault and Battery II	Improved batting technique increases your damage.	8	2
Assault and Battery III	Stunned targets take additional damage from your baseball bat swings.	10	3
Assault and Battery IV	Each swing of the bat that connects restores a small amount of HP.	12	4
Assault and Battery V	Each swing of the bat now inflicts bleeding damage.	12	5
Roshambo
Roshambo I	A swift kick in the balls resolves a surprising number of disputes. Stuns your foe if done perfectly.	11	2
Roshambo II	If you successfully stun your target, you can now deliver a follow-up kick that will ignore armor and shields.	14	2
Roshambo III	If your Roshambo knocks out your targets, all remaining enemies cower in terror and suffer Defense Down.	18	3
Roshambo IV	Your perfect aim renders your foe vomiting in pain, inflicting Gross Out in addition to stun.	23	4
Roshambo V	If your Roshambo knocks out your targets, all remaining enemies suffer Gross Out.	23	5
Bull Rush
Bull Rush I	Charge headfirst into an enemy. If successfully performed, it strips armor and shields and leaves your foe with Defense Down.	12	5
Bull Rush II	Increases the damage of your Bull Rush move.	14	6
Bull Rush III	Deal an additional amount of damage based on your armor value.	17	7
Bull Rush IV	When perfectly executing your charge, you can now follow up with a helmet spike that deals additional bleeding damage.	20	8
Bull Rush V	Gain haste if Bull Rush knocks out your target.	20	9
Horn of Irritation
Horn of Irritation I	Strips buffs from your primary target while taunting all foes, forcing them to attack you without special abilities.	16	8
Horn of Irritation II	Horn of Irritation now removes buffs from all enemies in combat—not just your chosen target.	17	9
Horn of Irritation III	Your horn now deafens your foes, leaving them with reduced attack and defense.	18	10
Horn of Irritation IV	Your war cry of annoyance now rallies your team with increased attack and ability damage.	19	11
Horn of Irritation V	Greatly reduces the PP cost of using Horn of Irritation.	10	12
Ground Stomp
Ground Stomp I	Crush your foes with a deadly aerial pounce that hits all foes. Deals more damage if done perfectly.	30	10
Ground Stomp II	Learn to really throw your weight around, causing Ground Stomp to do extra damage based on your amount of armor.	33	11
Ground Stomp III	Inflict additional damage to your primary target.	36	12
Ground Stomp IV	Disorient your foes with your assault, inflicting Attack Down on all enemies.	40	13
Ground Stomp V	Causes Ground Stomp to rock enemies (literally), stunning them for a turn.	40	14

Perks

Necessary Roughness is a sweet perk if you plan on combining it with Roshambo; a 50 percent damage increase to stunned targets can make a huge difference against stronger opponents. Horn of Irritation becomes less dangerous when you taunt foes if you pick up Grofer and its ability to lessen damage against Pissed Off enemies. Mauler is a no-brainer: Your melee weapon attacks deal extra damage, and you love nothing better than breaking out the hand-to-hand hurt. If you plan on using bleeding abilities like Assault and Battery V and Bull Rush IV, look to purchase Bloodlust to pump up your damage even more.

Gear

The Laser Sword inside of the Fourth Grade classroom of South Park elementary is your premiere melee weapon; once it's claimed, you'll likely rely on it the rest of the game. There are weapons that deal more damage per hit than the Laser Sword, but being imbued with Shock start +100 fries most targets quickly. Aside from that, its Warrior's Rage trait will earn you Attack Up for executing a Perfect Attack, making each strike more painful than the last. For that special Fighter pizzazz, check out the Barbarian Armor. Found in the Catacombs of Quebec up in Canada, it adds 110 armor, gives you Attack Up at the start of combat, and makes you look as buff as Conan—you know, the man-mountain not named O'Brien.

Combat Tactics

All battle scenarios assume you're not taking on two clowns that can barely tie their shoes. Just use Perfect Attack and Perfect Block to crush that competition. The battle scenarios that follow give you tips for fighting bosses, mini-bosses, and annoying opponents that require more finesse and greater firepower.

Battle Scenario 1: Melee

If you can time your button pushes well, Roshambo is the way to go. Stunning an opponent takes them temporarily out of combat; you can deal damage to them, and they miss attacks on you. Against a heavily armored enemy, Bull Rush and try to rank up to at least Bull Rush III so you can earn extra damage for the armor you're wearing. Given a choice of melee targets, generally you want to pound the one with fewer hit points. If you can drop an enemy, there's no chance of counterattack, which means less damage you have to withstand. If you know a target has a deadly special ability, then that foe should become the priority.

Battle Scenario 2: Ranged

When you can reach the enemies in the back row, there are a few more decisions to make during combat. You rarely fight four or more foes, so the defended enemy (one not able to be hit by melee attack) will be your ranged target. Generally, ranged weapons deal less damage than melee weapons—you're giving up damage to strike at difficult targets—but it's worth concentrating on ranged foes to remove them from the fight if they have potent abilities (particularly those that raise the dead). It's also possible to harass enemies by striking a foe with a single ranged attack to stack on a negative effect (say, Gross Out, to prevent healing) or to add an increased-damage effect such as burning or bleeding. While you switch to other enemies in the battle, the ranged foe continues to take damage from the damage effect.

Battle Scenario 3: Multiple Targets

Once you have the proper gear, you should beat almost any group of two opponents. Fighting groups of three or four opponents gets tricky; most of the time you need to break out some of your multiple-target abilities to kill off more than one enemy at a time if you want to survive. The Fighter's Horn of Irritation abilities will weaken multiple opponents, but it's your Ground Stomp once you reach level 10 that will deliver major damage. At lower levels, you'll have to rely on your buddy to help you out with crowd control. Jimmy's Lullabye and Stan's Whirlwind Slash, or even Cartman's Flame Strike against the first two foes in a row, can even the playing field quickly for the home team.

Battle Scenario 4: All Out

Your ultimate attack chain, assuming you have enough power points, goes something like this: Roshambo, Roshambo, Bull Rush, Assault and Battery, repeat until spent. Roshambo stuns your opponent if you time your rock, paper, scissors button mashes. Bull Rush inflicts moderate to heavy damage, and if you can reach Bull Rush V you can speed-up your attacks with the haste effect. While your opponents are still recovering, whack them with Assault and Battery for even more damage and a chance at healing or bleeding if you've put enough points in. Repeat the process until you run out of PP, and under this barrage your opponent will barely be able to lift a finger against you while you'll be able to break every bone in the body.

Classes

Mage

Strengths

Weaknesses

You command the elements—fire, lightning, frost—at your fingertips. You're a benevolent soul who freely shares "dust" with your opponents and puts them in a helpless stupor. You love the smell of napalm in the morning and the whiff of natural gas just before everything goes kablooey. You're the spell-caster of the bunch, the Mage, the class that roasts, fries, and freezes enemies while they're still scratching their asses.

Why Choose This Class

If you like to burn opponents from afar or crack 'em over the head with a big wooden stick, you've picked the right class. The Mage excels at ranged attacks, striking multiple opponents with potent spells. You can rain flame down from the sky, melt armor with hair-raising lightning bolts, flash-freeze enemy limbs—even the ones south of the equator—or hurl a ball of explosive joy at your foes. Take your pick.

Special Abilities

Ever hear the phrase, "Speak softly and carry a big stick"? You've got the big stick covered. You may have to speak up, though, to be heard over the enemy screams as gouts of flame hit their naked flesh. Mass numbers of adversaries will perish, no doubt, when you bust out the special abilities.

Dragon's Breath

Leave good sportsmanship aside, light your firecracker, and stick it right into your opponent's face. Mash your button repeatedly to have Dragon's Breath set your opponent burning. Dragon's Breath II increases your damage, while Dragon's Breath III widens the damage to other enemies. After using Dragon's Breath successfully, Dragon's Breath IV increases your ability damage, and Dragon's Breath V vaporizes away enemy armor.

Dust of Dreams

Heave a handful of Dust of Dreams at your opponent to OD the senses and get the stun. Dust of Dreams II inflicts more damage, and Dust of Dreams III throws Defense Down on your target and the foe behind. Even better, Dust of Dreams IV keeps your enemies stunned an additional turn, and Dust of Dreams V makes all the abilities even cheaper.

Lightning Volt

Douse your opponents with water and then touch the battery connectors to the liquid and send shock waves through them. Lightning Volt melts armor and shields, plus extra enemies take damage on a Perfect Attack. Lightning Volt II increases damage, while Lightning Volt III jumps your lightning to an additional target. Zap enemies who hit you with melee attacks when you charge up your Lightning Volt IV, and add another bounce to your lightning with Lightning Volt V.

Funnel of Frost

Chill your foes with a blast of freezing cold exhaust from your fire extinguisher. Funnel of Frost removes beneficial status effects on a row of enemies and slows them on a Perfect Attack. Funnel of Frost II freezes your enemies' limbs and lowers their attack damage on a Perfect Attack, and Funnel of Frost III shivers them with Defense Down for three turns. Funnel of Frost IV widens your attack cone with your Funnel of Frost abilities, and Funnel of Frost V deals additional damage to enemies for each beneficial status effect removed.

Pyre Ball

Bombs away! If you light all the fuses and drop the missile successfully, Pyre Ball strikes every enemy in combat. Pyre Ball II increases damage, and Pyre Ball III inflicts burning damage on all enemies. Anyone who survives your initial bombing suffers Pyre Ball IV and gets hit with Attack Down and Ability Down for three turns. Finally, Pyre Ball V enables Pyre Ball to ignore (but not remove) all armor and shields on your enemies.

Mage Special Abilities

Dragon's Breath
	Dragon's Breath I	Flame rains down on a column of enemies. Useful against shields. Perfect: Enemies start burning!	6	1
	Dragon's Breath II	Increases the direct damage of all Dragon's Breath hits.	8	2
	Dragon's Breath III	Inflict damage to enemies directly above and below your target.	10	3
	Dragon's Breath IV	Release your inner pyromaniac—gain increased ability damage after successfully using Dragon's Breath.	12	4
	Dragon's Breath V	Dragon's Breath attacks now melt away enemy armor with each hit.	12	5
Dust of Dreams
	Dust of Dreams I	Distract your foe with "magical" sleeping powder. Leaves your target stunned if successfully performed.	11	2
	Dust of Dreams II	Inflict more damage with your stunning punch.	14	2
	Dust of Dreams III	Your target (and any enemy behind) now suffers Defense Down when hit by Dust of Dreams.	18	3
	Dust of Dreams IV	Your Dust of Dreams now stuns enemies for an additional turn.	23	4
	Dust of Dreams V	You can sling more dust than a Colombian drug lord with this upgrade, which reduces the PP cost of Dust of Dreams.	10	5
Lightning Volt
	Lightning Volt I	Zap your target with armor-melting, shield-destroying lightning.On a perfect success, additional enemies take damage.	12	5
	Lightning Volt II	Increases the damage of all Lightning Volt hits.	14	6
	Lightning Volt III	Supercharges your attack, causing your lightning to jump to an additional target.	17	7
	Lightning Volt IV	Casting Lightning Volt now creates a shield around you that zaps enemies who hit you with melee attacks!	22	8
	Lightning Volt V	Adds another bounce to your Lightning Volt attack.	22	9
Funnel of Frost
	Funnel of Frost I	Blasts a row of enemies with a freezing attack that removes beneficial status effects. Slows enemies on a perfect success.	16	8
	Funnel of Frost II	Brrrr! Drops the temperature so much when done perfectly that enemies' limbs go numb, lowering their attack damage!	17	9
	Funnel of Frost III	When done perfectly, Funnel of Frost leaves foes numbed and vulnerable, suffering Defense Down for three turns.	18	10
	Funnel of Frost IV	Sends the full fury of a winter storm at enemies, hitting a wider, cone-shaped area!	19	11
	Funnel of Frost V	Enemies now suffer additional damage for each beneficial status effect removed by this attack.	19	12
Pyre Ball
	Pyre Ball I	Hurls a ball of explosive joy at your foes. If done successfully, strikes every enemy in combat.	30	10
	Pyre Ball II	Increases the damage of your Pyre Ball.	33	11
	Pyre Ball II	Pyre Ball now inflicts burning on all enemies.	36	12
	Pyre Ball IV	Those who survive your Pyre Ball are now staggered and dazed, suffering Attack down for three turns.	40	13
	Pyre Ball V	Your Pyre Ball now ignores (but does not remove) all armor and shields on your enemies.	40	14

Perks

Look to the end of the perks for those most valuable to the Mage. Power Bottom allows you to recover PP each time you perform a magic attack with your weapon, and Healing Wind allows you to recover HP each time you perform a magic attack with your weapon. Anything that gives you power points is a good thing; hence, invest in Apprentice to increase your max PP by 20 percent. Since you'll be inflicting effects on opponents frequently, Lasting Impression works for you, as your status effects now last a turn longer. Mana is a Mage's best friend, so why not invest in Counterfart and put that mana to good use with killer farts that deliver more damage than a weapon counterattack.

Gear

The Fire Wand unlocks the power of fire via an easily manipulated childproof safety switch. On a Perfect Attack, drop Combustion on your foes and they'll keep burning and burning. You also gain three PP for each Perfect Attack that strikes a burning target. Embrace your inner pyromaniac and suit up with the Mage's Robe of Might. Sure, you gain 20 armor for two turns after a magic attack, but, more important, you increase all your fire damage by 10 percent. A Mage's best defense is more offense.

Combat Tactics

All battle scenarios assume you're not taking on two clowns that can barely tie their shoes. Just use Perfect Attack and Perfect Block to crush that competition. The battle scenarios that follow give you tips for fighting bosses, mini-bosses, and annoying opponents that require more finesse and greater firepower.

Battle Scenario 1: Melee

You're better at ranged attacks, so it's better to avoid melee with Dust of Dreams. Spray the white stuff to distract your opponents, then consume them with your awesome power. Against a heavily armored opponent, melt off armor with a Lightning Volt or three. Given a choice of melee targets, generally you want to pound the one with fewer hit points. If you can drop an enemy, they can't counterattack, which means less damage you have to withstand. If you know a target has a deadly special ability, then that foe should become the priority.

Battle Scenario 2: Ranged

When you can reach the enemies in the back row, there are a few more decisions to make during combat. You rarely fight four or more foes, so the defended enemy (one not able to be hit by melee) will be your ranged target. As a Mage, you are built to hose enemies with ranged damage; pile on Pyre Ball and Dragon's Breath, or stop opponents cold with Funnel of Frost. It's also possible to harass enemies by striking a foe with a single ranged attack to stack on a negative effect (say, Funnel of Frost III for a Defense Down penalty) or to add an increased-damage effect such as burning. While you switch to other enemies in the battle, the ranged foe continues to take damage.

Battle Scenario 3: Multiple Targets

Once you have the proper gear, you should beat almost any group of two opponents. Battling three or four opponents gets tricky; most of the time you need to break out some of your multiple-target abilities to kill off more than one enemy at a time if you want to survive. All your Mage abilities have the potential for multiple strikes, but it's Dragon's Breath, Lightning Volt, Funnel of Frost that you can consistently rely on to hit groups. At higher levels, you can bring Pyre Ball into the mix and really hold a barbecue block party for all invited enemies.

Battle Scenario 4: All Out

Your ultimate attack chain, assuming you have enough power points, goes something like this: Dust of Dreams, Dragon's Breath or Lightning Volt, followed by Funnel of Frost. Dust of Dreams, if performed correctly, stuns your opponent (or two if you've upgraded to Dust of Dreams IV). While your enemies are out of the fight momentarily, level serious damage on them with Dragon's Breath or Lightning Volt against armored adversaries. Continue with Funnel of Frost to deal more damage and slow down any future enemy attacks. Repeat the process until you run out of PP, and under this cycle your enemies will be lucky to have enough time to pick their nose, let alone race across the battlefield and get their hands dirty.

Classes
Thief

Strengths

Weaknesses

You love to penetrate your enemy's defenses and come from behind. Someone's trash—rotten eggs—is your treasure, and so are the trinkets you steal with a good mugging. You sharpen your blade on opponents' razor stubble and dull it on their throats. You're the rogue of the bunch, the Thief, the class that slips out of the shadows to knife an enemy.

Why Choose This Class

If you like to play stealthily and steal from the downtrodden, you've picked the right class. The Thief can execute with the best of them, but he also has more tricks than a bat-shaped utility belt. Whether backstabbing from the darkness or calling on your shadowy network to overwhelm your foes, the Thief ambushes, pummels, then disappears quickly so as not to wrinkle his shirt.

Special Abilities

You can poke, you can prod, or you can Gross Out opponents with a handful of rotten eggs. At high levels, you can call for genocide with the Death of a Thousand Cuts; at low levels, you'll have to rely on a solid backstab or execution.

Backstab

Sneak behind a foe in the back row and slip a knife between ribs five and six. Backstab deals heavy damage and, if you inflict a Perfect Attack, adds bleeding to your foe as well. Backstab II increases damage, and Backstab III deals extra damage for every stack of bleeding on the target. To heap two stacks of bleeding on your opponent, perform a little Backstab IV, and if you really want to be an asshole, deal extra damage to slowed or stunned enemies with Backstab V.

Mug

Shuffle behind your opponent with Mug and steal an item. If you execute this perfectly, then punch your foe in the face to complete the experience. Mug II increases damage, while Mug III swipes a random beneficial effect from your target on a successful steal attempt. Mug IV mimics Steal Advantage, though you gain HP from a successful steal attempt. To increase the duration of the possible stun effect on Mug, upgrade to Mug V.

Execute

Sling your daggers at your opponent from the air with Execute to remove armor and shields. Execute II increases damage, and Execute III deals even more damage to stunned targets. With a nasty name like Execute IV, you know it's gotta be bad, and it is—the target bleeds out all over when you inflict damage. When you feel like going on a Execute V, knock out an enemy with Execute and you'll gain two actions on your next turn with the haste effect.

Stink Bombs

Toss rotten eggs at your target, both removing beneficial effects and causing Gross Out. Deliver a Perfect Attack with Stink Bombs and you throw more eggs. Stink Bombs II increases damage, and Stink Bombs III increases the number of stink bombs thrown. Piss off enemies and make them forget to use their special abilities with Stink Bombs IV, and Stink Bombs V just dumps the whole egg carton on your enemy, splattering everyone nearby for extra damage.

Death of a Thousand Cuts

It's ambush time with a Death of a Thousand Cuts. Call on your shadowy network to teleport in and slash away at your foes for major damage with bleeding. Death of a Thousand Cuts II increases damage, and Death of a Thousand Cuts III distracts your opponents and causes an Attack Down effect on each one. Death of a Thousand Cuts IV reduces the cost of all your Death of a Thousand Cuts abilities, and Death of a Thousand Cuts V heals you up on each successful hit.

Thief Special Abilities

Backstab
	Backstab I	Slips it into the last enemy in a row, dealing heavy damage and, if done successfully, bleeding as well.	6	1
	Backstab II	Increases the damage of your Backstab attacks.	8	2
	Backstab III	Backstab now deals extra damage for every stack of bleeding on the target!	10	3
	Backstab IV	Successful Backstabs now inflict two stacks of bleeding.	12	4
	Backstab V	Stunned targets take additional damage.	12	5
Mug
	Mug I	Steals something from a foe if done perfectly, then punches them in the face to complete the experience. Deals smash damage.	11	2
	Mug II	Increases the damage of your Mug attacks.	14	2
	Mug III	Successful stealing attempts now swipe a random beneficial status effect from your target.	18	3
	Mug IV	When you successfully steal from an enemy, you also restore a few extra hit points.	23	4
	Mug V	Increases the duration of the stun inflicted by Mug.	0	5
Execute
	Execute I	Pummel an enemy with a flying barrage of armor-piercing and shield-smashing weaponry.	12	5
	Execute II	Inflict more damage with your finishing strike!	12	6
	Execute III	Inflict extra damage against stunned targets.	12	7
	Execute IV	Savor the violence and gain Attack Up after a perfect success.	12	8
	Execute V	Take another action if Execute knocks out your target.	12	9
Stink Bombs
	Stink Bombs I	Toss rotten eggs at your target, causing Gross Out and removing beneficial status effects. Throws more eggs when done perfectly.	16	8
	Stink Bombs II	Increases the damage inflicted by each stink bomb.	17	9
	Stink Bombs III	Increases the number of stink bombs thrown per turn.	18	10
	Stink Bombs IV	Your stink bombs cause enemies hit to become Pissed Off, focusing on you and forgetting to use their abilities!	19	11
	Stink Bombs V	Throws the rest of the carton at an enemy when done perfectly, splattering them and everyone nearby for extra damage!	19	12
Death of a Thousand Cuts
	Death of a Thousand Cuts I	Call on your shadowy network of thieves to ambush your foes with a barrage of attacks, each causing bleeding if done perfectly.	30	10
	Death of a Thousand Cuts II	Increases the damage of each hit delivered by Death of a Thousand Cuts.	33	11
	Death of a Thousand Cuts III	All enemies ambushed by Death of a Thousand Cuts are distracted and thrown off balance, suffering Attack Down.	36	12
	Death of a Thousand Cuts IV	You can more readily call on your shadowy agents, reducing the PP cost of this ability.	25	13
	Death of a Thousand Cuts V	Each successful hit now restores some HP.	25	14

Perks

Because you'll be making people bleed—a lot—Bloodlust matches nicely with main abilities. You inflict additional damage on enemies with bleeding and take less damage from bleeding enemies. To further increase your damage dealing, take Mauler for extra damage with your melee weapon and Sucker Punch for extra damage with your strike each combat. How can you not take a perk with the name Violence Solves Everything? Each time you KO a foe, you remove a debuff and keep yourself in tiptop fighting shape for the next moron.

Gear

What better to shave your opponents with than the Master Razor. This relic from an ancient war deals four strikes of serious damage, as well as penetrating 50 enemy armor and causing Bleeding on a Perfect Attack. It also looks cooler than a Gnome Pickaxe. You can't leave home without your mysterious hood and tripping-hazard cloak, so pick up the standard issue Thief's Armor of Absorption when you want to exude sneaky. Aside from looking the part, the HP boost from the Bulky trait is a nice touch. Making this a combination of pain, the Vampirism trait will drain your freshly Bleeding enemies of their HP.

Combat Tactics

All battle scenarios assume you're not taking on two clowns that can barely tie their shoes. Just use Perfect Attack and Perfect Block to crush that competition. The battle scenarios that follow give you tips for fighting bosses, mini-bosses, and annoying opponents that require more finesse and greater firepower.

Battle Scenario 1: Melee

Go for the kill immediately with a Backstab. If your opponents don't die, they'll be bleeding all over the place. Against a foe with high HP, Mug first and hope to stun. Stunning an opponent takes them temporarily out of combat; you can deal damage to them, and they miss attacks on you. Against a heavily armored enemy, rain down daggers from up high with the armor-piercing, shield-smashing Execute. Given a choice of melee targets, generally you want to pound the one with fewer hit points. If you can drop an enemy, they can't counterattack, which means less damage you have to withstand. If you know a target has a deadly special ability, then that foe should become the priority.

It's also possible to harass enemies by striking a foe with a single ranged attack to stack on a negative effect (say, Stink Bombs' Gross Out effects, to prevent healing) or to add an increased-damage effect such as bleeding. While you switch to other enemies in the battle, the ranged foe continues to take damage.

Battle Scenario 3: Multiple Targets

Once you have the proper gear, you should beat almost any group of two opponents. Fighting three or four opponents gets tricky; most of the time you need to break out some of your multiple-target abilities to kill off more than one enemy at a time if you want to survive. The Thief's Stink Bombs will weaken multiple opponents, but it's your Death of a Thousand Cuts once you reach level 10 that will deliver major damage. At lower levels, you'll have to rely on your buddy to help you out with crowd control. Jimmy's Lullabye and Stan's Whirlwind Slash, or even Cartman's Flame Strike against the first two foes in a row, can make it much less likely you'll want to hide in the shadows for good.

Battle Scenario 4: All Out

Your ultimate attack chain, assuming you have enough power points, goes something like this: Mug, Backstab or Execute, Stink Bombs. Mug lets you steal an item before the kill and possibly stuns your opponent. Backstab should be your main attack against normal opponents to try and kill them quickly. Use Execute against foes with high armor or shields, then follow up with a Backstab when you see an opening. Stink Bombs will Piss Off opponents and prevent them from using special abilities and lay Gross Out on them to prevent healing. If you need more damage, add Death of a Thousand Cuts to the rotation before returning to another Mug or Backstab. Where the Fighter might break every bone in a foe's body, the Thief just carefully punctures the vital organs.

Strengths

Weaknesses

You are not afraid to cast the first stone with your secret martial arts. You perform circumcisions with precision and won't shy from summoning a mix of pestilence, fiery hail, flying insects, or a rain of frogs to send your opponent back to their maker.

Why Choose This Class

If you like to dazzle opponents with your sling and scythe and plagues, you've picked the right class. The Jew does a little bit of everything well—melee, ranged, multiple targeting—though doesn't deal as much damage as the other classes' specialties. If you're perfect with your sling, you can max out damage, or self-inflict damage if you aren't. On the other hand, your Jew-Jitsu might just be the most powerful ability in the game. Don't underestimate the Jew.

Special Abilities

You can melee, you can hit foes at range, you can confuse them with a dreidel. At lower levels you have to get by with hands and sling, though once you get up to scythe and plagues, the whole joint will be jumpin'—mostly with frogs.

Sling of David

Begin by mastering the Sling of David, though be careful when you reach level 3's Sling of David III. Yes, you force enemies to stop using abilities and they gain the Attack Down status effect, but they also get Pissed Off and focus solely on you. Sling of David II increases damage, and Sling of David IV bounces your sling bullet to a random other target. When you're getting low on HP, Sling of David V deals even more sling damage.

Jew-Jitsu

Max out this ability as soon as possible! At level 2, Jew-Jitsu pummels your foe with a stunning strike, followed by extra damage with Jew-Jitsu II. Jew-Jitsu III deals even more damage when you Perfect Attack on your wound status, then Jew-Jitsu IV activates on a successful hit and prevents your opponent's next attack. At the top of the chain, Jew-Jitsu V gives you haste on a Perfect Attack.

Circum-Scythe

Against opponents with armor and shields, the Circum-Scythe cuts away excess defenses and excess balls. Circum-Scythe II increases your Whirling Doom attack damage, and Whirling Doom III bounces the dreidel more times. On a Perfect Attack, Whirling Doom IV removes all your negative status effects. Once you reach Whirling Doom V, you get to add a burning effect to your damage.

Plagues of Egypt

Call down the frogs and fiery hail as Plagues of Egypt delivers woe unto all your enemies. Plagues of Egypt II delivers more damage. When you curse your foes with pestilence or fiery hail through Plagues of Egypt III, you and your buddy gain Attack Up, but when you curse your foes with frogs or flying insects through Plagues of Egypt IV, you and buddy gain Ability Up. Best of all, Plagues of Egypt V allows you to visit a fourth plague upon the wicked during your turn.

Jew Special Abilities

Sling of David
	Sling of David I	Casts the first stone at any enemy. Deals more damage if done perfectly, but can lead to self-injury if done improperly.	6	1
	Sling of David II	Increases the damage of your Sling of David.	8	2
	Sling of David III	Causes enemies to stop using abilities and focus on you—enemies suffer Pissed Off and Attack Down status effects.	10	3
	Sling of David IV	Your sling attacks now bounce to a random additional target.	12	4
	Sling of David V	With this upgrade, your Sling of David attacks inflict extra damage as your hit points decrease.	12	5
Jew-Jitsu
	Jew-Jitsu I	Utilizes a secret Jewish martial art to pummel your target with a stunning strike.	12	2
	Jew-Jitsu II	Increases the damage dealt by your Jew-Jitsu attacks.	14	2
	Jew-Jitsu III	On a perfect success, your stunning punch now deals bonus damage based on your missing HP.	17	3
	Jew-Jitsu IV	After a successful attack, you are now protected by a divine shield that completely stops the next hit.	22	4
	Jew-Jitsu V	Take another action if Jew-Jitsu knocks out your target.	22	5
Circum-Scythe
	Circum-Scythe I	Slices off the armor and shields of your target while inflicting bleeding damage to a sensitive area.	11	5
	Circum-Scythe II	Increases the damage of your Circum-Scythe attacks.	14	6
	Circum-Scythe III	On a perfect success, Circum-Scythe now inflicts two stacks of bleeding.	18	7
	Circum-Scythe IV	Circum-Scythe now inflicts Defense Down.	23	8
	Circum-Scythe V	Your Circum-Scythe attack now leaves all other enemies Grossed Out.	23	9
Whirling Doom
	Whirling Doom I	Sends your dreidel bouncing between random enemies, stripping away beneficial status effects from alienemies hit.	16	8
	Whirling Doom II	In case of emergency, your dreidel may be used as a rotation device, dealing more damage with each bounce.	17	9
	Whirling Doom III	Studying ancient scrolls has improved your technique, causing your dreidel to bounce more times.	18	10
	Whirling Doom IV	On a perfect success, Whirling Doom now removes all negative status effects on the Neve Kid.	19	11
	Whirling Doom V	The epic spin of your dreidel now summons a prophet of old, inflicting burning with its holy power.	19	12
Plagues of Egypt
	Plagues of Egypt I	Summon a mix of pestilence, fiery hail, frogs, and flying insects and deliver woe unto all your enemies.	30	10
	Plagues of Egypt II	Sinners beware; your plagues now inflict more damage.	33	11
	Plagues of Egypt III	Each time you visit pestilence or fiery hail upon your foes, you and your buddy gain Attack Up.	36	12
	Plagues of Egypt IV	Each time you visit frogs or flying insects upon your foes, you and your buddy gain Ability Up.	40	13
	Plagues of Egypt V	You may visit an additional plague upon the wicked during your turn.	40	14

Perks

If you plan on using the more expensive abilities on your Sling of David, invest in Griefer, which inflicts extra damage on Pissed Off foes and also decreases the damage they do. Since you already like slinging stones and throwing dreidels, Marksman will increase damage from any other ranged attacks you choose to get your hands on. If your play style is risky and you want to take on extra damage to increase your Sling of David V and Jew-Jitsu III, pick up Fight or Flight so your attacks do increased damage when you are critically injured.

Gear

If you want to go for the orthodox Jew look, don the Holy Yarmulke, Holy Robes, and Holy Ring. Now you're ready for a dust-up in a back alley, or maybe just Passover supper at Uncle Shmulz's. Depending on your play style, you'll want to adapt your weapons accordingly. The Jewish Staff is solid at low level, while the Sica Dagger of the Faithful is better at higher levels. For a prize of biblical portions, arm yourself with the Morningstar of David, the holiest and heaviest of relics.

Combat Tactics

All battle scenarios assume you're not taking on two clowns that can barely tie their shoes. Just use Perfect Attack and Perfect Block to crush that competition. The battle scenarios that follow give you tips for fighting bosses, mini-bosses, and annoying opponents that require more finesse and greater firepower.

Battle Scenario 1: Melee

Jew-Jitsu the shih tzu out of your opponents! Stun your foe with the standard chop, activate your divine shield, then gain haste for the win! Against a heavily armored enemy, Circum-Scythe and stack more damage and effects up the chain to Circum-Scythe IV. Given a choice of melee targets, generally you want to pound the one with fewer hit points. A dropped enemy can't counterattack, which means less damage you have to withstand. If you know a target has a deadly special ability, then that foe should become the priority.

Battle Scenario 2: Ranged

When you can reach the enemies in the back row, there are a few more decisions to make during combat. You rarely fight four or more foes, so the defended enemy (one not able to be hit by melee) will be your ranged target. Generally, ranged weapons deal less damage than melee weapons—though you can rely on your special ranged abilities for higher damage totals—but it's worth concentrating on ranged foes to remove them from the fight if they have potent abilities (particularly those that raise the dead). It's also possible to harass enemies by striking a foe with a single ranged attack to stack on a negative effect (say, Gross Out, to prevent healing) or to add an increased-damage effect such as burning or bleeding. While you switch to other enemies in the battle, the ranged foe continues to take damage.

Battle Scenario 3: Multiple Targets

Once you have the proper gear, you should beat almost any group of two opponents. Battling three or four opponents gets tricky; most of the time you need to break out some of your multiple-target abilities to kill off more than one enemy at a time if you want to survive. The Jew's Circum-Scythe will Gross Out enemies if you're up to Circum-Scythe V, Whirling Doom strips away effects and inflicts burning if you're up to Whirling Doom V, but Plagues of Egypt is your real crowd-pleaser with damage and negative effects for everyone.

Battle Scenario 4: All Out

Your ultimate attack chain, assuming you have enough power points, goes something like this: Jew-Jitsu, Circum-Scythe or Sling of David, Jew-Jitsu. First stun your opponent (and hopefully gain a divine shield and haste) with Jew-Jitsu. Next, cut through enemy armor with Circum-Scythe or use Sling of David (with Sling of David III) if your buddy is getting low on HP. Repeat the process to keep the enemy ineffective while you rack up damage. Throw in a Whirling Doom to wipe out harmful effects or Plagues of Egypt when you need to hose a whole bunch of enemies at once. You can really mow down enemies as a matzo-chomping, Star of David-wearing Mossad wannabe.

Buddies & Bastards

Buddies: Butters

Best Combat Quotes

"You gave it your best shot, and that's all Jesus asks of you."

"I know where we can get some creamy goo that will probably make a good health potion."

"I could use some goddamn poon tang right now."

"Sometimes my dad goes on road trips just to check out all the rest stops."

"Please don't ice me, homie."

Description: Butters is a paladin, a noble warrior of pure heart and mind. His holy power can smite the wicked and heal the wounded. And when his skills as a paladin aren't enough, he also has the power of his alter-ego, Professor Chaos. Outside of combat, Butters can be commanded to heal injured allies.

Unlocked: Day 1, Kupa Keep, "Call the Banners" quest

Specialization: Taunting to prevent damage to you and combat healing

Command Ability: Heal certain allies to complete quest objectives

Melee Tactics: As a Born Victim, Butters is the perfect punching bag to your Perfect Attacks. You generally want enemies going after your buddy more than you 'cause you should be able to out-damage your buddy in a fight. If you can't, you might want to forget ass kicker for the moment and work toward pastry chef. Against armored targets, Butters can break out the Hammer of Justice and bust the skull of a single melee foe.

Ranged Tactics: Butters hammers foes, not with the blunt end of a weapon, but by sizzling an entire row with Hammer of Storm's lightning. Think front row versus back row when you use this ability. You may want to sear the front-row foes for damage, or you may want to save the blast for the back-row opponents that threaten you with ranged attacks or annoying special abilities. Most of the time, aim for the row that has the most adversaries.

Multiple-Opponents Tactics: Spin the wheel of destruction in the guise of Professor Chaos. However, being an evil genius ain't all it's cracked out to be. You've got to rain down lightning and channel life-draining beams and let loose with chaos blasts all in the name of devastation. It's all perfectly respectable, though, if you can turn your opponents' asses to ash.

Special Abilities

Ability	Description	PowerPoints	Level Unlocked
Born Victim	Butters is just so innocent he naturally makes people want to punch him. Enemies are twice as likely to attack him in combat.	0	0
Hammer of Justice	Butters hurls his hammer at a single melee target, making them Pissed Off. Great against armor too.	7	0
Hammer of Storms	Butters smites all enemies in a column with massive shock damage.	9	0
Professor Chaos	Butters transforms into the evil genius Professor Chaos and unleashes a random devastating attack.	15	6

The Wheel of Chaos

Butters' best ability transforms him into the super-buff Professor Chaos with five different abilities that you select from a spinning Wheel of Chaos. Time it right and you can choose from these five powers:

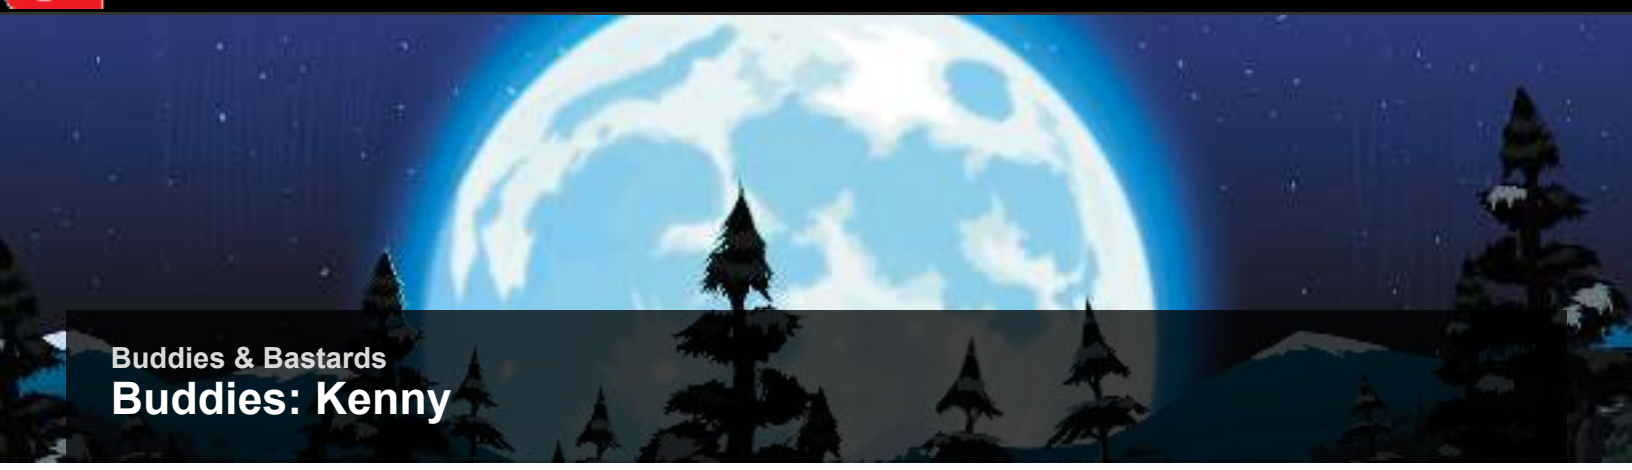
Chaos Storm!: Zap up to four random targets in the area with energy bolts that make electroshock therapy feel like a feathery tickle.

Hammer of Chaos!: Summons a big frickin' hammer charged with enough electricity to power a city block—scratch that—how 'bout a whole city.

Life Drain!: Suck the life out of your opponents and into you. Sucks to be them.

Chaos Blast!: Bathe enemies in a mega-wattage energy blast from your hands. Complete incineration is the goal.

Chaos Cloak!: Throws up a defensive bubble around both party members with 9 shields.



Buddies & Bastards

Buddies: Kenny

Best Combat Quote

"Mm mrmm mmmmm!"

Description: Kenny is the fairest maiden of the land, or at least that's how he wants to be known. In addition to being unable to stay dead for long, Kenny is an expert archer and capable of royal magic. Kenny can be commanded to flash his royal breasts—distracting enemies in and out of battle—and, even better, he gets back up after dying!

Unlocked: Day 1, When freeing Craig in "Detention Sentence"

Specialization: Gross Out kiss and the ability to charm creatures

Command Ability: Flashes breasts to distract opponents

Melee Tactics: There are few things grosser than being French kissed by a dude in a blonde wig who never takes off his parka—just saying. When Kenny plants a big smooch on a foe, they're one shade greener than pea soup and one "that's not a pea" thought away from projectile vomit. Opponents with Gross Out succumb to your beatings much more readily, almost happily, rather than face off with Kenny again.

Ranged Tactics: Cupid's arrows never hurt so much. Kenny fires in volleys of three and can pincushion those that stand back and spurn his effeminate wiles. If you don't have a potent ranged weapon, especially early in the game when you have minimal gear, Kenny can serve as your Robin Hood…or is that Maid Marian?

Multiple-Opponents Tactics: Swarming was never so much fun! Sic a furry horde of rats on your opponents and watch them squirm. If your foes aren't the squirmy type—or maybe they're vermin themselves—try riding a magical one-horned beast into combat and piercing all your opponents' defenses.

Special Abilities

Ability	Description	PowerPoints	Level Unlocked
Charm	Kenny distracts enemies with his royal presence.	0	0
Furry Friends	Kenny charms creatures of nature with his beauty and sends them against foes.	12	0
Royal Kiss	Kenny plants a kiss on enemies to catch them completely off-guard. Grosses Out the target.	5	0
Unicorn Stampede	Kenny summons a magical unicorn to trample a row of enemies!	14	6

Royal Kiss

A kiss from Kenny can leave opponents on their hands and knees wishing for a paper bag and a breath mint. You have to time the kiss just right, though—when the word "Kiss" flashes on your screen. If you do, your opponent can kiss his insides goodbye. If you miss, Kenny realizes what he's doing and grosses himself out too.

Buddies & Bastards

Buddies: Jimmy

Best Combat Quotes

"Here's a little ditty that'll make your pants shitty."

"So apparently the plague's going around. Have you seen this? You heard about this? Yeah, I hear it's spread by rats and by the Wizard King's m-m-m-mom."

"That all you g-got?"

"Do you like the taste of salted pork rump in your m-mouth."

"All the world's a stage, and it's time you got the hook."

Description: Jimmy is a bard—a master musician and entertainer who can bring boons to his allies and curses to his foes. Outside of battle, Jimmy can be commanded to open special access shortcuts.

Unlocked: Day 2, Elven Kingdom, before "Attack the School" quest

Specialization: Buffs and debuffs

Command Ability: Access handicapped areas

Melee Tactics: Jimmy's not your guy for fisticuffs. He might be able to whap somebody over the head; it just won't do much damage. He's much better with a crossbow or keeping your opponents down than beating them up.

Ranged Tactics: If you count weakening your opponent's knees or putting them to sleep as an "attack," then Jimmy is more able than kids twice his size with half his disabilities. Slim down your foes with Jimmy's Song of Buffness or rock out to a Power Chord and absorb more PP to roll out your abilities longer—Jimmy operates best on his crutches, safely away from the clutching and grabbing.

Multiple-Opponents Tactics: Jimmy's sleep-inducing Lullabye is a nightmare for your opponents and a dream come true for you. When enemies take a snooze, they can't attack you and you can unload freely on them. Wake up to the potential of this powerhouse.

Special Abilities

Ability	Description	Power Points	Level Unlocked
Song of Buffness	Jimmy sings a song that weakens enemies while making your party stronger.	9	0
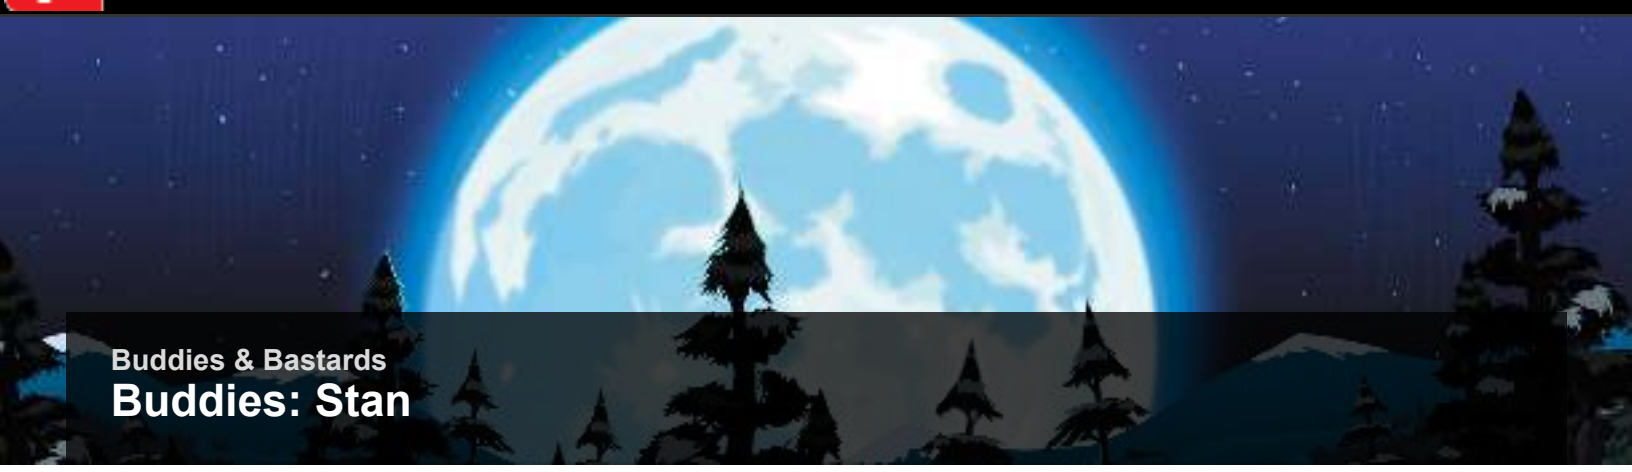
Lullabye	Jimmy sings enemies to sleep, preventing them from taking turns until they take damage or wake up naturally.	14	0
Brown Note	Playing the dreaded brown note will loosen the bowels of all who hear it.	18	10

Lullabye Notes

Nap time for your enemies is a beautiful, peaceful sight. There's nothing better than watching foes' eyes flutter and each of them conk out—and all you have to do is walk up and clobber them. But it's not as easy as singing a note or two—you have to press the matching buttons as they stream across your musical bar. Don't doze while Jimmy's crooning or he'll be singing the blues



Buddies & Bastards

Buddies: Stan

Best Combat Quotes

"I think my mom did a pretty sweet job with my costume."

"Walked right into that, huh?"

"You mind if I update my status while we're waiting here?"

"Dude, my injuries are super grievous right now."

"You hit like my grandpa."

Description: Stan follows the way of the warrior, relying on the sharpness of his wits and sword. Stan's trusty animal companion, Sparky, can be called into battle or commanded to pee on certain obstacles.

Unlocked: Day 2, Elven Kingdom, before "Attack the School" quest

Specialization: Sparky

Command Ability: Get Sparky to pee on certain objects

Melee Tactics: Stan is built for melee. His sword takes chunks out of opponents' sides, and if he needs assistance, a whistle call brings Sparky into the fray to chomp on a foe's crotch with Marked for Death. For maximum carnage, choose Stan's Way of the Sword and watch him swing and swing and swing at a single enemy.

Ranged Tactics: Rome is known for lions eating Christians, for orgies, and maybe even for what Stan tosses around the battlefield: the discus. Stan's tribute to an Olympic sport has him slinging a discus with the strength of Hercules and the accuracy of your busy thumb. Nail the release and you can chain your discus throw to strike multiple, random targets.

Multiple-Opponents Tactics: Sure, Stan's discus may clip other opponents, but it's unreliable. When you want to inflict bodily harm on multiple foes, draw out his sword and go for Whirlwind Slash. A spinning Cuisinart, Stan chops up foes like ground-up beef, bones and all.

Special Abilities

Ability	Description	Power Points	Level Unlocked
Marked for Death	Stan shines his Laser Pointer of the Ranger on the target's crotch, sending Sparky to attack.	0	0
Discus of Might	Stan hurls a deadly disc at the target. This disc can chain to random targets.	4	0
Whirlwind Slash	This spinning sword attack hits multiple foes.	10	0
Way of the Sword	Stan channels his inner action hero and attacks an enemy with a flurry of blows.	15	11

Sparky

Stan's faithful hound Sparky is always one whistle—and one over-enlarged bladder—away from coming to your aid. Outside of combat, you can command Stan to summon Sparky and spray urine on select objects (for example making an electrified puddle bigger). During combat, Stan's Laser Pointer of the Ranger marks an opponent's crouch and Sparky is more than happy to have sausage for dinner.

Buddies & Bastards

Buddies: Cartman

Best Combat Quotes

"Buttplug!"

"I could go for some fried chicken skin right now."

"I'll make you eat your parents."

"Go home you little semen-puking, asshole, dickhead."

"Never send a Jew elf to do a Wizard King's job."

Description: Cartman is the Grand Wizard of the Kingdom of Kupa Keep and a master of the arcane and the profane. Cartman wields tremendous magical power—his ass and mouth are both capable of devastating spells.

Unlocked: Day 3, Elven Kingdom, "Forging Alliances" quest

Specialization: Flaming ass attacks

Command Ability: None

Melee Tactics: No one wants to see Cartman's ass, especially opponents. When he ignites his spewing gas from Burning Cloud, flames sear the nearest enemy if you continue to pound on the combat button. Fail to expel enough ass vapor? Beat people over the head with Cartman's staff attack, which can strike multiple times.

Ranged Tactics: Disturb opponents with Cartman's "magic missile," probably grabbed straight off the women's hygiene shelf, or worse, out of the trash. It uses the fewest power points, so you can blast this off and easily spray fire or obscenities in your foes' direction, too.

Multiple-Opponents Tactics: Get two foes for the price of one! Flame Strike burns the first two foes in a row and leaves them crispy for the grill. Add barbecue sauce for that extra spice.

Special Abilities

Ability	Description	Power Points	Level Unlocked
Burning Cloud	Cartman ignites his flatulence, with explosive results.	10	0
Flame Strike	Cartman sprays the first two foes in a row with fire. Targets start burning if done perfectly.	6	0
Curse	Cartman activates his v-chip and curses up a storm of electricity against a single target.	16	13

Cartman Curses

Cartman's ultimate ability, naturally, centers on his foul mouth. Make that his really foul mouth. When you choose Cartman's Curse ability, you can mash any one of your buttons. Try a different button each time you use it for a new slew of curses, from "Christian!" to "Spastic colon!" to "Shriveled sack!"

Buddies & Bastards

Buddies: Kyle

Best Combat Quotes

"Time for a little rumble in the jungle."

"This staff's great for walking AND for beating people's brains in."

"Kick the baby!"

"I hope this alliance can last."

"I still don't get how CARTMAN got you to think he was cool."

Description: Kyle is the king of the elves, bravely leading them against tyranny, ignorance, and Cartman. Kyle employs nature magic, as well as the ability to call on his elven allies for temporary assistance.

Unlocked: Day 3, Elven Kingdom, "Forging Alliances" quest

Specialization: Rallying your party and harassing enemy groups

Command Ability: None

Melee Tactics: Kyle takes a hands-off approach to melee. He can smack someone with a golf ball if you want or you can smear your opponent with a bouncing spirit from the frozen north—uh, Kyle's baby brother Ike—but both can bring the smackdown from range.

Ranged Tactics: Fore! Golf is Kyle's sport, and his shaft of choice is an iron club over wood driver any day. Kyle loves to drop a golf ball and swing a wedge for that hole in one…of your opponents.

Multiple-Opponents Tactics: Hey, anyone who has an army of elves in his back pocket is pretty cool in our book. Kyle can call on his elven friends to blacken the skies with arrows for ranged damage against all enemies in sight. Umbrellas don't do squat against it.

Special Abilities

Ability	Description	Power Points	Level Unlocked
Rally	Rallies your party for combat.	0	0
Windstorm	Summons fierce winds to blow debris into foes' eyes.	15	0
Summon Elemental	Calls forth a spirit from the frozen north to attack enemies.	8	0
Rain of Arrows	Blackens the skies with arrows of the mighty elven army.	16	13

Kick the Baby!

And you thought Gross Out effects were bad? Kyle plays a round of "Kick the Baby!" with little Ike and lets him fly at a target opponent when you use Summon Elemental. Press the correct button when it flashes to launch a 20-pound human bomb at your foe—and the bomb, we're guessing, is less TNT and more loaded diaper.

Welcome to South Park
Introduction

South Park is a big place for a small kid like you. Your block holds a crapload of excitement—and annoying little elves—and if you scour the neighborhood you'll find enough social networking friends to put everyone to shame, while loading up on loot until your underwear sags. Once you start going on quests, you'll discover important landmarks, from Kenny's house to Jimbo's Guns to the underground sewers. Whenever you reach the edge of the map you'll encounter the Lost Forest, which lives up to its name—and you'll have to figure out how to get un-lost if you ever want to reach the Great Kingdom to the North, a.k.a. Canada.

Here's an overview of what to expect in each map area. Simply scan the South Park map poster for a numbered area and look up the numbered area in the text for points of interest and tips on how to maximize your experience in that area. At least school taught you to read maps, right?

Welcome to South Park

1. Lost Forest

Points of Interest

- Blood Orgy (12 friends)
- Canada (if you continue north)
- The farm (if you continue south)

What You Can Find Here

The Lost Forest surrounds the South Park map. Basically, if you try to exit the town, you end up in the Lost Forest. If you turn around immediately, you're back to your previous destination. If, however, you begin to wander in the woods, well, you get lost. Going right and left in the woods leads to an endless loop of forest scene after forest scene, randomly selected for your viewing pleasure.

When you want to exit the Lost Forest and head into town, keep going south. Eventually, you will leave the woods and end up on the farm. One more step south leads you to U-Stor-It.

In Day 3, you will need to find the Great Kingdom to the North: Canada. Once inside the Lost Forest (any location), keep going north. Eventually, you will run into the Canadian border. If you have your passport, you can pass through into Canada; otherwise, you'll be turned away. See the Day 3 walkthrough chapter for more details.

Getting lost in the forest can lead to unexpected surprises, like running in circles and seeing the same bridge over and over again (bad) or running into Ferocious Wild Dogs (worse).

Want an even bigger surprise and the collection of the most social networking friends in the game? Try wandering in the following pattern: right, up, right, down, and right. You will stumble upon a dozen critters standing next to a decorated Christmas tree. These cuddly creatures are all smiles and only want to save your soul. If you accept the one true Lord as your personal savior and renounce all others as false idols, you'll be cleansed and gain 12 new social networking friends: Beary, Rabbity, Skunky, Beavery, Mousey, Squirrely, Deery, Woodpeckery, Porcupiney, Foxy, Chickadee-y, and Raccoony. It's a great deal, with only one small catch: The one true Lord is Satan, not Jesus. If you want to be all religious about it and refuse the offer, you'll be friendless and can go find your own cross to martyr yourself on.

2. Skeeter's Bar and Cocktails

Points of Interest

- Mr. McCormick (friend)
- Skeeter (friend)
- Flowerpotamus (Chinpokomon)
- Rats in the Cellar side quest
- Bartender (friend)

What You Can Find Here

Skeeter’s establishment is the last restaurant on the block, right next to the Lost Forest. You can make three friends here and pick up the side quest “Rats in the Cellar.”

Look for Mr. McCormick drunk in a pile of garbage left of the sign. Destroy the garbage to free and friend him.

Enter the bar and talk to Skeeter in the flashy pink shirt. He doesn’t take kindly to your kind, but he makes an exception because it’s just one of you. He signs up as a friend as well.

Take aim on the back wall and knock the Chinpokomon off the shelf. Pick it up to add Flowerpotamus to your collection.

Skeeter will also offer you a job: clean out his cellar full of rats. If you accept the “Rats in the Cellar” side quest, flip to the “Side Quests” chapter for complete details on how best to control pests. Complete the quest to befriend Skeeter and the bartender.

3. Jimbo's Gun

Points of Interest

- "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo" side quest
- Treasure chest via alien probe in shop
- Jimbo (friend)
- Ned (friend)

What You Can Find Here

The Jimbo's Guns shop sits between Skeeter's bar on the left and Restaurant Row on the right. There's nothing of interest outside Jimbo's Guns unless you're on the "Nonconformist" quest, in which case you'll find a bunch of hoodlums smoking in the alley.

Speak with Jimbo behind the counter and buy his Hunter's Guide to South Park Wildlife book ($3) to activate the "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo" side quest. Jimbo gives you some bizarre items to lure out dangerous creatures hidden around South Park, such as Fromunda Cheese to uncover the Penis Mouse or the Moldy Sausage to draw out the Rabid Junkyard Dog. See the "Side Quests" walkthrough section for details on each creature and its hidden location. Once you complete the side quest, Jimbo and Ned befriend you.

Once you have the alien probe and the key Jimbo gives you for completing the "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo" quest, you can go after the secret chest on the shelf. Teleport up to the shelf and open the chest for a little cash, the Axe of the Underworld, Grenade of Slowing, the Alaskan Whaler, a Turtle Patch, and a White Whale Patch, among other tidbits.

Jimbo's Guns

Item Type	Item	Level	Cost
Weapons	Warrior's Longsword	8	$12.00

4. City Wok

Points of Interest

- Mr. Kim (friend)
- Mongolian Beef side quest
- Miniature Gong

What You Can Find Here

You'll find City Wok on the western end of Restaurant Row. Other than elves occasionally wandering through hoping to give you a massive wedgie, the outside of City Wok is uneventful.

Head inside and speak with Mr. Kim at the counter. He sends you on the "Mongolian Beef" side quest to beat up the Mongolians' kids in the Tower of Peace next door; he's hoping that bit of intimidation will send them running for the hills and allow him to put out a whole-new, edible, non-Mongolian menu. After you speak with Mr. Kim, you can access the shop list and purchase consumables. After you complete the "Mongolian Beef" side quest, Mr. Kim befriends you and gives you the Miniature Gong, which you can use to summon Mr. Kim to your side in battle once a day. See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details.

City Wok Shop

Item Type	Item	Level	Cost
Consumables	Health Potion (Small)	1	$1.00
Consumables	Health Potion (Large)	1	$5.00
Consumables	Speed Potion	1	$2.00
Consumables	Cure Potion	1	$1.00
Consumables	Revive Potion	1	$3.00
Consumables	Strength Potion	1	$2.00
Consumables	Power Potion	1	$2.00

5. Tower of Peace

Points of Interest

- Brocorri (Chinpokomon)
- Quest objective for Mongolian Beef side quest
- Lambtron (Chinpokomon)
- Fast Travel Flag

What You Can Find Here

Outside the Tower of Peace sits a Fast Travel Flag, making this a convenient travel point when you want to access the northwest section of the map. There's also a frozen Chinpokomon. To free the Chinpokomon from its icy cage, stand next to the lantern and use Cup-a-Spell to blow open the lantern and douse the frozen Chinpokomon with a blast of fire. Now the thawed Brocorri is yours.

After you speak to Mr. Kim at City Wok and gain the "Mongolian Beef" side quest, you can enter the Tower of Peace. See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details on the quest. On the tower's second story, look for Lambtron to the far right. The Chinpokomon is trapped in a cage, and a single shot will bring the cage down and give you another prized collectable.

6. City Sushi

Points of Interest

- Treasure Chest

What You Can Find Here

It looks like there's nothing happening at City Sushi—police tape seals off a ruined restaurant that hasn't seen a paying customer since John Travolta in a white suit. However, crack open the stone slab on the left side of the door to reveal a small crack in the window pane. Use your Gnome Dust to shrink down and get inside.

Open the treasure chest inside the deserted City Sushi. You'll find a Topknot Wig, Katana Patch, and a Self Defense Patch among the spoiled sushi on the floor.

7. Mall

Points of Interest

- UFO (Day 1)
- Beetlebot (Chinpokomon)
- U.S. Government Facility (Day 2)
- Gunrilla (Chinpokomon)

What You Can Find Here

The South Park Mall is closed at the start of the game. Rumors circulate that it's getting bulldozed for a new Taco Bell. Fortunately for the mall, that's not the case. Unfortunately for the mall, a UFO crash lands on it at the end of Day 1. You can recover the Beetlebot Chinpokomon inside the UFO and find the Gunrilla Chinpokomon inside the government facility that's erected around the UFO after it drops out of the sky in Day 2. See the walkthrough sections for more details.

8. Dark Meadows Estate/Tokens House

Points of Interest

- "Gate Crasher" main quest
- Duffel bag (gate)
- Treasure chest (garage)
- Velocirapstar (Chinpokomon)
- Token (friend)
- Treasure chest (roof)
- Fast Travel Flag

What You Can Find Here

The “Gate Crasher” main quest in Day 1 sends you to the Dark Meadows estate. You’ll need the Gas Mask to avoid a lung full of mace from the security guard at the gate. See the Day 1 walkthrough section for complete details. Once you get past the security guard, rummage through the duffel bag behind the security checkpoint for a Revive Potion.

Next, head over to the garage, open it, and climb the ladder to the attic. Open the treasure chest here for the Friar Cap, Token Wig, and lots of other crap, like a Water Balloon and Barry Bonds Bat.

Note that you will need the alien probe to reach the second treasure chest on the roof. Return during Day 2 and use the alien probe to teleport from the attic to the roof. Smash the chimney at the far end to reveal the chest. Inside you’ll find the Squire Armor, Longflip Wig, and Wooden Grip.

Return to the ground and stand in front of the bushes to the left of the main door. Look up in the second-floor window and you’ll see a Chinpokomon resting on the windowsill. Shoot it down to recover Velocirapstar.

9. Bijou Theatre

Points of Interest

- Fatdactyl (Chinpokomon)
- Damien (friend)
- Backpack (inside theater)
- Duffel bag (inside theater)
- Al Gore (friend)
- ManBearPig side quest

What You Can Find Here

The ticket manager won't let you in to see "Asses of Fire 2" playing in the cinema, and you'll have to watch for loitering elves that want to mess you up, but Bijou Theatre holds several items of interest. The first—Fatdactyl the Chinpokomon—perches atop the ticket booth and can be brought down with a single shot. Once you have your collectable, enter the theater despite the manager's taunts that you're underage.

Inside the theater, speak with Damien, who sits closest to you all in black. He claims he's the Antichrist, which shouldn't bother you much 'cause he signs up as another social networking friend.

Next, circle around the seats and head down the opposite aisle to the front. Break the second front-row seat to reveal a backpack at the feet of a couple watching the film. Open the backpack for a bunch of junk, including 3D Glasses and an Asses of Fire 2 Poster.

About midway up the aisle, you can scoot two seats in and break a series of cracked chairs to find a hidden duffel bag behind an empty middle seat. Open the duffel bag for an 80's Action Hero Wig, 80's Action Shades, an Action Hero Badge, and a Power Potion, among other cheap items like Phil Collins' Oscar.

If you walk past the right side of the building, former V. P. Al Gore solicits you from the bushes at the corner of the theater. Approach and he automatically befriends you—emphatically letting you know what a privilege his friendship really is—while handing you the "ManBearPig" side quest. See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details. After you complete the first part of the "ManBearPig" side quest, Al Gore opens up a shop for your hunting pleasure.

10. Tweek Bros. Coffee

Points of Interest

- "Hot Coffee" main quest
- Terribovine (Chinpokomon)
- Backpack (inside store)
- Tweek (friend)
- Mr. Tweek (friend)
- Mrs. Tweek (friend)

What You Can Find Here

The "Hot Coffee" main quest will take you to the Tweek Bros. coffee shop as you attempt to recruit Tweek. See the Day 1 walkthrough text for befriending Tweek and getting him to join the Kingdom of Kupa Keep. After you gain your Gnome Dust power, you can fetch the Terribovine Chinpokomon outside the coffee shop. Shrink down to get under the bench and pick up the collectable. You can also pick up the Witch Hat and Gauntlet Patch inside a gnome bag under the bench.

Speak with Mr. Tweek at the counter. He will introduce you to Tweek in the back room; however, you can also get Mr. Tweek and Mrs. Tweek to sign up as friends once you have enough cash to buy their Speed Potion Ultra off the shop menu.

A crack in the cabinet on the far side of the shop can be exploited to expose a hidden cavity. Search the bookbag within for a Health Potion (Small) and two Striped Straws.

11. U-Stor-It

Points of Interest

- Quest objective for "Nonconformist" main quest
- Toolbox (inside truck)
- Quest objective for "Wasted Cache" side quest
- Ferasnarf (Chinpokomon)
- Duffel bag (inside Mackey's storage locker)
- Mackey's PO Box Key (inside Mackey's storage locker)
- General Disarray (friend inside Chaos Lair)
- Duffel bag (inside Chaos Lair)
- Refrigerator (inside Chaos Lair)
- Roo-Stor (Chinpokomon)
- Duffel bag (roof of Chaos Lair)
- Treasure chest (roof of Chaos Lair)
- Quest objective for "Unfriend Al Gore" side quest
- Fast Travel Flag

What You Can Find Here

U-Stor-It is a storage ground for miscellaneous quests and hidden items. Be sure to tag the Fast Travel Flag in front so you can return here easily and often.

The hobo vagrant outside is actually a street merchant. Talk to him for some interesting items, especially when you're on the "Nonconformist" quest and need the three Goth quest items.

Step up the boxes outside the back of the U-Stor-It truck to get inside. The Drunken Hobo and his Rabid Rats will attack you; get through them and you can unlock the toolbox for Yellow Orange Dye and some junk items.

To get past the closed gate, take the ramp up to the top of the garbage bin. Shoot the ladder on the billboard platform and it will release. Climb up the ladder, cross in front of the billboard, and climb down the second ladder to reach the U-Stor-It inner courtyard.

Head to the left and into the U-Stor-It office. Press the green "Unlock" button on the desk. This retracts the main gate so you can easily go in and out from now on.

Walk around to the back of the storage area. Storage locker 204 is Al Gore's, locker 221 is Mackey's, and locker 223 is the Chaos Lair.

Near the end of the "ManBearPig" side quest you'll gain Al Gore's Storage Key and can enter his locker site for the final confrontation.

You gain Mr. Mackey's key during the "Wasted Cache" side quest, which begins in the Community Center (map point 34). Use the key to open his storage area. Fire up at the Chinpokomon in the red bin on the top shelf and knock it down to the wooden planks. Chop away at the crap in the locker area until you can safely climb up the wooden ramps and reach Ferasnarf.

Use your alien probe to teleport over to the far right wooden plank. Open the duffel bag for the Wings Facepaint, Health Potion (Large), and Mackey's PO Box Key. You can take Mackey's PO Box Key to the Post Office (map point 21) and open the box for some personal belongings and a Small Battery.

Using the Chaos Lair Key from Butters' bedroom, enter the Chaos Lair for the greatest source of loot in the storage areas. After the lights come on, walk over and smash the cardboard box to gain access to the rest of the lair. Speak with General Disarray to gain another friend, though he will only befriend you if you're already friends with Dougie, who's outside Butters' house (map point 43). Search the duffel bag in the corner for cash, some junk items, and Butters' Squirrel Nose, and open the refrigerator for a Speed Potion and some other minor items.

Climb the ladder past the fridge and shoot down the Chinpokomon atop the air duct. Nab Roo-Stor and enter the air duct. Climb the ladder up to the roof.

Head left on the roof and open the duffel bag for Indigo Dye, Cash ($3), and the Red Cross Badge.

Head right on the roof and use your alien probe to access the robotic teleporter on the telephone pole. Beam down to the nearby roof and open the treasure chest for the Squire Helmet and a Power Potion.

12. Farm

Points of Interest

- Quest objective for "ManBearPig" side quest
- Quest objective for "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo" side quest
- Quest objective for "Magical Songs" side quest

What You Can Find Here

The farm clearly has signs for “No Cow Tipping” and “Do It Yourself Veal.” However, you can also climb the ladders in the farm to plant one of your sensors for the “ManBearPig” side quest, and you can ring the white picket fence bell at the entrance to summon a beastie for the “Big Game Huntin’ with Jimbo” side quest. The farm itself can be opened if you have the Barn Key from the “Magical Songs” side quest. See the “Side Quests” chapter for more details. If you take the northern path, it leads you into the Lost Forest.

13. Canada

Points of Interest

What You Can Find Here

You need to go to Canada after you obtain your passport at the Photo-Dojo (map point 29) during the "Heading North" main quest. Proceed into the Lost Forest and keep going north until you reach the Canadian border. If you have your passport, the Mountie will let you in. Otherwise, go practice your "Ehs" and your slapshots and return later.

Ottawa will be the first place you visit in Canada. Speak with the Prince and Princess to continue on the main quest. You automatically befriend the Prince when you return after your confrontation with the Bishop of Banff. The Princess friends you at the end of the "O Canada" quest. Be sure to visit the Ottawa Goods and Supplies shop on the way into town and raid the green treasure chest in the gift shop on the way out of the castle for a Joy Buzzer and Mana Potion (Large).

14. Starks Pond

Points of Interest

- Cosmonewt (Chinpokomon; sunken UFO)
- Hidden chest (sunken UFO)

What You Can Find Here

The pond waters haven't frozen over, and yet it still looks as cold and inhospitable as any other snowy northern Stark kingdom that we know of. At first glance, it doesn't seem like there's much of anything here other than a discarded duffel bag behind a pine tree that holds a Power Potion, Health Potion (Small), Generic Sunglasses, and an Untidy Wig. If you knock aside the wood blocking the northeast path, you can uncover a side alcove with a bookbag containing a Side Bow Wig, among other junk.

Once you have the alien probe, though, you can reach the sunken UFO beneath the pond's waters. Use the robotic teleporter in the middle of the pond to beam below the surface and into the crashed UFO. Pick up the Cosmonewt Chinpokomon and a Circuit Patch and Space Cash in the UFO's chest.

- iPad (quest objective for "Vulcan Around" side quest)
- Fast Travel Flag

What You Can Find Here

You can find Jesus inside the church after speaking with Father Maxi at City Hall (map point 17) and eventually befriend both. You can find Kevin Stoley's missing iPad behind a tree outside the church after accepting the "Vulcan Around" side quest at the Stoley house (map point 36). See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details.

16. Police Station

Points of Interest

- Nazi Zombie Bounty side quest
- Sergeant Yates (friend)
- Romper Stomper (friend)
- RabbiTech (Chinpokomon)
- Santa (friend)

What You Can Find Here

You can enter the Police Station after the Nazi Zombies plague the town. Before you do, though, bust open the trunk of the closest cop car in the parking lot for a duffel bag with a Power Potion (Large).

The lobby hosts a few police officers milling about. You can befriend Sergeant Yates to the right by completing the "Nazi Zombie Bounty" side quest.

Head to the left and enter the room with the prison cells. Speak with Romper Stomper in the first cell and he'll tell you to get the Jail Cell Key to break him out.

Take the stairs in the main lobby up to the second floor. You can purchase consumables in the "Refreshing Drinks" and "Snappy Snacks" vending machines at the top of the stairs on your way to the locker room. Open the nearby file cabinets for a Health Potion (Small) and other junk. When you're ready, shoot the right side of the shelf holding the plaques to create a ramp. Hop up the boxes to the shelf ramp and then bash open the broken air vent.

Go through the air duct to the locker room. Climb down the ladder by the riot gear and then raid all the lockers for valuables, including a Speed Potion, Health Potion (Small), Power Potion (Large) in locker 01; Beardstache and Skull Sticker in locker 02; Power Potion (Large) in locker 03; Jail Cell Key and Wire Frame Glasses in locker 04; and Health Potion (Large) in locker 05.

Return to Romper Stomper with the Jail Cell Key. Open the cell and gain a new friend when you talk to him. Check his duffel bag for a Bald Cap, Teardrop Tattoo, and Cure Potion.

Return upstairs and head right this time. Check the air vent in front of the evidence room for some Cash and a Wad of Web. Enter the evidence room for a gold mine of items. Smash the broken box on the bottom shelf for a Cure Potion and Cash. Hidden behind the evidence boxes in the corner is a duffel bag with a Strength Potion and Thief Wig. Climb up the ladder to the top shelf for the RabbiTech Chinpokomon. Press the red button in the center of the shelving unit to move the ladder, and climb up to the last shelf to open the treasure chest with Bandit Face Paint, Shadow, Bling, and Buckyball Magnets.

Now return to the locker room next to the riot gear and open the emergency exit. This takes you out on the fire escape, where you can use your alien probe to beam up to the roof.

You catch Santa red-handed checking the police database to see "who's been naughty," but because you're a jolly soul and won't tell on him, Santa befriends you. Continue to the duffel bag at the far edge and open it for a Power Potion (Large), Demon Sticker, and Samurai Warrior Patch.

17. City Hall

Points of Interest

- Annie (friend)
- Sna-kat (Chinpokomon)
- Find Jesus side quest
- Father Maxi (friend)
- The Homeless Problem side quest
- Mayor McDaniels (friend)

What You Can Find Here

When you first arrive at City Hall, a gang of girls surrounds Annie in the courtyard. Beat the girl bullies to save Annie and gain her as a friend. She's also your contact to recruit the girls during your main quest for Day 3.

Sna-kat, another Chinpokomon collectable, sits up in the tree to the left of the courtyard. Shoot the Chinpokomon down with your ranged weapon and collect it off the ground. Scoot around on the dirt path behind the tree, break the rocks at the end, and open the red toolbox for the Messy Face Paint and Bird's Nest.

Father Maxi reads what we hope is a Bible on the bench to the left. Speak with the priest to gain the "Find Jesus" side quest. See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details.

Enter City Hall to speak with Mayor McDaniels. She will give you "The Homeless Problem" side quest and befriend you when you intimidate all the homeless out of her city. See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details. Go through the drawers on the left side of the room for a Monocle and a Strength Potion.

18. Sewers

Points of Interest

- Gerbitoad (Chinpokomon)
- Dropping the Kids Off (side quest)
- Mr. Hankey (friend)
- Mrs. Hankey (friend)
- Amber Hankey (friend)
- Cornwallis Hankey (friend)
- Simon Hankey (friend)
- Penis Mouse (quest objective for "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo")
- Bloodsucking Fruit Bat (quest objective for "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo")
- Biebersaurus (Chinpokomon)
- Crab Person (friend)

What You Can Find Here

The sewers run beneath the city streets, and you gain access through the open manhole cover in front of the South Park Gazette building. Look for the "Men Working" sign and descend the metal ladder.

To proceed deeper into the sewers, you need the alien probe. Beam across the gap to the far side, where the sewers maze really begins. Along the way, search any loot spots (duffel bags, yellow-marked grates, etc.) for bonus items. The duffel bag near the entrance, for example, holds the Valkyrie Patch.

Go down the ladder and decrease the sewer flow at the first pipe so you can run through it unscathed. Wrap around the wall to the other side and open the bars to reach the Hankeys' house. Pick up the Chinpokomon Gerbitoad in front of the house and speak with the delightful Mr. and Mrs. Hankey to receive the "Dropping the Kids Off" side quest. Complete the side quest to gain all the Hankeys as friends; you'll also come back to the sewers to slay the Penis Mouse and Bloodsucking Fruit Bat for the "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo" side quest. See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details.

Wander to the back of the sewer maze to eventually reach the cave systems. Use your Nagasaki power to shake loose the giant boulder in the caves. You can pick up the Biebersaurus Chinpokomon on the floor next to the Crab Person, who befriends you for shattering the only obstacle between the Crab People and their conquest of Earth. Nice job, chief. The ladder at the far end of the caves leads up to the manhole cover in front of the Bijou Theatre. It's a nice shortcut if you're heading in that direction; however, it's a one-way path out of the sewers.

19. South Park Gazette

Points of Interest

- Esther (friend)
- Accountafish (Chinpokomon)
- Gnome hat (hidden inside air duct)
- Leroy Mullens (friend)

What You Can Find Here

You need the News Office Key to enter the South Park Gazette. If you don't already have the key, go two doors down to the Post Office and retrieve it from the open post office box.

Search the Gazette file cabinets for a Health Potion (Small) and the magazine stand for Generic Glasses.

Speak with Esther. She's waiting for an interview and becomes your friend without any extra effort.

Smash open the air vent next to Esther. Use Gnome Dust to shrink down and enter the air duct. Grab the Accountafish Chinpokomon and the Imperial Beard and Fencing Patch from the gnome hat in the air duct.

Climb up the air duct to reach the roof. Speak with Leroy Mullens to gain another friend. Ignore that the fact he has no life and sits up on an icy cold rooftop waiting to ambush rich adventurers and steal their gold.

20. Gray Office Building

Points of Interest

- Duffel bag (behind building)

What You Can Find Here

You can't enter this office building. You can, however, smash the rock on the right side, loop around behind the building, and find a green duffel bag on its left side. Open the duffel bag for the Rapper Beard and a Power Potion.

Location Map

21. Post Office

Points of Interest

- Lola (friend)
- News Office Key (opens South Park Gazette)
- Fast Travel Flag

What You Can Find Here

You can reach the Post Office easily via the Fast Travel Flag outside. Enter the building if you want to raid mail boxes and make a snooty friend.

As soon as you enter, check the blue cabinet to the right of the door for White Dye, 50s Shades, and a Health Potion (Small). Speak with Lola if you want a stuck-up friend, but she won't talk to you unless you have at least 40 friends already. The bank of mail boxes holds a box you need Chef's Old PO Box Key to open and another for which you need Mackey's PO Box Key. One open box contains the News Office Key, a Health Potion (Small), and a Speed Potion.

Go behind the counter to reach a yellow treasure chest against the back wall. Open the chest for a Mana Potion (Large) and Power Potion (Large). In the bin to the left, grab the jumping package if you want to complete the "Mr. Slave's Package" side quest. See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details.

24. Tom's Rhinoplasty

Points of Interest

- Business Office Key (beige office building next door)
- Officer Barbrady (friend)
- Mrs. Marsh (friend)
- Treasure chest (roof)

What You Can Find Here

Speak with Officer Barbrady outside Tom's Rhinoplasty for an instant new friend.

While outside, use the robotic teleporter atop the bank to beam up to that roof, then use the second robotic teleporter atop Tom's Rhinoplasty to reach its roof. Open the yellow treasure chest for the Beatnik Mustache and Squire Gloves.

Inside Tom's Rhinoplasty, search the magazine stand, air vent, and cabinet for the Business Office Key, Retro Glam Makeup, Bob Wig, and various other junk.

Speak with Mrs. Marsh at the front desk and you can order many flairs in the game for two bucks apiece. Purchase an accessory and Mrs. Marsh will become your friend. If you have money to burn, you might also want a nose job like the Nasal Desensitiver, Bridge and Tip, Cartilage and Nostrils, or The Hasselhoff (which has you coming out looking like David Hasselhoff!). You can always switch back to your original face for a buck.

25. Bank

Points of Interest

- Duffel bag (behind building)

What You Can Find Here

The robotic teleporter atop the bank enables you to reach the higher roof atop Tom's Rhinoplasty next door. There's a green duffel bag behind the building, which you can reach if you knock down the snowman and circle around back. Open the duffel bag for Sporty Glasses and a Health Potion (Large).

Inside the bank, open the file cabinet in the right corner for a Speed Potion. Don't let the bank teller sucker you—any money you invest is going, going, gone! If you want to blow your money, walk next door and buy The Hasselhoff.

Once you have the gnome dust, shrink down and pass through the hole behind the black courtesy counter. Now you'll be behind the teller window and can claim the Golden Ticket and some cash from the duffel bag there.

Tip

If you lose your money to the bank, you can get it back by shrinking down with gnome dust, going through the small hole near the floor, and beating up the banker.

28. Pink House

Points of Interest

- Millie (friend)
- Douglas (friend)

What You Can Find Here

Watch for pesky elves near the pink house. Once you've flattened them, or the coast is clear, smack down the snowman on the right side of the building.

Loop around back to speak with Millie to gain another friend.

There's one more friend hidden inside the building: Douglas. Take out your ranged weapon and break the top right window.

You reveal a robotic teleporter. Use the alien probe to get up to the second story and speak to Douglas, who's very impressed with your breaking-and-entering routine and befriends you immediately.

29. Photo-Dojo

Points of Interest

- Passport (quest objective for "Heading North" main quest)
- Duffel bag (roof)

What You Can Find Here

Photo-Dojo is where you obtain your passport for your trip up to Canada in Day 3.

There's not much inside until you're on the main quest; however, you can reach the roof with your alien probe and an assist from the robotic teleporter in Douglas' bedroom next door. Open the duffel bag for a Mana Potion, Snowflake Patch, and Power Potion.

- Fast Travel Flag

What You Can Find Here

Be sure to tag the Fast Travel Flag outside the Kids' Park and rifle through the nearby duffel bag for a Health Potion (Small), Cure Potion, and Bun Wig.

The basketball court is a frequent hangout spot. You can watch people go by or pick up any normal consumable at the vending machine. After you complete the "Recruit the Girls" main quest, you gain access to the girls' Pleases and Sparkles Club, hidden in the park bathrooms, and you recruit a whole bunch of new friends.

Once you have access to the Pleases and Sparkles Club, speak to all the girls, grab the Mouse-Tik Chinpokomon next to Jessie, and loot the yellow chest for the Valkyrie Headband, Valkyrie Armor, and Valkyrie Gloves. You can also buy stuff from the girls' Sparkle Boutique.

A bunch of children mill about the park area to the right. Speak with them to begin the "Hide 'N Seek" side quest. Track them all down to make a bunch of new friends and complete the quest. See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details.

Look in the playground area for more loot. The front of the ship holds a Cure Potion, Health Potion (Small), and Long Hair Wig, while the crow's nest hides Skull Facepaint.

33. Elementary School

Points of Interest

- Craig (friend)
- Poodlesaurus Rex (Chinpokomon)
- Donkeytron (Chinpokomon)
- Chef's Old PO Box Key
- Bill (friend)
- Fosse (friend)
- Lemmiwinks (friend)
- Pterdaken (Chinpokomon)
- Henrietta (friend)
- Michael (friend)
- Pete (friend)
- Firkle (friend)
- Mutant Bacteria (quest objective for "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo" side quest)
- Fast Travel Flag

What You Can Find Here

When you want to reach the elementary school or the southwest corner of town, you'll find yourself using the Fast Travel Flag here often. You will make two trips into the school during the main quest and visit the side yard frequently to recruit the Goth Kids. The Mutant Bacteria can also be found in the school basement; it's a vile creature you need to defeat for the "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo" side quest. See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details.

On your first school assault in "Detention Sentence," you must free Craig from the detention in the cafeteria. You'll earn his friendship, and you can pick up the Poodlesaurus Rex Chinpokomon in the cafeteria hallway by shooting out the ceiling vent.

On your second school assault in "Attack the School," you can score more friends and Chinpokomon. Look for the Donkeytron Chinpokomon in the kitchen when you first arrive, along with Chef's Old PO Box Key in the adjoining cafeteria. You can befriend Bill and Fosse by defeating the enemies outside the boys' bathroom, while Lemmiwinks is in the fifth grade classroom. Search for the Pterdaken Chinpokomon in the locker near the fortification.

Once you have the gnome dust, be sure to check out hollow log to the left of the school (near the "Warning" sign) and pick up the Witch Robes and Avalanche Awareness Patch.

You befriend the four Goth Kids—Henrietta, Michael, Pete, and Firkle—after you complete the "Nonconformist" main quest and speak to them behind the school.

- Mr. Adler (friend)
- Mrs. Broflovski (friend)
- Mr. Garrison (friend)
- Principal Victoria (friend)
- "Wasted Cache" side quest
- Mr. Mackey (friend)
- Vamporko (Chinpokomon)

What You Can Find Here

The "PTA Problems" quest will bring you to the Community Center, or you might want to bop in when it's open during your frequent runs to the school. Before you enter, though, break the logs to the left of the parking lot and retrieve a green duffel bag with Teal Dye and some cash.

Speak to the various folks inside the Community Center after you complete the "PTA Problems" quest to secure their friendships.

Wake Mr. Mackey up at the PTA fundraising stand and talk to him to gain the "Wasted Cache" side quest. He wants you to deposit an old monitor in his storage shed. For more details, see the "Side Quests" chapter. Complete the "Wasted Cache" side quest to earn Mackey as a friend.

Enter the bathroom and open the last stall to reveal Gophermon. Pick up the Chinpokomon to up your collectable collection.

The Vamporko Chinpokomon sits out in the basketball court next to the Community Center. Use your alien probe to beam into the court and collect him.

35. Green House

Points of Interest

- Treasure chest (behind barbecue)
- Duffel bag (in garage)
- Backpack (upstairs via alien probe)

What You Can Find Here

You have three loot spots at the green house. The first involves the barbecue. Strike it to knock the barbecue over. The hot coals spill out on the ground, and you can use Cup-a-Spell to blow a path to the yellow treasure chest. Open it for a Duelist's Patch, Dubstep Wig, Chin Beard, two Mana Potions, and a Mana Potion (Small).

Look closely and you'll see a backpack through the second-floor window. If you try the door, you peek in on a naked woman who screams and locks the door. Move over to the garage instead. Go inside and search the green duffel bag for a Water Balloon and a Cure Potion.

Shoot down the ladder to reach the garage attic. Climb up and use your alien probe to reach the second-floor bedroom. Inside, open the backpack for an Amazon Patch, a Power Potion (Large), and a Revive Potion.

36. Kevin Stoley's House

Points of Interest

- Vulcan Around" side quest
- Kevin Stoley (friend)
- Underpants (quest objective for "Phase 1" side quest)
- Fast Travel Flag

What You Can Find Here

A Fast Travel Flag drops you off in front of Kevin Stoley's blue house in the neighborhood. Head inside when it's open to speak with Kevin about a certain Star Trek-related quest. If you want to raid the house, you can find some junk in the living room and a Cure Potion and a Strength Potion in the kitchen. Once you have the Stoley Parents' Bedroom Key (use Gnome Dust to access the hole in the fence at Jimmy's house), you can raid that too.

You find Kevin in his room. His bedside table holds Underpants (quest objective for the "Phase 1" side quest) and a Health Potion (Small). Across the room you can find a Klingon Beard in the dresser. Speak with Kevin and he gives you the "Vulcan Around" side quest. See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details.

42. Your House

Points of Interest

- Mom (friend)
- Dad (friend)
- Phase 1 side quest
- Underpants Gnome (friend)
- Chu-chu Nezumi (Chinpokomon)

What You Can Find Here

This is where everything begins. If you haven't already discovered these items, search outside on your lawn for the green duffel bag (after smashing the snowbank) to gain a Health Potion (Small) and a Power Potion, look for the Surfer Wig in the garage attic, find the Pigtails Wig in the living room, and get Eye Black and a Health Potion (Small) in the kitchen.

Shoot the Chinpokomon in the tree outside in the yard past the garage and add Chu-chu Nezumi to your collection.

Talk to Mom in the living room to gain a new friend. You'll need a lot more friends before you can come back and convince Dad that you're worth talking to more than once in a while. The Underpants Gnome in your room will befriend you after you complete the "Phase 1" side quest. See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details.

- Polly Prissypants (friend)
- "A Flower for a Princess" side quest
- Pengin (Chinpokomon)

What You Can Find Here

Cartman's house is the home of the Kingdom of Kupa Keep. The majority of your main quests will launch from Cartman's backyard.

You can make friends with Mrs. Cartman inside by talking with her, along with making friends with Scott Malkinson and Cartman as you complete main quests for the humans. Clyde will briefly befriend you and then un-friend you after the events of "The New Kid in Town." Kenny friends you after you complete his side quest, "A Flower for a Princess." Polly Prissypants will friend you if Cartman is your buddy when you speak to her.

Grab Cartman's Garage Key and the Evil Cartman Goatee from the living room and open the garage to get the Pengin Chinpokomon, Gray Dye, and a Wizard Beard.

45. Stan's House

Points of Interest

- Bradley (friend)
- Quest objective for "The She-Ogre" side quest
- Shelly Marsh (friend)
- Underpants (quest objective for the "Phase 1" side quest)
- Treasure chest (in garage)

What You Can Find Here

Shrink down with Gnome Dust in front of Stan's house and you can expose Bradley in the bushes to earn another friend.

Try not to notice Randy Marsh sacking out on the couch in his underwear and search the house for loot. You'll find the Pan Flautist, Speed Potion, Health Potion (Small), and Health Potion (Large) in the kitchen and various junk items upstairs. The room next to Stan's houses Shelly Marsh, who wants no part of you now but will befriend you after you complete the side quest "The She-Ogre."

The Underpants in Stan's drawers count toward the "Phase 1" side quest. You can also pick up a Health Potion (Small) and Stan's Mudbeard in his bedroom.

Head out to the garage. Shoot down the ladder so you can reach the attic. Open the treasure chest up here for the Druid Robes.

- Restoring the Balance side quest
- Stegmata (Chinpokomon)
- Furrycat (Chinpokomon)
- Fast Travel Flag

What You Can Find Here

You get an easy friend outside Kyle's House. Mr. Broflovski becomes your friend just by asking him.

In the snow on the other side of the garage, Francis built a snowman. Destroy the dreaded "frost giant" snowman and he friends you.

Scour Kyle's house for a Cure Potion, Power Potion, and Health Potion (Large) in the kitchen; Sidelocks in the upstairs hallway; Acne in the bathroom; the Broflovski Garage Key, Barbarian Wig and Cure Potion in the master bedroom; and Underpants and a Health Potion (Small) in Kyle's room.

In the Elven Kingdom backyard, speak with everyone there. Jason friends you as soon as you talk to him at the Elvenwares shop. Speak to Chris Donnely after the "Attack the School" quest to make friends, and Kyle will befriend you if you choose to side with the elves during the main quest. You need to complete the side quest "Magical Songs" to befriend Jimmy, "The She-Ogre" to befriend Stan, and "Restoring the Balance" to befriend DogPoo. A green duffel bag on the left side holds a Cure Potion and the Elvish Loyalty Patch.

Head back outside to garage once you have the key. Grab the Stegmata Chinpokomon on the floor, and smash boxes out of your way to get at the red chest in the back corner. Open the chest for Kyle's Muttonchops and the Small Magnet.

Cross the path next to Francis and you'll see a stack of wood next to a line of trees. Furrycat hides in the trees. Smash apart the wood and step into the alcove to claim the hidden Chinpokomon.

47. Kenny's House

Points of Interest

- Karen (friend)
- Mrs. McCormick (friend)
- Storage locker (behind house)
- Quest objective for "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo" side quest
- Fast Travel Flag

What You Can Find Here

A Fast Travel Flag will take you quickly to Kenny's house in the southeast part of town once you unlock it. You'll come here on the main quest "Hot Coffee" and spend some quality time in the McCormicks' garage.

Enter Kenny's house and talk to Karen for a new friend.

Enter the kitchen and search out a Cure Potion in the fridge. Mrs. McCormick will friend you if you speak to her after your delivery in "Hot Coffee."

Kenny's room is a disaster zone, but you can scrape out a Water Balloon, Rosy Cheeks, and Coffin Glasses from the miscellaneous junk.

Out back you'll find a spot for Moldy Sausage to lure out one of Jimbo's beasties in the side quest "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo." See the "Side Quests" chapter for more details. Defeat the Crazy Hobo in the backyard and you can open the storage locker next to the house for a Shit-stained Badge and Disheveled Wig.

Moving Day

Introduction

Dude, if your parents were any lamer they'd be Sonny and Cher. Without asking you, they've packed up and moved again. Everything's in boxes. For all you know, they've used your Bikini Babes poster for the bottom of the hamster cage. Now you've got to go out and make friends with the local kids. Hopefully they aren't a bunch of total ass-munches.

Day 1 Quest List

The New Kid in Town
Guess who knows no one in town? You. Light up your social network page with friends or you'll soon be playing alone in the basement with your joystick.

Call the Banners
Cartman leads the humans against the dirty, lying, thieving elves. He needs you to recruit three more members to Kupa Keep so you can recover the Stick of Truth.

Hot Coffee
Go fetch your first recruit at the Tweek Bros. coffee shop, where the hyperactive Tweek asks you to pick up a "special delivery" for him. Maybe a Red Bull will calm him down?

Gate Crasher
Your second target, Token, lives in Dark Meadows. Beat the mace-happy security guard at the gate to recruit an African American into Kupa Keep. Ironic, huh?

Detention Sentence
You find out that Craig is stuck in detention. Mr. Mackey treats his detentions very seriously, like "the use of deadly force" serious. Thrash his hall monitors and recover the three hidden keys to recruit your last Kupa Keep member.

The Bard
You can't keep that little twig safe. Now Jimmy the Bard has the Stick of Truth, and you have to survive the Giggling Donkey inn's defenses to...recover it.

It's Late
Get home to sleep before your parents ground you and you lose all those friends you worked so hard for today. Don't worry; bedtime is going to be more exciting than Moving Day.

Alien Abduction
It's just your luck that aliens want to kidnap you, and they're the kind that like to probe your anus. You have to figure out how to use a chunk of extraterrestrial technology shoved up your ass to navigate an alien spacecraft, then return to Earth in time for breakfast.

Moving Day
New Quest: The New Kid in Town

"It's a new beginning for us. Things are finally going to be good!"
-Your Dad

SPOILER ALERT!
Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Play around in your room.
Step 2: Get as much loot as you can before your dad kicks you out.
Step 3: Raid your garage for more loot.
Step 4: Save Butters from the elf.
Step 5: Meet Cartman and discover Kupa Keep.
Step 6: Proudly accept your special new title.
Step 7: Pick a class: Fighter, Mage, Thief, or Jew.
Step 8: Buy a weapon from Clyde.
Step 9: Kick Clyde's ass.
Step 10: See the Stick of Truth with Cartman.
Step 11: Defend the Stick of Truth from the elves.

Welcome to South Park, a remote town of white snow, after-school education, Pleases and Sparkles Clubs, and whole milk—which probably comes from Nazi Zombie Cows. Yes, things are going to get exciting here, and weird, but first you have to survive moving day.

Check Out Your Digs

Your mom must have hired Stevie Wonder as interior designer: lots of open space, beige walls, gray carpet. At least you have a goldfish, though fish food has never been your strong point.

Open the toy chest at the foot of your bed; it's storage for later on when you actually have stuff. As luck would have it, your closet holds $0.50 and a Baseball Card.

Note

The small hole in your bedroom's back wall will come into play later on. Don't clog it up with porn mags.

Ransack Your House

Your dad is being a total dick today—he'll kick you out of the house if you take too long to leave on your own. There isn't much time, but hurry and try to grab the following loot:

- Old Sponge, Rusty Pipe (upstairs in the bathroom sink cabinet)
- $0.10 (upstairs in the bathroom cabinet)
- Pigtails Wig (downstairs in the desk near the couch)
- $0.50, Fork (downstairs in the cupboard beneath the kitchen sink)
- Eye Black, Health Potion (Small) (downstairs in the cupboard on the left side of your mom)
- $2.00 (downstairs on the left counter in the kitchen)

Become Popular, Goddammit!

Wipe your dad's boot mark off your ass and get outside to make new friends. First, though, open your garage and check out the red chest in the loft. You'll find $1.50 and a Surfer Wig inside.

An elf—yeah, you heard that right—and a guy with a hammer are fighting on the sidewalk to your right. Walk up and punch the elf. That's all it takes to pwn the bastard and save the day.

Caution

Don't go left. There's plenty of time to explore the rest of South Park later.

"The wizard lives this way. In the green house, over there."
—Butters

Butters the Merciful

The elf runs home to tell his momma, and you make a new friend in the guy with the hammer. He introduces himself as Butters the Merciful and says that he's a paladin. He then tells you to seek out the Wizard King if you want to be cool.

Chug along to the right, past the red house (Butters' house), over to the green house with the "Kupa Keep" sign on the back fence. Approach the front door to meet up with the next kid on the block.

The Wizard King

A big dude with a large staff and pointy hat answers the door and announces he's the Wizard King. He's got a mouth that'd make a rapper blush. Pretty cool—he might teach you a line or two.

"The power of diabetes is both a gift and a curse. But mostly a curse."
—Scott Malkinson

Cut through the house to the backyard. You've reached Kupa Keep, the humans' stronghold, made up of a fully stocked armory, a penned-in stable, and a towering fortress painstakingly constructed of taped-together cardboard boxes.

"I want you to take your weapon and, with the bravery of a noble knight—beat up Clyde."
—Cartman

Speak with Cartman (the Wizard King) and he will ask you to type in your name. You will no longer be known as "New Kid" but will gain the honorable title of…Douchebag. No matter what you type, Cartman dubs you Douchebag.

Next, you will choose a class: Fighter, Mage, Thief, or Jew. Which class should you choose? For this answer and more, you might want to sneak a peek at the "Classes" chapter.

I swear to God, Scott, if you keep fighting like a pussy I'll come over there and kick you in your diabetic nuts!"
—Cartman

Your First Weapon

Waddle over to Clyde at the armory and buy your first piece of equipment: a wooden weapon befitting of a level 1 noob. At least it's better than fucking up your fist.

Caution

Clyde offers you tips and rumors for two bucks. Scam! Don't fall for his con job.

Beating Clyde's Ass

Cartman has you test out your new weapon on Clyde. When your weapon flashes, attack Clyde for max damage. Protect your balls from Clyde's attacks and continue pummeling Clyde until Cartman announces you are worthy and invites you into the tent to see the relic.

The Stick of Truth

Enter the tent and Cartman tells you about the history of the Stick of Truth, for "whoever controls the Stick controls the universe." Your conversation is rudely interrupted by an attack by the elves, who want to steal the Stick back for themselves and put some mad beats on anyone who gets in their way.

Save Butters, Scott Malkinson, and Cartman's cat from the Elven Defenders and Elven Bowmen. These are basic fights to practice your skills—concentrate on striking when your weapon flashes and blocking each enemy's attack to reduce damage. Score a Bow of Sucking, Health Potion (Small), and Power Potion after you off all the elves.

Tip

Remember to loot any bodies. No, you're not a perv—you want to collect as much good shit as possible for the battles ahead.

Moving Day

New Quest: Call the Banners

SPOILER ALERT!
Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Recruit Tweek through the "Hot Coffee" quest.
Step 2: Recruit Token through the "Gate Crasher" quest.
Step 3: Recruit Craig through the "Detention Sentence" quest.

Now that the Stick of Truth is missing, you need the full gang to take it back. Cartman wants you to recruit Tweek, Token, and Craig to fill Kupa Keep with its most powerful dudes. Check with Scott Malkinson at the armory—he's taken over buying/selling from Clyde, who, failing so miserably during the battle with the elves, was banished from all space and time by Cartman. Stock up on some Health Potions for now until you fatten up your wallet and can afford more later.

Note

You unlock your first Fast Travel Flag in Kupa Keep. Walk around town to unlock others, and use the flags to jump quickly from point to point.

You may want to buy some more gear at the armory with the cash you've grabbed from whacking elves and filching from neighbors. When you're ready, it's time to head out into town to start exploring and completing quests.

Butters' Crib

Leave the Cartman house and head left to the red house. Use the Butters' House Key you automatically gained when Butters joined you as a buddy and open the front door. Check for loot in the desk by the stairs, kitchen cabinet, nightstand by Butters' bed, dresser in Butters' bedroom, dresser in the upstairs hall, dressers in Butters' parents' bedroom, and the cabinets in the bathroom. Collect your first Chinpokomon, Monkay, on the floor next to Butters' toy shelf. Huzzah!

Grab the Chaos Lair Key in Butters' dresser for use later inside the U-Stor-It lot. Butters' parents keep Stotch's Garage Key in the bedroom dresser on the right wall. Take it before you leave the house and check out the garage. Inside the garage you can grab the Druid Gloves and other loot.

Rat Bastards!

There's no going to the right—a pile of rats blocks your way. Head left instead, past your house, and smash through the "No Humans!" barricade. You can now investigate the rest of South Park. If you want more loot along the way, trash any of the elves you spot hiding behind snow piles or loitering on street corners.

New Quest: Hot Coffee

“AHGHGHGH! How am I supposed to do all this?! There’s no way, man! Starbucks has like eight employees!! Here it’s just me!!!”

—Tweek

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Head to Tweek Bros. coffee shop.
Step 2: Speak with Mr. Tweek at the front counter.
Step 3: Speak with Tweek in the back room.
Step 4: See Kenny’s mom about Tweek’s special delivery.
Step 5: Talk to the “nice people” in the McCormicks’ garage.
Step 6: Defeat the Meth Heads.
Step 7: Pick up the special delivery.
Step 8: Return the delivery to Tweek.
Step 9: Recruit Tweek for Kupa Keep and gain a friend.

Follow your map of South Park to the Tweek Bros. coffee shop. Walk north until you come to the corner with the Bijou Theater. Turn right and you’ll find the coffee shop next door.

Speak with Mr. Tweek at the counter and he’ll yell back to his son, Tweek. You’ll find your first recruit in the employees-only room in the back. Tweek has so much work it’s driving him bat-shit crazy, but you can help.

Kenny’s House

Volunteer to pick up the “delivery” at Kenny’s house, which you’ll find on the same street as your house and Kupa Keep, but all the way past the tracks to the right. Kenny’s mom answers the door and directs you to the “nice people in the back.” Take the McCormick Garage Key and open the guest room in the garage.

The Meth Heads out back think you’re the cops. This fight is more difficult than the previous ones: The Meth Heads have more HP and there’re three to beat down this time. Use some of your abilities that target multiple enemies, and take out any enemy whose hit points are low so they can’t whack you back. The two dudes have the same HP, but personally, we’d take out the guy with the plunger first.

Victory brings you some cash and consumables. Rifle through the bodies, the niche by the toolbox, and the refrigerator for more loot. To get Tweek’s Special Delivery, walk around the table and climb the ladder by the fridge. Knock down the hanging wood with an attack and descend the platform until you reach the paper bag. Pick it up and double-back to the hole in the back wall.

Take out your ranged weapon and shoot out the crumbling wall, which hides part of the ladder to the garage attic. Climb the ladder and open the loot bin on the right side to score Kenny’s Bloody Club—it’s great for adding extra damage if you can pull off Perfect Attacks.

Special Blend for All

Race back to Tweek Bros. and talk to Tweek in the back room again. His caffeine high seems to have worn off a little; he’s no longer a raving lunatic. Tweek thanks you for picking up the order, hands you the Tweek’s Brewmaster Stash Key, and gets permission from dad to join your group. Congrats! You’ve just doubled your friend total, dude.

Walk around the crap in the back room and climb the ladder up to the back ledge. Open the loot bin on the far left with the Tweek’s Brewmaster Stash Key and you’ll nab the Friar Gloves and the Friar Robes. Not only do the Friar Gloves let you speak directly to God, but more importantly, they give you 25 extra HP from healing and allow your healing abilities to recover 10 more HP. The Robes increase your max HP by 5 and regenerate 5 health each turn. Also, you net a Large Power Potion, which enables you to recover twice as much PP as a normal Power Potion.

New Quest: Gate Crasher

“If you try again, I will pepper spray you back to the Stone Age.”
—Security Guard

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Buy the Gas Mask at Jimbo’s Gun Store.
Step 2: Go to Dark Meadows.
Step 3: Put on the Gas Mask and assault the security guard.
Step 4: Recruit Token for Kupa Keep and gain a friend.

Proceed down the block to the left after you leave the Tweek Bros. shop. Turn right at the corner and follow the sidewalk until you wrap around to the Dark Meadows estate. A Security Guard blocks your way if you try to enter the estate. Mess with the pig and he’ll mace you in the face.

Pass the Gas

The Security Guard at Dark Meadows Estates ain’t playing around. You need the Gas Mask to beat him, so head over to Jimbo’s Gun Store (keep walking left past the Mall and Restaurant Row to reach it) and buy the latest fashion in chemical warfare. Put the Gas Mask on and head back to Dark Meadows. Besides looking like a reject from a sci-fi tv show, you can now waltz right up to the Security Guard and break his kneecaps. Just watch out for his stun gun and the stain it can put in your crotch.

Tip

You strip the Billy Club of Smiting off the Security Guard, but it’s not as good as Kenny’s Bloody Club.

—Token

Knock on the door and hand Cartman’s letter to the kid who answers the door. Token decides to join your gang and puts on his spiffy ninja costume. Nice!

Return to your block. If you like, raid Cartman’s house and then steal Cartman’s Garage Key from the living room desk to open the garage. Loot the boxes and pick up the Pengin Chinpokomon standing in the corner. As you walk down the block to the left toward Craig’s house, snipe the Chu-chu Nezumi Chinpokomon out of the tree next to your house.

New Quest: Detention Sentence

"Ya lookin' for Craig? Well, he can't play. He's in detention. Something about flippin' off the principal."
—Craig's Dad

SPOILER ALERT!
Step 1: Speak with Craig's dad and learn that Craig has detention.
Step 2: Return to Cartman and get new orders.
Step 3: Learn how to harness the power of Dragonsnot.
Step 4: Defeat the Douchebag Dragon.
Step 5: Get out of the ball restrictions.
Step 6: Retrieve the Bronze Key from the hallway by the principal's office.
Step 7: Retrieve the Silver Key from the laundry lounge.
Step 8: Retrieve the Gold Key from Mr. Mackey's office.
Step 9: Open the cafeteria and free the kids.
Step 10: Open the cafeteria and free the kids in detention.
Step 11: Recruit Craig for Kupa Keep.

When you're ready to recruit Craig, walk down the block to the left from your house and continue past the South Park sign until you reach a large house, between the brown house to its right and the blue house to its left. Knock on the door and Craig's dad answers.

Craig's dad tells you that Craig's been pissing off the principal and is banned in detention. Return to Kupa Keep, where Cartman will notice his level 12 troll. Craig is missing. Your next quest is to free Craig from detention in the school.

"Getting into trouble is a risk that Douchebag is willing to take."
—Cartman

Mastering the Dragonshout

First, though, you have to learn how to conjure "raggy" from your ass. A loud, wet, noxious fart is more than a gut-buster for your pals—when perfected, you can even use it to propel yourself to unexplored territories or overcome a crevice's accidental the target diarrhea and the innocent Princess Kenny with your Dragonshout. Listen to Cartman's final parting words of extortion. Never, ever drop one on someone else's table. Seriously.

"I've got all the doors SEALED and I've got hallway monitors working overtime—nobody's gonna save your ass today, Craig!"
—Mr. Mackey

Use your Fast Travel Flags to jump close to the school in the western part of town and then walk the rest of the way to the building. Once you enter the school's flag, you can hop back here quickly in the future.

Mr. Mackey holds Craig hostage in the cafeteria. To bust him out, enter the school and confront the first Ginger Boy hall monitor in the lobby. Defeat him and the Ginger Boy and boss him with gestures before he head hits the ground. The backpack on the steps behind him has even more loot.

Beating Enemies without the Boots

Go through the doors to your right. In the hallway, two more hall monitors block your way. You don't have to fight them, though. Instead, shoot the lit cigarette hanging over the open locker and it will set the papers on the floor below on fire.

Tip

Check the open school lockers for valuables. Hey, finders keepers, right?

Dragonshout on the emblem to send a flamethrower out your ass. It will destroy obstacles like the file cabinet and toast the hall monitors.

Or you can fry the hall monitors where they stand. Shoot the ceiling sprinkler to rain down water and then shoot the speaker above the Ginger Boys so that the electrical wires drop onto the puddle and electrocute the two hall monitors. No more problem.

"You might as well give up because I have hidden the key somewhere and you'll never find it in my office. Aw, dammit..."
—Mr. Mackey

The cafeteria is around the next corner. Unfortunately, it's locked, and you need the Gold Key to open the door. First, though, you need the Bronze Key and Silver Key.

Tip

You can shoot open the ceiling vent near the electrocuted Ginger Boys to gain the Foodbounce Rec Chimpokemon.

You run into another hall monitor in the hallway next to the counselors' office. When the monitor paces in front of the locked double doors shoot the fluorescent light overhead to drop it on him for the takeout.

The Bronze Key

Check the faculty lounge door at the end of the hallway. It's locked, and you need the Bronze Key to open it. Inside Kenny into your party (before continuing down the hallway. You need the princess to open the metal gate ahead to meet up with the Ginger Boy wielding the protractor. Smack him around so hard he'll be begging for Geometry class.

Tip

Duck into the janitor's closet and loot the desk for extra loot.

Watch the next set of hall monitors. One paces back and forth, while the second stands next to the bulletin board. Wait until the first one returns to the bulletin board, then shoot the top left corner so the first one faces left and knocks out both Ginger Boys. Easy as pie.

Tip

Switch back to Butters if you want more damage in combat.

Pummel the last hall monitor the Kenny-powered way: stick-with-nuts to the head. You can destroy the Ginger Boy's armor with three whites of Kenny's Bloody Cock and let Butters give him holy hell with the hammer. Your reward: some loot and the Dodgeball, an upgrade to your Bow of Sucking.

You automatically gain the Bronze Key in front of the principal's office. Who needs a 12th-level thief to pick locks, anyway?

"Now look, this is detention time, not time to play Dungeons and Dragons!"
—Mr. Mackey

Four hall monitors defend the faculty lounge, but you don't have to fight them all. Use the environment to your advantage and you can reach the Silver Key in the back corner easily.

Aim at the lit cigarette on the table. You can knock it into the box of fireworks below and set off a kickass series of explosions. One of the rockets pegs the Ginger Boy in the back right corner, while another dislodges the ceiling light.

Dragonshout the burning fireworks box to send sheets of agonizing flames into the face of your opponent. The second and third Ginger Boys become crispy critters.

Pound the remaining Ginger Boy on the right side. He doesn't stand a chance against Dodgeballs and smiting hammers.

Tip

Scour the bodies and lounge furniture for lots of extra loot.

Alternatively, you can attack the left side. Shoot the desk of drawers to the counter to crash the last Ginger Boy. Command Butters to complete the crying boy in the corner and he'll give you the Silver Key.

The Gold Key

Head back to the locked counselor office. Use the Silver Key to open the door.

Enter Mackey's and approach the shelf on the back wall. Shoot the Gold Key on the shelf and pick it up off the floor. You could melt it down for some sweet swag, but you'll want to use it on the cafeteria doors instead.

Trawling Mackey's office is more than a therapy session. You can shoot the desk for a Cup-a-ve Spring, and besides checking down the diploma, books, and bulletin board, you can raid the left cabinet, the cabinet under the clock, and right cabinet for loot.

The Ginger Hall Disciplinarian stops a referral on you as you try to enter the cafeteria. He brings two other Ginger Boy lackeys into the hall, you might have to reach on Jones Cheesy Poofs to keep baffling. Tag them on the weaker Ginger Boys first, then go after the Ginger Hall Disciplinarian. Drive his flattened cheesed onto the ground with a few of Butters' well-placed hammer shots. Recover the Hall Monitor Locker Key from the broken body.

Unlock the locker around the corner with the new key. Protect some cash, Safety Scissors, and the Wave of Restoration. As far as it is to leave nail holes in an enemy's spleen, upgrade to the Wave of Restoration for almost double damage and the spiffy Healing Strike ability.

Use the Gold Key on the cafeteria door and bust Craig and all the others out of detention. You're now managed to recruit Craig and bring Mackey one step closer to a coronary.

New Quest: The Bard

"Dude, that was sweet! You threw that shit right in Scott's face."
—Cartman

SPOILER ALERT!
Quest Breakdown:
Step 1: Learn your Cup-a-Spell power.
Step 2: Get the Giggling Donkey inn.
Step 3: Find the Bard in the inn's basement.
Step 4: Escape the inn's basement.
Step 5: Rescue Cartman in the kitchen.
Step 6: Get to the inn's second floor.
Step 7: Stop Princess Kenny from being raped.
Step 8: Catch the Bard by going through the attic.
Step 9: Defeat the Bard.
Step 10: Return to Kupa Keep.

You reunite Cartman with his three lost henchmen, only to return to Kupa Keep to find out that the Stick of Truth now reats in the hands of the mysterious Bard, a crooner of great renown and, as you'll soon discover, unparalleled stuttering.

Note

Your recent deeds earn you the honored rank of 6th Douchebag.

Cup-a-Spell Conjuring

Before you hunt down the Bard, however, Cartman wants to show you his next magic trick: Cup-a-Spell. This gas bomb hurls potent fumes at an enemy, grouping them and not reducing their attack and defense. Just ask Scott Malkinson, who gets a mouthful during your training session.

The Giggling Donkey

Cartman leads you down the block to the Giggling Donkey, an inn housed in a living room stocked with orange sports coolers, strange characters, and a pen full-of-cats-on-the-donkey poster. The bowtie is here are pretty tense, but Cartman talks them into letting you the Bard is down in the basement.

It's dark in the basement, like slasher-flick dark. Explore the gloom and open the dryer and toolbox for extra loot. Follow the sounds of tinkling music to the back of the basement, where you'll find, not a Ren-Faire, but just Jimmy the Bard plucking on his lute.

The Bard has set a trap for you. In traditional evil genius fashion, Jimmy begins to explain his master plan—except his stuttering gets in the way. Press the Stop button to escape the sit-at-stuttering.

Take on the Elven Swordsman and two Elven Archers. Your initial group of foes can back hands and reach the archers in the rear. Because it's three on two, you may need to dip into your snacks to regain hit points and outlast them.

Jimmy hops up the basement stairs and leaves behind more elves to guard his retreat. Aim at the cracked lantern with your ranged attack, then Cup-a-Spell the open flame. Your gas ignites, blowing apart the wooden barrier and roasting the elf next to it.

Tip

When Cosg enters the basement, he knocks over a lantern that you can Cup-a-Spell to defeat more enemies before you jump into melee combat.

Let Crag into the basement by opening the back window with a ranged attack. The moron sneaks in but stumbles off the shelf and into the electrified puddle. He's out of it, so it's up to you to fight through the remaining three elves defending the basement.

Whack these tree huggers like you did the three before. If you can get off attacks on the Elven Priest in the back, kill him first so he can't buff up the other two. Get the Elven Shortbow after your ranged fight with the elves in the basement.

Command Butters to revive Craig. A pat on the back gets his blood flowing again, and Craig unlocks the basement door for you. Head back upstairs after Jimmy.

"I'm not dead. You can't loot me yet."
—Cartma

Hurry to the kitchen to defend Cartman from the elves. Fire off your ranged attack at the ceiling light to drop it on top of the shower elf. Sweet! One down, ten to go.

Finish off the Elven Enforcer and the Elven Archer. They don't stand a chance if you unleash your special attacks on them. Afterward, command Butters to attend to Cartman, who pops a ketchup packet to simulate his bloody last breath.

To Save Princess Kenny

Cartman tells you the elves have taken Princess Kenny upstairs to rape him. You don't want that image stuck in your head, so get upstairs quicker than quick. Enter the living room and shoot the light over the Elven Priest to take him out of the fight.

Continue toward the couch. Use your ranged attack on the wooden coat of arms hanging on the back of the couch. It falls over the cathops on the rug, allowing you to pass safely.

Cross over to the gate. Aim your ranged attack at the lantern near the door and smash that glass. Cup-a-Spell the lantern flame to explode open the front door.

Token and Tweek charge in through the toasted front door and drop the gate for you. Scoop up the loot from the elf next to need to the door and then attack the fallen bookcase to cut through it.

Sweep through the rest of the living room until you reach the last defenders. The Elven Sentinel is tough, but the Elven Anti-Magician (the dude with the gas mask) is even tougher, with more than double the Sentinel's hit points and some aggravating attacks. Concentrate on the Sentinel first, gobble snacks to stay healthy, and use your special abilities to silence the Anti-Magician. Beating theElven Anti-Magician earns you the Wood Elf Armor.

Upstairs Before Disaster Occurs

Hurry upstairs and clean out the desk in the middle of the hallway. Pocket Jimmy's Garage Key for later and head to the second door. Ignore the peeping-tom elf up in the attic for now.

Scarred for Life

Slow shoving yourself is not an option, you'll have to open the door anyway and rush in to save Princess Kenny from being raped. Shoot the light fixture above the canopy bed, then shoot the left side of the shelf so the purple ball rolls down. Strike the ball to knock the cake on the right side to create a ramp. Walk up the ramp and shoot the grinding abstract sculpture to create a ladder.

Climb up the ladder and walk along the bookshelf to the right. Attack the piece of plaster blocking your way to the wire connected to the dreadmond lamp. Zip-line down the wire to destroy the canopy bed. You land on top of the elf, ending his perverted ways, and unlike Princess Kenny. You quickly rejoin the others and pretend nothing ever happened.

Tip

You can change available party members to help you in any given situation. Butters is automatically dismissed and Kenny joins you here.

"I didn't even know inns had attics."
—Elf

Command Kenny to lure the elf peeping out of the attic (point at the bottom of the attic hatch while commanding Kenny). Princess Kenny shows his boobs and the elf happily drops a ladder and comes closer for an eyeful. Kenny rewards him with a swift kick in the nuts.

The elves have barricaded the attic. Use Cup-a-Spell on the candle to blow apart the boxes and attack the Elven Sentinel and Elven Priest defending the attic.

Plant a Royal Kiss on the Elven Sentinel to gross him out, while a ranged attack will cause the Elven Priest fits. Continue smacking the elves around until each is sprawled out like another piece of crap on the attic floor. Put the Wood Elf Gloves off the Elves you fight in the attic.

Cross to the right side of the attic and shoot the corner of the purple chest. It falls and breaks a hole in the floor to Jimmy's hiding spot. Before you leave, add the Rocket Chinpokomon on the floor to your collection.

"Take it from me if you can, W-Wizard King. Step forward now, and fulfill your de-de- and fulfill your de-de..."
—Jimmy

You finally corner Jimmy the Bard in the bedroom after dropping down through the attic hole. He's not alone, though. Jimmy plyes in three Bardic Rats with Bardic Hats.

Squish the rats first, you don't want their three attacks hitting you each round. Since they have only 65 hit points apiece, you can splatter them with one strong attack or two moderate attacks. An attack that strikes multiple targets may flatten more than one of them at a time.

Watch out for Jimmy's sleep attack. You'll have to be good at recovering during the sleep mini-game to stay in the battle. Hit the Sleep button like a caffeine junkie—where's Tweek when you need him?!—to counterattack the sleep effects.

"We're not druids, mom! We're fucking warriors and wizards!"
—Cartman

Without his rats to protect him, coordinate your attacks on Jimmy and make him change his tune about keeping the Stick of Truth. Relieve him of his Crutch of Weakness, which is probably an upgrade for your melee weapon.

You finally return the Stick of Truth to its comfy pillow back at Kupa Keep. Your triumph doesn't last long, though. Cartman's mom calls out that "The Grand Wizard needs to go night night," and the group breaks up for the evening.

New Quest: Alien Abduction

SPOILER ALERT!
Quest Breakdown
Step 1. Get abducted. You have no choice in the matter.
Step 2. Get probed. No choice there, either.
Step 3. Find the control room and device to escape your force field.
Step 4. Find the control room.
Step 5. Pwn all the aliens you encounter.
Step 6. Return to Randy.
Step 7. Beat up the Alien Conspiracy Hobo (optional).
Step 8. Find the Alien Crystal (optional).
Step 9. Retrieve the White Power Crystal.
Step 10. Enter the alien cockpit.
Step 11. Defeat the Alien Pilots.
Step 12. Crash-land in South Park.

...you open your eyes to this weird green light shining into your bedroom. If you didn't know better, you'd think it was aliens...

Kidnapped!

Guess what, it's aliens! Even worse, they're not the kind that give you a warm, fuzzy feeling with a touch of their glowing fingers; they're the kind that like to put your anus.

Clench your sphincter and hold-on realistically to destroy the alien probe twice. This drives the aliens away temporarily and activates the alien probe piece stuck in your butt. You can now use your alien probe to teleport around the ship.

Hop down from your table. A fellow abducted human, Randy Marsh, explains that you'll have to deactivate the main reactor to escape the alien ship.

Tip

Look for the robotic eye receivers to teleport you around the ship.

Ass Backwards and Forwards

Aim your alien probe at the robotic eye receiver above the console next to your seat. Use the robotic eye to teleport through the force field holding you to freedom on the other side.

Access the control panel on the right and open the door to activate a small time panel which triggers a force field and disintegrates an alien-themed property. You can also use Dragondroid or Cue-a-Suit on the burning probe in the force field to blow up the second alien.

If the platform is on the right, you can aim your alien probe up to activate a small time panel which triggers a force field and disintegrates an alien-themed property. You can also use Dragondroid or Cue-a-Suit on the burning probe in the force field to blow up the second alien.

Slide the platform back to the left and use your alien probe to teleport on it. Look above to the probe maintenance level and you'll see another robotic eye to your left. Access the left robotic eye to reach the probe maintenance level.

Probe Maintenance

Walk to the right and wait until the red lasers repairing the deactivated probe shut off. Rush across and attack the two Alien Guards. Hit the first Alien Guard with special attacks. Hopefully it goes down quickly so you don't get double-teamed. Chomp on some snacks to heal if need be or use the Alien Defective Matrix (Paint) on the remaining two enemies, "Offline" them!

Access the control panel by the fallen Alien Guards. This opens the left door on the probe maintenance level.

Before heading left, go right and activate the small wall console, turning it from red to green. A panel on the level below slides open and reveals a robotic eye. Use your alien probe to teleport down to the level and open the nearby chest for extra loot.

Return to the probe maintenance level and walk left until you reach the last control panel. Randy doesn't think a kid like you can figure out how to deactivate it.

Try your hand at the "Simon Says" game by matching the colors and sounds as they appear. The first couple are easy; the final one is insanely hard, and Randy gets mercilessly probed. All right, so Randy was right.

Atmospheric Processor

Retrace your and jumps back to the original platform. Set the lower platform to the left and go down now. Use the robotic eye inside the tube on the atmospheric processor level to teleport you past the searching aliens to the platform beneath the tube.

Use the control panel here to splatter the Alien Guard standing next to the air lock. Squeeze out your alien probe and jump inside the tube. You now have a single alien to fight now, which should not be a problem for one with sphincter muscles like yours. Or, you can jettison the alien out through the airlock if it's on the right side and you time your alien probe to activate the time panel at the right time.

Access the control panel on the far right and play the security-sim game. Randy's insides are at stake again, and you fail miserably on the first series. Good news, though: you have the force field shielding the security room, and Randy will never need Roto-Rooter on his plumbing again.

There are two chests on opposite sides of the security console. To the left, use the light bridge that lowers to climb up and collect a small amount of loot. To the right, use your alien probe to interact with the blue security panel. You'll gain more loot here, the chest contains the Alien Energy Crystal (strap-on).

Security Breach

Return to the elevator and step on the new energy bridge to the left of the chest. Check out the security monitor above the closest Alien Guard to take it out of the fight.

The Alien Chief of Security can't be pushed with a single shot. If you can set the chief on fire or deal some other continuous damage, your job will be easier. Take down the regular Alien Guard with your alien probe and use special abilities on the Alien Chief of Security. Take the Alien Gloves of the Chief to complete your spiffy space wardrobe.

Strutting off the control panel in the security room does a number on the alien ship. Return to Randy to get both of you off the ship.

The Alien Conspiracy Hobo

Before you depart the ship, you might want to listen to the various hobo audio logs spread throughout the ship and then visit the secret, trash-filled hold beneath the main level. Climb down the central floor hatch to reach the hold.

Disturb the trash to stir the Alien Conspiracy Hobo. He might have hitched a ride on the ship, but the hobo's in no mood for visitors, even human ones. Avoid his bleed-plunger attack and put a few more hits in with his shabby duds. For defeating this conspiracy, you earn the Tinfoil Hat, excellent for the final battle with its 20% damage versus alien attacks.

The Great Escape

Return to the original probe chamber. You have to pass one last security mini-game to free Randy from his alien probe chair. Congrats on another social networking friend, though it's probably best not to explain how you met.

Look for the White Power Crystal that jettisoned out of Randy's alien probe. Pick it up off the floor. Exit the alien probe chamber and go to the left on the main level.

Tip

Don't forget the Cult Pamphlet and the Rectal Photography Kit in the chest by the alien cockpit.

Use the White Power Crystal, then your alien probe to unlock the alien cockpit. With all these alien probes hanging about, you might not believe it, but the word "cockpit" is actually harmless.

Take a breath before the last battle. Check out the holographic map of the solar system and the security monitors tuned to South Park. Open the chest in the front of the room for your last collection of loot. Before you leave, though, shoot the Chimpstomon sitting atop the security monitors and receive Beefsteak for your collection.

Two Alien Pilots steer the ship but give up on that minor responsibility when they see you. They're joined by an Alien Defense Matrix to make matters worse.

The Alien Defense Matrix has to go first. It gives the two aliens too much defense. Use the Alien Ray Gun or a similarly potent ranged attack to do some damage to the Alien Defense Matrix in the heat. Once it's destroyed, try to stun or immobilize the Alien Pilot while you exterminate the other extraterrestrial. Give the Alien Pilot everything you've got with the power points that you have left.

"We have another UFO crash. We have to get to it before the Japanese do."
—Big Bad Government Guy

Watching the last two aliens vanish into spaceship snarking toward South Park. The ship impacts on the outskirts of town, but not before the government notices the disturbance. A high-ranking general orders the troops to move in and secure the site.

You suddenly wake up in bed, and it's morning. Not a scratch on you. How about that.

Taco Troubles

Introduction

You trashed your school, stole the Stick of Truth back from the Bard, became a member of the Kingdom of Kupa Keep, and then got nabbed by aliens bent on probing the great unknown—otherwise known as your ass. And that was all on your first day in South Park. What could possibly be crazier today? One word: Encherito.

Day 2 Quest List

Gain Allies
Earthquakes. Check. Uncontrollable fires. Check. A crashed UFO turned government site posing as a Taco Bell. Check. Just another day in South Park, and Cartman needs you to recruit more allies to handle the mess.

Recruit the Goth Kids
What better allies than kids that dress like the undead and are way too cool to keep their lungs healthy? Go talk to them anyway.

Nonconformist
Circle around town collecting clothes, smokes, and coffee to fit in with the Goth Kids. It won't be as easy as it sounds: Goths are picky about who they let sit on the cement steps with them.

PTA Problems
You think the PTA has problems worrying about what the alleged Taco Bell is going to do to the town? Wait till they find out Nazi Zombie body parts come included in the extra value meals.

Attack the School
Whose side are you on? Cartman's or Kyle's? You'll have to choose to ally with the humans or the elves, then launch an epic assault on an ultra-fortified, war-torn bunker—South Park Elementary.

Go Back Home
You discover who really stole the Stick of Truth, but before you can have it out with the Ruler of Darkness, your parents announce bedtime. Go home and get some sleep.

Defeat the Underpants Gnomes
Ha, you thought you were getting sleep!? No chance. Underpants Gnomes raid your drawers for your drawers, then shrink you down to their size. Chase after them to regain your dignity.

New Quest: Gain Allies

“They claim that the only reason huge tents have gone up to cover this area is to mask the construction of a new Taco Bell, which will open sometime later this month.”

—Midget in a Bikini

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Listen to Cartman rant on about earthquakes and fires.
Step 2: Complete the quest “Recruit the Goth Kids.”
Step 3: Complete the quest “Nonconformist.”
Step 4: Complete the quest “PTA Problems.”

After your restful night of frying aliens and crashing spaceships, it’s time for a new day and new adventures. Leave your bedroom and head downstairs. Stop off at the TV to watch a news report on fires and earthquakes around the town. Hmmm, could that have anything to do with an unidentified flying object dropping out of the sky?

Dirty Little Liars

Cartman rushes through your front door complaining about the fires and earthquakes. In the chaos, the cheating-bastard elves have apparently stolen the Stick of Truth again, and it has Cartman’s panties in a twist. Cartman asks you, the best kid he knows for scoring social networking friends, to recruit the Goth Kids for Kupa Keep.

New Quest: Recruit the Goth Kids

“Sorry, Frodo, we don’t play Dungeons and Douchebags.”
—Michael

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Speak with the Goth Kids in the back of the school.
Step 2: Complete the “Nonconformist” quest.
Step 3: Get ambushed by the elves. And like it.
Step 4: Return to the Goth Kids.
Step 5: Complete the “PTA Problems” quest.
Step 6: Dance for the Goth Kids.
Step 7: Recruit the Goth Kids for Kupa Keep or the Elven Kingdom.

Seek out the Goth Kids at South Park Elementary. Take the Fast Travel Flag to the school and follow the path to the gate that leads to the docking bays behind the school. The four Goths hang out smoking and making sure their eyeliner doesn’t run.

Brood like a Goth Dude

The Goths want nothing to do with you. You don’t dress like a vampire, you don’t piss vinegar on the world like they do—basically, you’re a conformist. You’re going to have to change your look and attitude if you want to befriend them.

New Quest: Nonconformist

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Buy the Goth Cloth, Goth Cap, and Goth Clothes from the U-Stor-It street merchant.
Step 2: Wrestle the Cigarettes away from the gang in the alley next to Jimbo's Guns.
Step 3: Buy the Tweek Bros. Dark Roast from the Tweek Bros. coffee shop.
Step 4: Get ambushed by the elves. And like it.
Step 5: Return to the Goth Kids.
Step 6: Complete the "PTA Problems" quest.
Step 7: Dance for the Goth Kids.

The Goths suggest that you get yourself a Marilyn Manson makeover. That means buying three pieces of clothing to put on—Goth Clothes, Goth Gloves, and Goth Cap—and finding Cigarettes and a special coffee blend to fit right in.

Hobo Sales

Zip over to the northeastern part of town and look for the U-Stor-It building. A street merchant sells odd items in front of the storage facility.

Tip

If you don't have the 16 bucks to buy your Goth clothes, you really need a job, bro. But since that's not an option, go mug some elves in town for the green.

Buy the Goth Cap for $5, the Goth Clothes for $8, and the Goth Gloves for $3. Put on your new Goth clothes. You now look like you're ready to rob a bank—or sit with the Goths.

"Oh, I'm sorry. I didn't realize it was a crime to want a more pleasing figure."
—Smoking Boy

Set out to the west to find the Jimbo's Guns store. Three Smoking Scoundrels loiter in the side alley to the left of the store. If you want to be badass, fight 'em in your Goth clothes. Or you can change back into your better gear and bulk up for the thrashing.

Chomp on your snacks to keep your HP high and smack down the first Smoking Scoundrel. With one down, you've increased your odds to survive by…a lot. Extinguish the second Scoundrel with the rest of your special abilities and then go nose-to-nose with the final Scoundrel.

Pocket the Cigarettes from the Scoundrels and return to Tweek's old haunt. Inside Tweek Bros. you can buy the Tweek Bros. Dark Roast for a buck.

Ambush!

You now have all the items you need to return to the Goths. Those sons of bitches, the elves, have other plans, though. Four of 'em ambush you outside Tweek Bros. and, no matter whether you win or lose the fight, they bring you back to their king, Kyle.

"Surrender yourself and prepare thy heart. The King of Elves wishes to speak with thee."
—Elf

Kyle tries to convince you that Cartman is out of his mind. He claims that Cartman is hiding the Stick of Truth to keep the feud between humans and elves going. The Elf King asks that you still recruit the Goth Kids, but report back to him instead of Cartman.

Tip

The gnome bag in Kyle's Backyard and the chest inside the tent hold class-specific items. For example, if you were playing a Thief, you would only find the Assassin's Dagger in the gnome bag, along with the Elven Archer Patch since it isn't a class-specific item.

Go speak with the Goth Kids decked out in your black. They approve of your look but still think you're a conformist. The Goths hand you a "Fuck the Conformists" sign to go tape to the PTA table in the middle of their meeting. Do that and they'll think you're cool.

Taco Troubles

New Quest: PTA Problems

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Plant the "Fuck the Conformists" sign on the PTA table.
Step 2: Meet Randy in the bathroom.
Step 3: Learn the Sneaky Squeaker.
Step 4: Sneak into the Taco Bell site.
Step 5: Defeat the Nazi Zombie.
Step 6: Get the Recording Device from the conference room.
Step 7: Return the Tape Recorder to the PTA.

After the elves let you go, shuffle over to the Community Center on South Park's west side. The whole town is in an uproar about the new Taco Bell site and there's a big PTA meeting to discuss what to do about it.

You carry your anti-conformist sign through the crowd…and nobody notices. After the meeting breaks up, place the sign on the PTA table. Randy intercepts you and calls you into the bathroom for a private chat. Yo, get your mind out of the gutter. Randy may be weird, but he's not that kind of weird.

The Sneaky Squeaker

> "Kee ya! You call that farting on someone? You missed by a mile. Try again."
>
> —Randy Marsh

Okay, so it's a little weird that Randy's in a karate suit in the bathroom. Ignore that minor point and concentrate on what he has to tell you about your new farting technique: the Sneaky Squeaker.

When Mr. Mackey unzips at the urinal, try out your new distraction fart. If you can get Mackey to drip, you've mastered the Sneaky Squeaker. Now you'll be able distract opponents and get them to move positions—very useful for sneaking by enemies when you don't want to be seen. While Mackey's indispposed, loot his ass before taking off. Chinpokomon (Gophermon) is found inside of the last bathroom stall.

Yo Quiero Taco Bell!

> "Look, it—it's a simple question. If this is gonna be a HUGE Taco Bell, WILL it serve enchiritos? I think we have a right to know—BLARGH!"
>
> —Townsperson

Randy suggests you check out the Taco Bell site—you know, the one with the big UFO sticking out of ground—so motor up to the north side of town. The government is already camped out waiting for their chalupas.

The two military guards won't let you just stroll right in. Use your new Sneaky Squeaker to distract the guards. When they step forward to smell who dealt it, slip behind them and through the barricade.

One more guard stands watch at the facility entrance. Carefully walk over and power up the generator beside the truck. The loose wires electrify the nearby puddle.

Use your Sneaky Squeaker to lure the guard out until he steps in the puddle. That takes him out. If you get caught by any of the guards, you must restart at the front of the site.

The doors to the military facility are locked. You can find some loot inside the CIA truck with the Taco Bell sign slapped on its side, then use your alien probe to teleport atop the roof. Open the bag under the satellite dish for the Stone Hammer and Rusty Pipe.

Nazi Zombie Apocalypse

You sneak into the facility through the roof air vent and listen in on the government's plans for South Park. The military is trying to contain a strange, toxic goo that turns anything it touches into Nazi Zombies. We haven't ruled out the guacamole yet.

The Nazi Zombie escapes and chews up the military guards. It's up to you to stop the threat. After you spill the Nazi's guts, collect the SWAT Armor set (SWAT Vest, SWAT Tactical Gloves, SWAT Armored Headgear) from the two guards before entering the conference room. Grab the Tape Recorder from the table. It incriminates the government in a plot to nuke all of South Park destroy the contamination and deny hungry citizens any tacos.

PTA Solutions

Nazi Zombies are now on the loose. Fight the Nazi Zombies in front of the military facility to break free. Return to the Community Center and hand the Recording Device over to the PTA. Randy's so excited that his conspiracy theories have been justified that he snaps a photo of you with your "Fuck the Conformists" sign in front of the PTA. You now have the proof you need to befriend the Goth Kids.

Return to the Goth Kids behind the school. Notice that the zombie contagion has spread. Zombies have invaded town like hobby nerds at a cosplay convention. If you feel like it, you can interrupt zombies munching on random citizens for extra experience and loot.

Goth Grooves

The Goths are impressed, but they're not convinced that you have what it takes to sit on the school steps all day and philosophize about death. You must also dance like a Goth. As the dance mini-game plays, press the corresponding colored buttons as the icons scroll up to the burning cigarette timer. Don't spaz out and you're in!

Caution

There's no turning back now. After recruiting the Goth Kids, you must ally with a faction: Cartman's humans or Kyle's elves. Your choice affects what happens during the "Attack the School" quest.

Introduction

Welcome to the first chapter of our comprehensive guide on Sir Ken Robinson's famous TED Talk, "Why Do Schools Kill Creativity?" In this chapter, we will explore the current state of the school curriculum and why it is in need of a change. We will also discuss the importance of creativity in education and how it can be fostered in the classroom.

What's Wrong with the School Curriculum?

The current school curriculum is designed to prepare students for a specific set of jobs that were relevant in the past. However, the world has changed significantly since then, and many of these jobs no longer exist. As a result, students are graduating with skills that are not relevant to the modern workforce. This is a major problem that needs to be addressed.

Why Do Schools Kill Creativity?

Sir Ken Robinson argues that schools kill creativity because they are designed to produce a standardized product. This means that students are taught to think in a linear fashion and to follow a set of rules. This stifles their creativity and makes it difficult for them to think outside the box. In order to foster creativity, schools need to be more flexible and allow students to explore their interests.

The Importance of Creativity in Education

Creativity is essential for success in the modern world. It allows us to think critically, solve problems, and adapt to change. In order to foster creativity in the classroom, teachers need to create a safe and supportive environment where students feel comfortable taking risks. They also need to provide students with opportunities to explore their interests and to collaborate with others.

Conclusion

In conclusion, the current school curriculum is in need of a change. It is designed to prepare students for a specific set of jobs that were relevant in the past, but the world has changed significantly since then. As a result, students are graduating with skills that are not relevant to the modern workforce. This is a major problem that needs to be addressed. Creativity is essential for success in the modern world, and schools need to be more flexible and allow students to explore their interests.

Step 1: Return to Kyle at Diner Kingdom
Step 2: Travel to the Rear Entrance of the Goth Kids.
Step 3: Command Jimmy to get Hall Pip to open the "Faculty Only" door in back of the school.
Step 4: Get to the cafeteria.
Step 5: Breach the cafeteria defenses
Step 6: Blow through the barricade to enter the basement door
Step 7: Defeat the Boiler Room Zombies
Step 8: Break through the barricade in the lobby
Step 9: Defeat Butlers.
Step 10: Clear the upstairs hallway
Step 11: Confront Cartman in the fourth-grade classroom.
Step 12: Defeat Cartman
Step 13: Realize you've been duped.
Step 14: Go after the Ruler of Darkness.

Note

If you return to Kyle's backyard and speak to Kyle after recruiting the Goth Kids, you begin the short version of the "Attack the School" quest. If you don't want to side with Kyle, speak with Cartman at Kupa Keep.

Now's the time to choose between Cartman (humans) and Kyle (aliens). The version of the quest assumes you choose to side with Kyle. After the ET Key congratulates you on your friend-making skills, climb the tower to the left and search for a giant red cigar ash. Call the Goth Kids to the Elven Kingdom for the big raid on the school.

Note

Your worthy deeds have earned you a new title: Commander.

"Get in there and break some shit." —Pete

Take charges in and explains he intercepted a Twitter message—er, he shot down one of the humans' message ravens—and the evil Wizard King has the Stick of Truth hidden in his desk at school. You race off to the school to take your revenge on the human scum.

The humans have barricaded the front door. Well, since you can't penetrate the front, try a rear entry. Command Jimmy to give you Bardic Access to hamstring Jimmy. Duck inside once Jimmy grants you access to the door.

You enter a trashed kitchen, and Cartman's voice pipes in over the intercom. He says that you're fighting for the wrong side and you have to free yourself from Kyle's control. Light the stove and then step back and use Cup-a-Spell to blow open the service door and shoot out the Chinpokomon (Donkeykong) inside. Also, snag the loot in the kitchen cabinet, the book bag, and on the off-by-before you move closer to the cafeteria.

The cafeteria serving line is in worse shape than both other skippy pies, but at least it's deserted. Look behind the serving area and inside the trash heap to the right of the serving area for additional loot, including Chef's Old P.O. Box Key.

"Attention, Elf King. The building has been fortified, and the armies of Christ shall never surrender." —Cartman

Enter the cafeteria and stay to the right side as you collect loot from dead bodies. Search for the Flame Patch behind the lunch menu on the ground to the far right.

Tip

Raid the Snappy Snacks vending machine in the cafeteria to stock up on consumables.

Two humans man a fire hose at the barricade to the left. Shoot the pipe above the head of the far human to cut off the hose's water supply and then put it out with your Ice Wand. Next, shoot the hanging light; the fire wires will drop to the ground and fry the two humans before you can say, "Medic!"

One KKK Soldier defends the area past the fire hose. He may have a lot of hit points, but the two of you can easily make him look as silly as Sheldon Cooper sums wrestling. Note that he does not attack if the electrical hazard trap was used.

"I'm gonna beat you like your daddy." —KKK Soldier

Destroy the red barrier with a fiery Cup-a-Spell, or bypass it through the destructible air vent in the wall. Three humans—a KKK Ranger, KKK Ranger, and KKK Archer—attack you as you pass through the barrier. Smack during each round to keep your hit points high, and lay laser on the Archer first with ranged attacks, then the Ranger, then the Ranger.

Note

You can also blow through the hall barricade. See the "Attack the School (Cartman)" section for details.

"Apparently the plague's been going around. It's spread by rats and the Wizard King's mid-ma-mom." —Jimmy

Exit the cafeteria through the doors that you used the Gold Key on when you broke Craig out of detention. You're back in the hallway leading to the lobby. Approach the barricade and aim at the sprinkler overhead. Shoot the sprinkler to rain down water and short out the fan.

Use Cup-a-Spell on the torch by the human atop the barricade. The explosion obliterates the human and ruins the barricade.

Stand next to the burnt board with the shield on it. Attack the middle and it will break in half. Now you can use it as a ramp to cross to the other side.

Attack the KKK Abbot in front of the basement door. He will immediately raise the KKK Paragon from the dead and you'll be facing two powerful enemies at the same time. Even so, it shouldn't be too much hassle if you Perfect Block after and chew Cheesy Puffs as step high on HP.

Collect your loot from the downed corpses and descend to the basement when you're ready for a tougher challenge.

"Be careful. He can still bust us for not having hall passes." —Kyle

Use the basement door to descend to the lower level. Kyle and the crew join you as you discover that the hall monitors have been infected with the green zombie goo.

Your first basement battle lets you know things are going to be tough down here. The Nazi Zombie Kommandant is a hefty foe, and he's backed up by Nazi Zombie Soldiers and Nazi Zombie Engineers. Use the Zombie Kommandant as a shield when you want to get to fry three attacks each round. Once you isolate the Kommandant, smack on a Health Potion after each of the enemy's hits to recover enough HP to survive enough rounds until it's back. Loot the Hammer of Smiting off the really dead Kommandant.

Take the next basement door to the tunnel section coated with spots of green goo or the floor. Climb the ladder to the upper section.

Shoot the pipe valve to shut off the steam and then smash open the vent to the right of the pipe. Open the nearby toolbox for extra loot.

Squeeze through the air duct (if you reach the panel to the right. Smash open the vent so that it drops and crunches one of the Nazi Zombies below. Shoot the electrical panel so that it catches on fire above the ironic zombie's head and use Cup-a-Spell to ignite the electrical panel and roast the patrolling enemy when he's below it.

Command Stan to summon his pet dog. Sparky lets loose and goes down next to the first Nazi Zombie. The pee puddle connects with the electrified puddle and the first Nazi Zombie sizzles.

Caution

You can't cross the electrified puddle until you shut off the generator.

Head back down the ladder to the first level. Smash the steam pipe and cross through it to bypass the green goo. Shatter the pallet in front of the gate.

Pull the lever on the generator to shut off the electricity. Cross the puddle and attack the remaining Nazi Zombie Engineer. If you missed any of the tricks earlier, you might have to fight off more than one Nazi Zombie.

The Nazi Zombie Ginger Fatbeast is armed with a kick-axe; so if you want to avoid getting beaten to within inches of your life, concentrate back-to-back special abilities on a single Defiler and remove him from the equation quickly. Grab the Necromancer Robes of the Nazi Zombie Gingers.

What's Growing in the Boiler Room??

Use the boiler room before you depart the lower section. Sift through the toolbox for more loot and stop by the work table for a disturbing sight. Peel dishes with the names of all your friends wait for some sort of unspeakable experiment—oh, and there's green goo growing in the vat to enforce a name. It's definitely not splash dip.

Head toward the basement exit, but smash through the pallet beside the stairs first. Score the Battery Label and other loot in the duffel bag under the stairs.

"You think they're dead? Kinda don't wanna know." —Henrietta Biggle

You come up in an already-ransacked hallway. Examine the bodies for more loot and cross to the door leading into the lobby.

The humans have fortified the lobby with stacked books, piled chairs—and a flaming catapult. Butlers will launch flaming balls of poop down on you while you figure out how to get through the barricade. You can't smash through it; you have to go around it.

Look up for a robotic eye hanging from the balcony. Use your alien probe to teleport you atop the balcony and away from the catapult's flaming bags of poop.

Snag the loot out of the book bag on the left side of the balcony, then slide down the jump rope hanging down off the right side.

"I should've picked the Blacksmith class." —Token

Good Butlers into launching a flaming bag in front of the wooden barricade on the right side of the human defenses. Quickly Cup-a-Spell and waft the gas over so that it crosses through the flames and explodes the wooden barricade.

Put a hurt on the humans at the barricade. Depending on how well you've used your Cup-a-Spell, you might be down to a KKK Paragon and KKK Abbot by the time you fight. If that's the case, poste them.

Butlers flees to the next room when you stomp down his support. Leave him for now and man the catapult. Fire a load at the front door barricade and watch it catch on fire.

"A pox on your nuts." —Jimmy

Use Cup-a-Spell on the fiery barricade and it explodes. Your reinforcements pour in and secure the area. Dog Poo opens the main door for you so that you can follow after Butlers.

Beat Up Butlers

It's a showdown with Butlers before you can reach the stairs to the second floor. Butlers deals serious damage with his hammer and medieval arsenal attacks, thinks defense first with Perfect Blocks and snacks when your HP gets low. Butlers has a lot of hit points, so it will be a long battle, which you can win if you're quick on the reflexes and quicker on the axe-gas. Grab Butlers' Hammer of Storms once he is knocked him flat.

Raid the bodies in the area. When you're ready to rumble in the classrooms, head upstairs.

Fight to the Fourth Grade

Search the locker back by the kindergarten and the dead human in the hallway at the top of the stairs. Slip by the lighting shots and humans as they attack at each other with wooden swords; you level up the three enemies in the hall, you can grab the Necromancer Hood from them. Shoot Pterodactyl in the locker on the right to add it to your collection before you leave the area.

Continue through the darkness to the fourth- and fifth-grade hallways. The rest of your group joins you as you prepare for the final assault. Before you use the fourth-grade door, enter the fifth-grade classroom and open the sink cabinet for extra loot. Interact with Lemmiwinks's hand form. This is your only chance to do so.

"Fat Ass is in there with the Stick. Sir Douchebag, lead us to victory." —Kyle

Open the door to bomb it on Cartman. He tries to convince you that you've chosen the wrong side, but you won't have any of his human lies. Load the fat cadaver and shoot prior to bomb. After you're asked to choose sides, give Cartman a real hard leg to initiate combat.

Tip

You have one last chance to change sides. If you want to attack Kyle in the fourth-grade classroom, you still can before you attack Cartman.

Don't let Cartman kit you in one attack! He has a few strong attacks, and you must do a Perfect Block as often as you can to reduce damage. Stock after each round to keep your hit points near full to better survive Cartman's barrage. Steadily track away at Cartman's HP until you're his doodles to break out his lethal weapon—his flaming ass! In a battle of wits, you super-jew at each other's butts—winner avoids a nasty burn. Tap the Combat button at your life depends on it—it does—and out-duel the ass master himself.

With Cartman's defeat, Kyle orders the Goth Kids to retrieve the Stick of Truth from the inside of Cartman's desk. Except, fourth grade desks don't have insides.

"Oh, Clyde's out playing in the backyard with his little friends." —Clyde's Dad

They do find, however, writing on Clyde's desk that leads the group to Clyde's locker. Pissed after being banned from all time and space, Clyde has taken on the mantle of Ruler of Darkness.

During all the chaos at the school, Clyde stole the Stick of Truth. Even worse, he has created an army of Hard Zombies with a barrel of the green goo that fell from the heavens.

You immediately charge over to Clyde's house. He dad, clueless, lets you into the backyard where Clyde's fortress holds his entire army of darkness—locals converted to Nazi Zombies by the green goo.

Saved by the Stotches

Before you can brow down with an army of darkness, Butlers' parents crash the backyard and order Butlers to behave. Clyde's dad calls Clyde back in too, and the rest of you realize you're screwed if you don't highball it back home right away. Here's to another good night's sleep.

New Quest: Go Back Home

“Goodnight, my little gumdrop. Hope you’re enjoying all the peace and quiet in our new home as much as we are.” —Your Mom

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Um, head back home.
Step 2: Climb in bed.

Just like the night before, head back home and retire for the night. If you don’t get a move on fast enough, your parents will come looking for you.

Your parents ask you how your day has been and want you to know all about the coolest thing they’ve heard today: a mega Taco Bell is heading to town! If only you could tell them what’s in the green sauce.

New Quest: Defeat the Underpants Gnomes

> "Shit he's too big! We can't beat him!"
> —Underpants Gnome

SPOILER ALERT!
Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Catch the Underpants Gnomes going through your drawers.
Step 2: Defeat the gnomes at normal size.
Step 3: Defeat the gnomes while shrunken.
Step 4: Head into the mouse hole in your bedroom wall.
Step 5: Navigate the wall maze while killing Giant Rats.
Step 6: Catch the Underpants Warlock in your parents' bedroom.
Step 7: Beat the Underpants Warlock and gain the Gnome Dust.
Step 8: Watch horrified as the Warlock gets squished by your parents' love-making.
Step 9: Wake up. You've never been more happy to get up early in the morning.

Your night's sleep isn't interrupted by aliens this time, but by Underpants Gnomes. The weird, miniature freaks want to steal your underpants. We really don't want to know why.

Shrinkage

The gnomes attack when you climb out of bed. Compared to you, the Gnome Mobs are tiny and you can squash them with little to no problem. Knowing that they can't beat you, the gnomes summon their Underpants Warlock to shrink you down to their size.

Face off against the Gnome Mage and Gnome Conjuror. Be prepared to Perfect Block their special attacks or they'll melt you on the spot. Return the favor with your special attacks, followed by a good pummeling if you need extra damage to pound their spiked heads.

Before you enter the mouse hole, be sure to loot the fallen gnomes and score yourself Gnome Gloves and a Miner's Patch.

> Tip
>
> If you're looking to collect the gnome gear, grab the Gnome Gloves off the defeated gnomes in your bedroom before heading into the hole.

Into the Hole

Enter the mouse hole in your bedroom's back wall and chase after the Underpants Gnomes. Run in front of the mousetrap and climb up the blue and green wires to reach the pipe above. If you accidentally trigger the mousetrap, it kills you.

Parents' Room	Loot - Gnome Conjuror	Ripped Boot	$0.20

Pick up the Gnome Helmet and Super Bouncy Ball! from the right side of the pipe. Put it on if you want an increase in PP each turn while shrunk.

Go as far left as you can on the pipe and smash the pipe joint to let out the water. Aim down at the split in the blue wire with your ranged weapon and shoot the wire. The live wire will drop into a puddle below and singe the Giant Rat chewing on a gnome. The rat bolts to the right and right into the mousetrap. Splat!

Continue through the hole where you electrified the rat. Peer through a vent to see your parents talking in bed about you. From your mom's position on your dad, talking won't be on their minds a few minutes from now.

Walk through the next hole and climb up the next wire to the pipe above. Hack out the wood to your left and ascend to the live fuse box. Wait for the electricity to cease and run across to the left and pick up the Gnome Clothes and Gnome Pickaxe Head in the stash.

Return to the spot where you hacked through the wood and look to your right. Shoot the rusted pipe above you to drop a section and form a ramp up.

>
> A nest of rats lies ahead. Don't rush forward or you'll have three Giant Rats gnawing on your noggin.

Walk up the ramp and approach the next blue and green wire carefully. A Giant Rat lunges out at you from the hole to the right. Ignore the rat and climb up the wire to the pipe above.

Smash through the wood beam and walk to the right side of the pipe so that you're standing over the rats. Smash the vertical section of the pipe and a jagged piece will drop off and pierce the third Giant Rat.

Return to the blue and green wires and shoot out the wooden support near the pink insulation. The insulation will drop down in front of the closer rat and catch on fire from the sparking yellow wire.

Back down the wire and stand in front of the fire. Cup-a-Spell to the right and roast the second Giant Rat, then battle the final rat to get through. Hold your nose as you cross through the nest and recover the Gnome Pickaxe from the stash to the far right. Upgrade if possible.

Climb the final blue and green wire to reach the electrical outlet at the top. Open the outlet to gain access to your parents' bedroom. Your childhood memories will never be the same again.

> "Yeah I'm a real dirty bitch! Wanna see me in the panties!?"
> —Your Dad

You need to find the Gnome Warlock and force him to return you to normal size. Unfortunately, he's chosen to hide in your parents' bedroom in the middle of a marathon of kinky sex.

When you catch up with the gnomes on the edge of the dresser, a Gnome Mage, Gnome Elementalist, and Gnome Conjuror intercept you before you can reach the Warlock. In between pants and gasps from your parents' background activities, throw your multi-attack special abilities at the gnomes and use Perfect Blocks and snacks to keep your HP high. Cut them down one by one until they fall as limp as your dad at the end of the night's festivities.

> Tip
>
> Loot the fallen gnomes to claim the Underpants "Helmet" and Don't Tread on Me Patch.

Chase after the Warlock by sliding down the wire attached to the alarm clock on the end of the dresser. Race after him to your parents' bed, where the Warlock makes his last stand.

> "Now you've done it, fucker. It's time for some REAL underpants magic."
> —Underpants Warlock

Play defensive with the Warlock; you have to outlast his potentially devastating attacks and his higher HP total. Make sure you Perfect Block each attack and snack to keep your hit points high enough to survive a single-round barrage even if you misbless your blocks. Give him everything you've got; there are no other opponents to hold back for, and the Underpants Warlock is the final fight in Day 2.

After you beat the Underpants Warlock he hands you the Gnome Dust, which you can use from here on out to shrink to miniature size or return to normal size. The Warlock tells you that they were actually collecting underpants to stop the Taco Bell from releasing its toxic green goo into their underground world. Before he can reveal what the green goo actually is, however, your parents' rough sex flattens him. It doesn't even slow them down.

You awake back in bed. Thankfully. Hoping that what you just witnessed was a very bad dream, you prepare for your third day in South Park.

> Note
>
> The three gnomes on your parents' dresser drop the Underpants Helmet. For fun, equip it and watch as enemies puke when they approach you.
>
> If you watch your parents' kinky sex for 60 seconds, you unlock the "Perverted" achievement.

Holding the Stick

Introduction

Clyde duped everyone and stole the Stick of Truth. The self-appointed Ruler of Darkness is using the green goo to create an army of Nazi Zombie creatures, and they're all chillin' in his backyard. Now you must recruit the girls to your side, uncover the sinister secrets at the abortion clinic, and travel north to the strange, flat country of Canada before you can challenge Clyde once and for all.

Day 3 Quest List

Forging Alliances

You can't take on an army of Nazi Zombies with a bunch of boys in fantasy costumes. You need a group of girls in power makeovers to help out.

Recruit the Girls

Charm your way into the Pleases and Sparkles Club and listen in on the bitch-fests. If you can convince the girls that you're BFFs then they'll think about being seen with the opposite sex.

Pose as Bebe's Boyfriend

Someone accused someone else of being a two-faced whore. Or was that a two-faced skank? The girls need you to pretend to be Bebe's boyfriend and set up an entrapment sting on the girl they think is spreading vile gossip. Then be back for tea.

Unplanned Parenthood

Dress-up was never so much fun. Don your best lipstick and high heels to sneak into the abortion clinic for some undercover recon on bad girl activity. Before you're done you'll have an abortion and perform one on Randy.

Heading North

Well, we guess you should go north and north and north—it might take you a while wandering in the Lost Forest, but eventually you reach Canada.

O Canada

Canada has never looked so good—flattened in magnificent 2-D detail like a cutting-edge Atari 2600 game. Speak to the Canadian royalty to get your mysterious "Orcish" papers translated to English.

Beat Up Clyde!

This was fun the first time around, so why not take a swing at Clyde again? Before you can reach him, though, you have to wade through his entire army of darkness. And Morgan Freeman.

Betrayal from Within

One of your loyal band betrays you for the Stick of Truth! Who would do such a thing? One clue: It's only fitting if he ends up dead.

New Quest: Forging Alliances

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Meet up with Kyle and the others at the Elven Kingdom.
Step 2: Complete the quest “Recruit the Girls.”
Step 3: Complete the quest “Pose as Bebe’s Boyfriend.”
Step 4: Complete the quest “Unplanned Parenthood.”
Step 5: Complete the quest “Heading North.”
Step 6: Complete the quest “O Canada.”
Step 7: Return to Kyle and assault Clyde’s fortress.

Meet up with Kyle and the rest of the crew at the Elven Kingdom. The situation is more dire than you imagined: Clyde has built a fortress of darkness four stories tall and transformed more than 50 locals into Nazi Zombie somethings.

Even with the combined forces of humans and elves, you don’t have enough warriors to defeat Clyde’s forces. You must add the most powerful faction in the neighborhood to your cause: not the Pirates, not the Federation—the Girls.

New Quest: Recruit the Girls

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Talk to Annie in front of City Hall.
Step 2: Beat up the Bully Girls.
Step 3: Let Annie take you to the Pleases and Sparkles Club.
Step 4: Complete the quest “Pose as Bebe’s Boyfriend.”
Step 5: Complete the quest “Unplanned Parenthood.”
Step 6: Complete the quest “Heading North.”
Step 7: Complete the quest “O Canada.”
Step 8: Bring the translated list back to Annie.

Head to the Town Hall, where bullies have their eyes on Annie’s Justin Bieber toy. You may not be able to rescue plastic Bieber, but concentrate on what’s important here—making friends with one of the girls in the Pleases and Sparkles Club. Duke it out with the unladylike ladies and save Annie from further embarrassment.

“We HAVE to know for SURE if Monica Ryland is a two-faced bitch or not.” —Wendy

After you beat the bullies, approach Wendy and she’ll invite you into the girls’ Pleases and Sparkles Club. Try not to stare at the dreamy Orlando Bloom poster in the background, and listen to the girls chitter-chatter about whether they should join your team for a “new role-playing game.”

Chicks obviously dig the silent type, so don’t say a word. Let them decide to give you a task to prove your worth.

Back outside, Annie explains that the girls believe Monica is a two-faced liar and that you’ll be pretending to be Bebe’s boyfriend to see if Monica will try to steal you away. Go to the park to work your gigolo magic.

New Quest: Pose as Bebes Boyfriend

“Thank GOD that new Taco Bell caused an earthquake, huh girls!?”

—Wendy

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Talk to Monica in the park.

Step 2: Deal with Monica’s boyfriend.

Step 3: Return to Annie at the Town Hall.

Step 4: Speak with the Pleases and Sparkles Club again.

Look for Monica sitting on the park bench. Talk to her and she’ll start chatting away about how she’s Bebe’s friend, but Bebe’s not really the be-all and end-all; she’s a little two-faced, and you’re a really interesting boy, and maybe—

The girls burst in then and catch Monica in her skankitude. They disown her and bring along a certain someone—Monica’s boyfriend Jake—who isn’t happy with his cheating girlfriend.

Unfortunately, Jake takes out his anger on you. You’ll have to defend your honor on the basketball court, but the only balls you’ll be using are the two stuck between your legs. Settle the disagreement with weapons and a steady stream of verbal taunts. Make him eat tarmac before heading back to Annie.

New Quest: Unplanned Parenthood

SPOILER ALERT!

Ah...

Quest Breakdown:
Step 1: Get a makeover!
Step 2: Visit the Unplanned Parenthood abortion clinic.
Step 3: Enter the Recepti0nist.
Step 4: Enter Operating Room A.
Step 5: Let Dr. Poonlover attempt an abortion on you.
Step 6: Change into the Surgical Scrubs, Cap, and Gloves.
Step 7: Enter the Records Room.
Step 8: Search the 2013 records.
Step 9: Locate Doctor Nancy Boyd.
Step 10: Leave Operating Room A.
Step 11: Navigate the air vents.
Step 12: Avoid the machine-gun turret.
Step 13: Defeat the Nazi Zombie Fetuses.
Step 14: Stop the Giant Nazi Zombie Fetus.
Step 15: Exit the abortion clinic.

The girls are happy that you outed Monica, but they still aren't convinced that they should join your cause. They need you to do one more thing for them—infiltrate the abortion clinic and steal some records to see who really has gotten herself pregg0rs.

Of course, you can't go in as a guy, so the girls get you off to the makeover studio. Choose a new, effeminate look, from hair style to shoes, and you're ready to find the abortion clinic into accepting you as a patient.

"It's okay, don't be scared. The first one's always the scariest."
—Recepti0nist

Walk over to Unplanned Parenthood and speak with the receptionist at the front desk. Enter the door marked "Patients Only" when you're ready.

Caution

Your buddy will leave you at the "Patients Only" door. You're on your own for a while.

Proceed to the Records Room and to the handle. Security responds that access to the area is restricted to physicians only. You need to find another way in.

Sucks to Be You

Continue on to Operating Room A. Dr. Poonlover greets you at the door. He thinks you're a sitting prey for a patient, but what the hell—BWAHa have to be paid for somehow.

"Alright, just sit back and relax. We'll get that fuck trash taken right out of you. Here we go..."
—Dr. Poonlover

Sit back in the chair and let Dr. Poonlover hook up his suction equipment. Wash the anti-abortion button to avoid a major problem between your crotch. And you thought the alien probe was bad?

You manage to burn out Poonlover's machine and he steps out to fix it. Look for the Surgical Scrubs, Cap, and Gloves on the bay behind your chair. Put them on to blend in with the rest of the three-fourths-evil staff members.

Record Business

Your doctor costume fools security and they open the Records Room for you when you try again. Search the 2013 box (labeled in yellow) for the records the girls want.

You haven't a clue what the records say—they're in some foreign tongue. Save the records for now and worry about living through the next few minutes.

Rarely joins you in Records Room, he's been searching for further signs of the weird activity around South Park, and it's led him here. Seconds later, the government goons from the Taco Bell exit the door to the back alley. Before they can fully interrogate you, they're warned that the zombie contagion has broken out in the clinic, and they fl0 Dr. Poonlover full of lead mistaking him for a Nazi Zombie.

Shortcut

You're locked in the Records Room. Snuff some Gnome Dust and shrink to your tiny size. Escape the room through the mouse hole in the back wall.

You find yourself in the floor under the guards. Watch closely as one of the guards drops down to toilet at the floorboards. That's a big clue to use wizard as a weapon. Aim your ranged weapon at the pipe ahead and shoot. Guards will hear the noise and machine-gun the floor, killing the nearby Nazi Zombie Rats for you. Cleaver.

Smash the fetus jar and fetus inside, then quickly aim with your ranged weapon at the fat set of pipes overhead. Shoot the pipes to bring down more guard goiths and kill the nearby Nazi Zombie Stuffing Gnomes. Collect the Master Razor from the discarded gnome bat near the fuse box.

Step into the fuse box and hack at the first cable until the interior wires show. Use Cup-a-Spell and waft your gas in the direction of the live wires to cause an explosion.

The boom reels both cables in the fuse box. Walk through the fuse box and climb up the cable on the back wall to reach Operating Room 02.

Cleaning Up Randy

You discover Randy in the operating room wearing a blonde wig and hiding from the government goons. Use the Gnome Dust to grow back to normal size.

The government goons find you quickly. They aren't buying your doctor routine and challenge you to prove you're a real surgeon by performing a real abortion—on Randy.

You have three procedures to accomplish to avoid getting shot up by the goons. First, inject the syringe correctly by waiting for the needle to point toward the center of Randy's groin. Second, spin to shave. Third, when prompted, move the vacuum from one side to the other until the procedure is complete.

"Uh...you go ahead. Might be a while before I can walk very well."
—Randy Marsh

Leave Randy behind in pain and head out into the hallway with the government goons. While searching the area, they've stirred up a nightmare from the clinic dumpsters—Nazi Zombie Fetuses! The Fetuses rip through the goons and leave you the whole chomping on the flesh of dead soldiers. Bullets pokes his head through a crack in the ceiling and joins you for the final push-out of the clinic.

Walk to your left and shoot the metal air vent to the right of the Nazi Zombie Rats. The vent falls straight down to make a ladder at the top of the shaft. In structure form, you can use the roll of gauze to climb to the second shelf and the vent to reach the top of the shelf. However, you still have the rats to deal with.

Instead, head left to the soldier with a hole ripped through his chest. Use the Gnome Dust to shrink down and walk through the opening in the bloody chest cavity.

Walk up the fallen table that serves as a ramp and shoot the hanging ceiling plank above. The plank falls and forms the second half of your ramp leading down to the dresser.

Climb the fallen air vent to the left of the dresser and enter the hole in the wall. You'll see a small generator on fire in the far corner. Smash the wooden support and Cup-a-Spell some gas in the generator's direction to cause an explosion.

Use the cable by the destroyed generator to climb to the upper wall section. Stop by the discarded gnome hat for some extra loot and eyeball the Nazi Zombie Rats farther along the wood beam.

Aim at the wooden support above the Nazi Zombie Rats and shoot out the crossbeam. The wood flattens the rats and clears the way without you having to risk rabies.

Climb down the wooden support to the level with the dead rats. Open the air vent to the left of the squashed rodents to enter the air vent.

Machine-Gun Mayhem

Now the air vents to move back to the hallway near the Records Room. As you pass the open vents, you see scenes of mayhem. Pistols can't hold the Zombie Fetuses at bay, and neither can machine guns or flamethrowers. The carnage makes a bomb scene look like a picnic.

"I'll take a bullet for you, Commander Douchebag! I guess that wouldn't stop the other bullets, though, huh?"
—Butters

Exit the air vent. The military has set up an automatic machine gun on the far side of the room. Watch carefully as it rips through two Nazi Zombie Fetuses crawling through the kill zone. Don't wait that way.

Caution

Unless you want to end up holier than the Pope, avoid the machine gun's kill zone.

You'll see a downed soldier at the edge of the kill zone. Aim at the soldier's hand grenade and stand back as you pull the trigger. The explosion obliterates the soldier and clears the way to reach the back of the room and access the robotic eye.

Break out your alien probe and use the robotic eye to teleport up to the pipe by the pressure wheel. Turn the wheel to shut off the water.

Now that the water has been cut off, use the robotic eye again to teleport into the broken pipe. Ascend the inside of the pipe to reach the exposed area at the top.

Shoot the wires to drop the hanging light on the machine gun below. When it bursts into flame, you know it's safe to cross the kill zone.

Giant Nazi Zombie Fetus Attack!

Return to the floor and cross the kill zone. Cup-a-Spell the burning machine gun to cause it to explode so you can pass through. Approach the soldier under the sprinkler.

Tip

You can gain the Fatuseers Chinpokemon by crawling through the hole in the destroyed wall by the machine gun and picking it up off the floor in the corner.

Nazi Zombie Fetuses rush at you from down the hallway. The four Fetuses swarm you and Butters, but teaming up you should be more than a match for the goopy messes.

Continue to the front hallway, where the last of the government goons are holed up. With all the "baby" Fetuses wiped out, the "mama" Fetus arrives. The Giant Nazi Zombie Fetus breaks open the wall and munches on the last soldiers before turning its attention to you.

Don't hold anything back in this fight. Tap into Butters' best abilities and use your own special attacks to pound away at the Giant Nazi Zombie Fetus's fat pores. It's going to take a while to whittle away its HP, but your consumables to remove negative effects and keep your HP high. Eventually, your two-to-one attacks will overwhelm the monstrosity.

The clinic looks more like Jeffrey Dahmer's bachelor pad now, so it's time to get out. Leave the death and destruction behind, and go see Annie again.

Holding the Stick

New Quest: Heading North

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Talk to the girls back at the Pleases and Sparkles Club.
Step 2: Return to the Elven Kingdom and collect your passport.
Step 3: Go to Photo-Dojo for your passport photo.
Step 4: Find your way through the Lost Forest to head north to Canada.
Step 5: Travel to Ottawa.
Step 6: Speak with the Prince.

“Your name is no longer Commander Douchebag. It is now ‘Larry Bobinski’ from Cleveland.”

—Cartman

When you speak with Annie at the Town Hall, she brings you back into the Pleases and Sparkles Club. The girls like what you’ve done so far, but they can’t find out who the traitor is until you get the medical records you stole translated.

Return to the guys back at the Elven Kingdom. Cartman believes that the medical records are in the strange Orcish tongue spoken in the lands to the north. You will have to go there to translate the document. Kyle and company hand you a fake passport for the trip; all you need is a new passport photo.

Preventing Perversion

To set out on your journey to the Kingdom of the North, first visit the local Photo-Dojo. Go up to the clerk at the front desk and ask him to get your pictures taken. He’ll buzz you into the photo studio in back.

Loot Table: Photo-Dojo

N = Not Junk / C = Collectable / Q = Quest Item / E = Equipment / D = Dye

General Area	Location	Item	$$$ Value	N	C	Q	E	D

The studio photographer sets you up in front of a green screen and starts snapping pictures. He wants you to lose some clothes, and the choice comes up to “Change Outfit” or “Keep Current Outfit.” The guy’s a perv, and you can’t continue until you choose to change your outfit. He eventually gets you to strip down to your undies.

Before the studio photographer demands you look good in your birthday suit, the real photographer shows up. Fortunately for the shyness of your privates, you get a chance to beat up the fake photographer and let the real photographer take a head shot for your passport.

Tip

Examine the cabinet in the corner for some cool junk and a Costume Patch.

The real photographer hands you a passport, and, after you spend money on any last-minute travel items, you’re free to head up to Cana—er, the Kingdom of the North.

“Sorry, but no more Americans in Canada right now! Canada is full!”

—Canadian Guard

Take a Fast Travel Flag to U-Stor-It and walk up the dirt path behind the storage truck. Pass through the farm with the cow pen and continue into the Lost Forest. If you haven’t already done so, use Dragonshout to disperse the rats that block the path.

Guess what? The Lost Forest really lives up to its name. There’s no finding a straight way through the place—it randomly shuffles some of the areas around—but if you keep walking north, you’ll eventually hit the northern border.

The Canadian Guard won’t let you in at first. However, since you have an official passport and everything he opens the gate for you.

The Great Northern Expanse—in 2-D

Welcome to the Kingdom of the North, a.k.a. Canada. Its breathtaking plains and awe-inspiring, snowcapped mountains are captured in gorgeous, limited-pixel 2-D. Get used to it; you’re gonna be here awhile.

Though you’re free to wander the Canadian map later, visit Canada’s capital city first, Ottawa. Most of the cities in Canada are set up the same way: shop near the entrance, bank to exchange U.S. dollars for Canadian dollars, and a healer in case you contract HIV. The royal palace is at the very top.

Tip

Buy any patches or gear upgrades in the Canadian shops if you have the extra cash. Once you leave, you may not be back for a while or at all.

Enter the palace and work upward to find the throne. The Prince and Princess are in attendance, and the Prince tells you that he cannot translate the document for you. He insists that you see the Earl of Winnipeg for help.

Once outside, head west to Winnipeg. Stay on the road and avoid the Dire Wolves that circle around. If you're quick, you can reach Winnipeg without an encounter. Follow the path upward to the Earl of Winnipeg's office.

Fine Furs and Fury

The Earl of Winnipeg says he will help you, but not until you rid Winnipeg of its Dire Bear infestation. Bring the Dire Bear pelts back to the Earl and he'll do something to aid you.

Tip

You don't have to leave Winnipeg to hunt Dire Bears. Look for them in the northeast corner of the city.

Leave the Earl's office and head to the right, where guards stand over an injured man. Go northeast through the gap in the forest till you reach a clearing. Dire Bears roam free up here and don't take kindly to your stepping on their turds. They will punish you unless you unload major special abilities on them right away, like Kyle's Rain of Arrows or Butters' Hammer of Storms. Once you narrow the herd to one, fillet its flanks and skin your kills to bring back fuzzy rewards for the Earl.

Return to the Earl with your fresh pelts and stack them on his desk. He agrees to help you, but he's not much help. He can't read the medical document either, but he suggests that you ask the Prince to free the Minister of Montreal for his translation skills.

Holy Shit, Seriously!?

> "Listen, it's all because the Bishop of Banff is a liberal. He does these things just to make life difficult FOR ME."
> —Prince of Canada

Return to the Prince and ask him to release the Minister of Montreal from his imprisonment in the Catacombs of Quebec. The Prince, however, is afraid that the Bishop of Banff will make a play on the throne if he does. He says he'll only release the Minister if you kill the Bishop. If you weren't sure before, you've now confirmed you're going to hell in the next life.

Set out for Banff to the west of Winnipeg. Snakes slither into your path before you can reach the city. Show a little backbone and make the reptiles wish they could crawl back into the holes they came from.

> "You are now cured of Dire AIDS. You still have AIDS, but it is no longer Dire. It is like Magic Johnson AIDS."
> —Nurse

If you contract Dire AIDS at any time, the healer in Ottawa will cure you for five bucks. With the direness purged from your system, leave Ottawa and travel back to Banff, avoiding the Dire Wolves and Dire Bears along your short journey.

Walk up to the Bishop in his cathedral and give him a whack. The Bishop might talk to God on a regular basis, but the line's dead for the Big Kahuna this time. Pile on the damage from both of your special abilities to have the priest praying for his life.

When you have the Bishop on his knees, you can choose to finish him off or take the Dire Pig Testicles he offers to serve as his own when you show the Prince proof of your deadly deed. Regardless of what you choose, you will return to the Prince with the proof you need to proceed. However, if you kill the Bishop, you gain the Dire Scepter off his corpse. If you don't kill him, the Dire Soapbe shows up in the Banff Shop and you'll have to buy it if you want it

Before leaving, be sure to open the secret door by stepping on the switch (hidden beneath a pot) that is in the left room. Inside of the chest (on the right side of the church) you'll find the Discus of Bleeding... sweet!

Duke It Out

Return to the Prince. He double-crosses you by refusing to free the Minister of Montreal. The way the Prince figures it, with the Bishop dead and the Minister locked up, no one can threaten his seat of power. Can't really argue with him there.

The Princess feels bad, though, for breaking a promise to you. She tells you to seek out the Duke of Vancouver and gives you a letter to help your cause.

Leave Ottawa and journey to the far western side of Canada, where Vancouver awaits. Enter the city and speak with the Duke of Vancouver in his estate up top.

After he reads the letter from the Princess, the Duke tells you that in order to brave the Catacombs of Quebec and free the Minister of Montreal, you must first speak with the monks who live in the southeast part of town.

> "You did it! Now go out and use your anus for the good of mankind."
> —Terrance

Mastering the Nagasaki

Zip down to the south part of town and find the dock near the house with the CHL poster on the wall. Ride the boat across to the island. Inside the log cabin you'll find the two monks, Phillip and Terrance.

The monks don't believe you're worthy of further training. Use Dragonshout on Phillip to prove you have ass power, then use Cup-a-Spell on Terrance to show him you can control your gas. Finally, move Phillip a little bit with a Sneaky Squeaker, and the two monks will teach you the magic of a new fart technique: the earth-shattering Nagasaki.

Drop a Bomb

With a new ass-flexing power under your belt, it's time to test it out. Leave Vancouver and head east till you reach the bend in the road above Ottawa. Veer up to the north and enter the cave entrance in the hills.

Boulders block the main passage into the Catacombs. Clench and unclench your butt muscles as you put together a Nagasaki strong enough to rattle the rocks apart.

A variety of creatures attack you in the next cavern. Splatter the weaker Snakes first, followed by the Dire Wolves, and leave the Dire Bears for last. After you survive the onslaught, head south into the final chamber and stop by the green chest for some healthy loot, including the Barbarian Armor.

The Minister of Montreal speaks only French. It's difficult to understand a frickin' thing he says, but he does translate the medical document for you.

New Quest: Betrayal from Within

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown
Step 1: Stop in the shop and spend all your money.
Step 2: Confront Kenny.
Step 3: Defeat Nazi Zombie Princess Kenny.
Step 4: Save South Park!
Step 5: Get rid of the Stick of Truth.

Kenny and Big Bad Government Guy retreat to the highest level of the fortress. Follow them along the ledges as you watch the massive battle of humans and elves versus the army of darkness below.

Conveniently, Clyde has commissioned a shop in his fortress. Stop inside the shop before chasing down Kenny and spend whatever money you have to fully stock your consumables and upgrade gear. This is your last major battle, so you might as well splurge.

Note

The multiple consumables listed in this shop are different types. For instance: there are Cheesy Poofs, Crunchies Chips, and Chocolate. They are all different looking and stack differently, but they all heal for the same amount of health, since they are all Small Health Potions.

Kenny controls the Stick of Truth, and you must wipe the floor with the Princess hard enough to make him a dirty blonde.

She'll send rainbows at you and a squadron of scurrying mice; Perfect Block as best you can and survive with snacks. Counterattack with your best special abilities and beat the Princess in round one.

Round two begins when Princess Kenny quaffs the green goo. Not ready to surrender, Kenny becomes Nazi Zombie Princess Kenny. The dead complexion doesn't do much for her feminine charm.

"No! Fuck you! I am the fairest maiden in all the land!"
—Kenny

Kenny's zombie version likes to sip green goo and heal. Counteract the healing with gross-out effects or major damage from your most potent special abilities. If you deal more damage than Kenny heals, you can finally put an end to the zombie threat and regain the Stick of Truth. Double huzzah!

To beat Nazi Zombie Kenny, you will have to go through a lot of Health Potions and Power Potions with rounds and rounds of fighting. Use abilities that cut down on his armor, such as the Jew's Circum-scythe, and pile on the damage. Eventually, Kenny will launch a special attack against you that only your buddy can stop. For example, he might send a Nazi Grim Reaper at you, which can only be stopped by Butters, or a flood of rats that can only be tamed by Jimmy's flute. When the special attack occurs, mash the button that's displayed and your buddy will take care of the rest.

Once your buddy removes Nazi Princess Kenny's special attack, the final step in the battle involves Cartman asking you to do the one thing you should never do--fart on a man's balls. Cartman will sneak behind Kenny and grab him from behind, exposing Kenny's privates. If you don't have enough mana, quaff a Mana Potion and load up one of your magic attacks like Dragonshout. A successful fart on Kenny wins you the final battle!

With Kenny defeated and the Stick of Truth returned to its rightful owners, South Park's citizens transform from uptight, man-eating monsters to uptight, fast-food-eating townsfolk.

South Park looks like a war zone, but the sun rises and the construction crews have holes to fill in. At least somebody's loving the destruction.

You, Kyle, Stan, and Cartman reconvene at Stark's Pond. You decide that maybe, just maybe, the Stick of Truth isn't such a good thing to have around conveniently sitting on a velvet pillow for anyone to steal. With a mighty heave, Cartman chucks the Stick out into the pond, where it sinks below the ripples and is lost in the mysterious waters.

The boys want to play a new game. Dinosaur Hunters? Pharaohs and Mummies? They ask you what you think. You finally speak, and the boys stare at you as you walk away. Cartman's final words are, "Wow, what a dick."

Big Game Huntin with Jimbo

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Travel to Jimbo's Guns.
Step 2: Buy the Hunter's Guide to South Park Wildlife.
Step 3: Use the Rubbing Alcohol to defeat the Mutant Bacteria.
Step 4: Use the Moldy Sausage to defeat the Rabid Junkyard Dog.
Step 5: Use the Blood Orange to defeat the Bloodsucking Fruit Bat.
Step 6: Use the Fromunda Cheese to defeat the Penis Mouse.
Step 7: Use the Cow Bell to defeat the Farm Cow.
Step 8: Use the Poutine to defeat the Canadian Barking Spider.
Step 9: Return to Jimbo for your rewards.

Jimbo's Guns, located in the northwest corner of the map, is the site of the side quest "Big Game Huntin' with Jimbo." Take the Fast Travel Flag to Restaurant Row and head left until you reach the first brown building.

Caution

Ideally, you want to tame the Mutant Bacteria on Day 2's "Attack the School" main quest. If you miss your chance during the main quest, you can return to the school through the side door; you just can't use the front door.

Speak with Jimbo at the counter and listen to him reminisce about all the great beasts loose in Colorado. It's a hunter's dream, and Jimbo wants you to track down six of the stranger beasties: Mutant Bacteria (in the school basement), Rabid Junkyard Dog (Kenny's house), Bloodsucking Fruit Bat (sewers), Penis Mouse (sewers), Farm Cow (farm), and Canadian Barking Spider (Canada). Buy the Hunter's Guide to South Park Wildlife for three bucks to start the side quest.

While on the "Attack the School" quest, look for the Mutant Bacteria in the basement, hidden away in the boiler room. Take the Rubbing Alcohol out and place it on the table next to the petri dishes with your friends' names taped on them.

The Mutant Bacteria appears and attacks. All the beasties you're hunting have potent attacks, so try to stun them if you can, and stock up on snacks for healing and effects-removal to counteract damage and debuffs.

Block as best you can and tag team on the Mutant Bacteria until it becomes a puddle. Continue the "Attack the School" quest and return to Jimbo's Guns when you have a chance.

Each time you return and speak with Jimbo after completing a step in the quest, he will reward you with an item to modify your weapons or armor, such as the Mr. Yuck Patch for killing the Mutant Bacteria.

Other than the Mutant Bacteria in the elementary school, you can complete the hunting objectives in any order you like. If you want to go from closest to farthest, head out to Kenny's house first. Pass the garage and look for a few dog bones next to a pile of discarded bottles. You might have to defeat the pesky hobo that stands up by the car on blocks. He will likely attack you before you can call forth the Rabid Junkyard Dog.

When you're ready, place the Moldy Sausage on the deflated inner tube next to the bones. The Rabid Junkyard Dog comes calling.

As with all the other beasties, try to stun the Rabid Junkyard Dog early in the fight before it has a chance to gnaw off your face or hump your leg. After beating the slobbering Doberman, return to Jimbo and he'll reward you with the Studded Dog Collar.

Head to the sewers next, where you can knock off two more beasts in the scum-filled maze. Use the alien probe to leap the gap in the first tunnel section, and head down the ladder at the end. Shoot the red wheel above the next sewage pipe and rush past the grate before the pipe gushes again. Loop around back and continue forward (past the Hankeys' house) until you reach a receding tunnel with a ladder. Go up the ladder and head right out to the catwalk and then back in to the stone passage before meeting up with two Angry Hobos at the next tunnel. Shoot the red wheel atop the next sewage pipe and continue to the right.

Smash apart the wooden pallet up against the wall to reveal a switch. Pull the switch to raise the nearby gate and then take the ladder inside to the next level. Continue to the left through the hole until you see two red eyes glowing in a cracked wall section.

Place the Fromunda Cheese on the skull pile to draw out the Penis Mouse.

The freakish mouse may look like a pushover, but it's not. If anything, its attacks are more horrific than those of the previous two beasts. Stun it quickly and pour on the damage before it can take out both of you.

Once you've finished the Penis Mouse off, probably with a few of your more powerful abilities, you can return to Jimbo for your special Animal Testicle weapon strap-on, but for now, stay in the sewers to find your next foe.

Retrace your steps to where you broke the wooden pallet, and go left until you reach the next ladder down. Take it to reach the back end of the sewers. Continue right, following the "Emergency Exit" sign.

Twist the yellow valve to lower the sewage flow so that you can cross back to the front path. Go right until you reach a dead-end corner with a hanging ladder. Shoot down the ladder and climb up. Go left and then through the nearby tunnel, which connects you with the back end of the sewers again. Pull the lever, cross the sewage pipe, and smash the wooden pallet to reach a ladder that takes you down to another tunnel. Shoot the red wheel on the next sewage pipe and take the next ladder down on the right. You'll fight another group of hobos in front of a section of cracked wall that can be broken to reach a hidden green duffel bag. Go left and then through the next tunnel. Continue left and twist the yellow valve to bypass the next sewage pipe and head through the tunnel with the red light.

You've now reached the cave section of the sewers. Descend the ladder and go right. The Crab Person bangs on his mega drum set in the background, and you may have to fight a Giant Bat or two. Continue all the way to the right until you see the ladder leading up to a manhole cover at the Bijou Theatre. Shatter the cracked stalagmite blocking a side path.

Follow the side path until you find a pile of guano. Place your Blood Orange on the guano pile to lure out the Bloodsucking Fruit Bat.

Gang up on the Bloodsucking Fruit Bat as best you can. If one of you goes down, use a Revive Potion and get back into the fight as quickly as possible. Rely on stunning and special abilities to bring the winged beast down.

Once you've beaten the Bloodsucking Fruit Bat, return to Jimbo. It's much faster to exit via the ladder to Bijou Theatre. Jimbo rewards you with the Plastic Vampire Teeth weapon strap-on.

Next, head out to the farm and ring the Cow Bell at the gate. A normal-looking cow strolls up to you.

Take one whack at it and the cow dies. Yep, you've just killed a normal cow. Return to Jimbo. He tells you that they lost half a unit to a farm cow when they were stationed in Hanoi. You receive the Suit of Armor Patch equipment patch for your butchery.

Your final foe hides up in Canada. Note that you won't be able to get at it until you've opened up the border with a passport in the "Heading North" main quest. Once the border is open, look for the Canadian Barking Spider in the spiderweb nestled in the woods above Quebec. Use the Poutine to access the spiderweb and summon the spider.

Do whatever you can to squish the oversized arachnid. Try stunning it and then slicing away with your best weapons. Unload your special abilities on it while avoiding its poisonous mandibles.

When the beast flips belly up, you've cured your arachnophobia and can move on. Be careful to exit Canada without running into too many Dire Bears and Dire Wolves.

Return to Jimbo for your final rewards: an Obsidian Shard weapon strap-on and Jimbo's Key. Use the key to open the treasure chest on the highest shelf, reached via your alien probe. And hey, you've made Jimbo and Ned happy campers reveling in the tales of hunting glory. Just don't go out in the woods alone with these guys.

See the “ManBearPig” side quest for complete details.

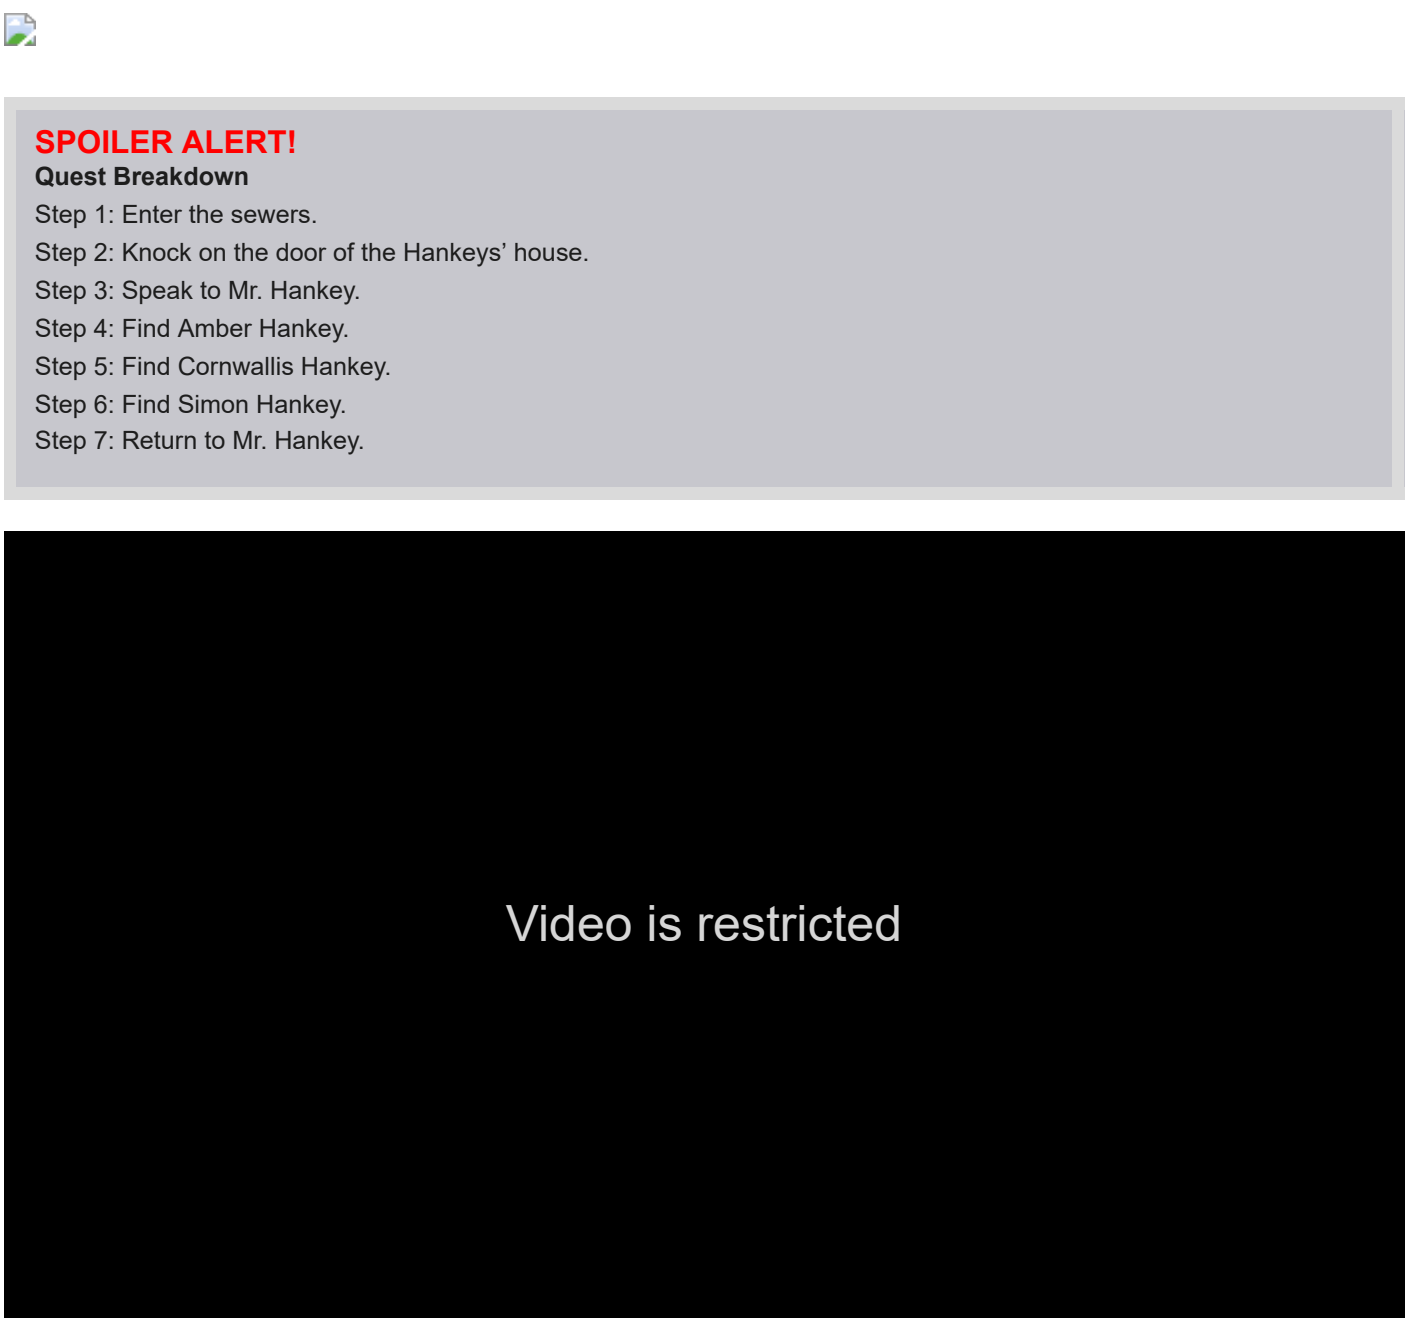
Side Quests

Dropping the Kids Off

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Enter the sewers.
Step 2: Knock on the door of the Hankeys' house.
Step 3: Speak to Mr. Hankey.
Step 4: Find Amber Hankey.
Step 5: Find Cornwallis Hankey.
Step 6: Find Simon Hankey.
Step 7: Return to Mr. Hankey.



Seek out the Hankeys' house in the sewers for this side quest. It is easy to find in the sewer: descend the first ladder, go past the first sewage pipe, and you'll find the house around the corner from the generator. Flip the switch on the wall to raise the gate, and pick up the Gerbitoad Chinpokomon on your way to knock on the door.

Mr. Hankey gives you a big "Howdddddy Ho!" greeting at the door. Unfortunately, it goes downhill from there, as his wife, in her drunken stupor, has lost the kids. It's your job to find them in the sewers and return them home.

Go left from the house and dart across the first sewage pipe you come across. Fight the Mutant Rats on the far side to gain access to the next ladder.

Amber calls out to you from her perch in the middle of a sewage waterfall. You can't reach her from here; you must go up top and shut off the sewage pipe first.

Climb the ladder and take the catwalk around to the left side. Turn the yellow valve to shut off the sewage and descend the ladder under the pipe.

Speak with Amber on her perch. She thanks you and sends you a friend request before running back home.

Climb back up and take the catwalk to the right this time. Continue through a hole in the wall and past a ladder down. You'll come to a dead-end with sealed gate, a wooden pallet on the wall, and a ladder going down. When you aren't on the "Dropping the Kids Off" side quest, a construction barricade blocks off this hole, but the ladder is open now.

Climb down the ladder to find two Drunken Hobos looking for quarters for a "Shit Show" with Cornwallis the star attraction. Give them two cents of your own and bust up the party.

The hobos have pet rats with them too. Use your best multiple-opponent ability to stymie their series of attacks and retaliate on the hobos first. If you can team up on the hobos one at a time, you can remove them from combat quickly and avoid the damage piling up. You can always throw down a fart to make them stink worse than when you met.

Beat the Drunken Hobos and you free Cornwallis. He befriends you and hightails it back home.

Go back up and take the ladder you skipped on your way to Cornwallis. This leads to the back end of the sewers. Follow it to the right until you reach a yellow valve. Turn it to lower the sewage level. Cross to the front, near the power generator, and head to the right.

Continue right until you reach a dead-end corner. Use your ranged weapon to shoot down a ladder overhead and climb up. Go left past the tunnel and shoot another red wheel above the next sewer pipe to slow the flow.

Cross before the sludge douses you and smash the wooden pallet on the wall to reveal a hole. Crawl through the hole and follow the catwalk to the left.

You enter a room; Simon stands in a sewer grate in the corner. He asks you for help with the rats milling about underneath the grate. They're of the normal variety, and each dies with a single stroke.

But—and a big but it is—Mama Rat ain't too happy about you killing her offspring. She arrives with five more Baby Rats to chew you out. Squish the Baby Rats quickly so they can't swarm, then turn your two attacks around on Mama Rat. If a nasty bite slips through your blocks, hit her with a stun attack to limit her opportunities.

You save Simon from being a floater, and he sends you a friend request before getting back home.

Return to the Hankey house and speak with Mr. Hankey. Both parents thank you and give you two more friend requests. Mr. Hankey also hands you a Piece of Poo, a powerful item that summons Mr. Hankey to fight for you once per day. It might look shitty, but it's actually a great resource should a later combat be going down the toilet.

Find Jesus

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Speak with Father Maxi in front of City Hall.
Step 2: Look for Jesus in the church pews.
Step 3: Return to Father Maxi.
Step 4: Adjust the spotlights on the podium.
Step 5: urn off the church lights to see Jesus's shadow on the wall.
Step 6: Return to Father Maxi.

Speak with Father Maxi as he's sitting on the bench outside of City Hall. To help you with the troubles that ail you, Father Maxi will ask you to "Find Jesus," and the joke is that Jesus is literally hiding in the church.

Head to the church. You can use a Fast Travel Flag to zip right there.

Look for Jesus inside the church hiding in the pews. You'll hear him laugh and he'll pop his head up from time to time. As soon as you spot him, race over and tag the Son of God.

Return to Father Maxi. He asks you not to despair, for many find Jesus only to lose him later. You'll have to find him a second time.

Go back to the church. This time Jesus is nowhere to be found in the pews; his immaterial self is really good at hide and seek. Head up to the altar and turn the spotlights on either side of the stage to point toward the central podium.

Now switch off the lights. Suddenly, Jesus's shadow appears on the wall behind the podium. You've found this "Holy Spirit" for the second time.

When you complete "Find Jesus," you gain Father Maxi and Christ as friends. Jesus also hands you the Rosary, which can be used once a day to summon the Right Hand of the Lord to fight for you.

Flower for a Princess

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Speak with Princess Kenny at Kupa Keep.

Step 2: Retrieve the Daffodil from Cartman's backyard.

Step 3: Give the flower to Princess Kenny.

Speak with Princess Kenny at Kupa Keep when you have the urge to actually understand what Kenny is saying. Somehow you figure out that the fair maiden would like a flower.

Hunt for Kenny's gift, a Daffodil, in Cartman's backyard on the left side by the fence between the Pool of Vision and the stack of wood. Pluck out the flower and return to Princess Kenny.

Hand Kenny the flower and he rewards you with an embarrassed mumble and one more social networking friend on your profile.

Side Quests

Hide N Seek

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Speak with Filmore at the Kids' Park.
Step 2: Find Sally at Mr. Slave's house.
Step 3: Find Quaid in the sewers.
Step 4: Find Filmore in the bank.
Step 5: Find Flora at the Tower of Peace.
Step 6: Find Billy at the farm.
Step 7: Find Jenny at Stark's Pond
Step 8: Return to Kids' Park.

Notice the little kids running around the basketball court in Kids' Park? Speak with the kid in the red shirt, Filmore, and the kindergartners will scatter in a citywide game of hide and seek. You have to find all six kids' hiding spots to complete the quest and gain a half dozen social networking friends.

Go toward Mr. Slave's red house to the right of Kids' Park first. Sally hides in the trees behind the garbage can to the left of the garage. Speak with her to discover her hiding spot.

You can find Quaid in the sewers. Go down the manhole ladder in front of the South Park Gazette and he's right there, squatting down behind a mound of trash. Speak with him to discover his hiding spot.

Go to the bank next. Walk behind the counter until it becomes transparent, and you'll spot Filmore. Talk to him to blow up his spot.

A walk out to the Tower of Peace reveals Flora behind a street lamp. Speak with her to discover her hiding spot.

Reverse direction and head to the opposite side of town. Billy hides in the left corner of the farm by the white picket fence. Speak with him to discover his hiding spot.

You can find Jenny at Stark's Pond on the path that leads to the red backpack. Speak with her to discover the final hiding spot.

Return to Kids' Park and you'll see all six kids accounted for and back to their normal routine around the hoop. Six friend requests is a nice reward for a simple jaunt around town.

Side Quests

The Homeless Problem

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Go to City Hall.

Step 2: Speak with Mayor McDaniels.

Step 3: Clean up seven homeless spots.

Step 4: Return to Mayor McDaniels.

Head over to City Hall if you're bummed out about the vagrant problem in the city.

Go inside and speak with Mayor McDaniels. She wants the hobos out of the city so that South Park looks more appealing and compassionate.

The homeless are all around the town. Look for one in the U-Stor-It truck, or one off of the bus stop.

Others hang out behind Kenny's house.

The majority, however, camp out in the sewers. Wander through the tunnels until you trigger the remaining four hobo encounters.

Get ready to block when hobos throw their bottles at you or try to kick your teeth in. They also tend to bring rats along with them, but the real threat is letting two hobos gang up on you. Reverse that theory: You and your buddy should target a single hobo and gang up on him. The quicker you eliminate one hobo, the better chance you have to win the fight without dipping into too many consumables.

Once you've wiped out seven homeless spots, return to Mayor McDaniels at City Hall. She befriends you and forks over 15 bucks for your cleaning efforts on behalf of the city.

Side Quests

Magical Songs

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Stop in at the Elven Kingdom in Kyle's backyard and speak with Jimmy.
Step 2: Travel to the farm.
Step 3: Speak with Rancher Bill.
Step 4: Enter the barn and confront the Nazi Zombie Cows.
Step 5: Survive the Nazi Zombie Cows attack.
Step 6: Retrieve the Flute from barn rafters.
Step 7: Return to Rancher Bill.

Stop in at the Elven Kingdom in Kyle's backyard. Speak with Jimmy, who asks you to accompany him on a quest to claim a Flute to improve his formidable 10th-level Bard talents.

Note

Jimmy must be your buddy to accomplish this side quest.

Head to the farm on the path north of U-Stor-It.

Speak with Rancher Bill about the Flute. He's willing to part with it but warns that there are some weird cows holed up in the barn. You'll have to get through them first.

Cross the barnyard and open the barn door with the key Rancher Bill gives you. Several Nazi Zombie Cows stare at you for a few seconds, then attack.

Take out as many of the four Nazi Zombie Cows as you can before they attack back. Jimmy's sleep attack is particularly effective if you can put a bunch of them in a stupor. Failing that, kill them quickly with a powerful ability or stun them so they can't counterattack.

When the Nazi Zombie Cows do attack, they walk up to you and explode for major damage. You might survive one or two hits, but not three or more. It's crucial that you defeat some of the cows before they douse you with their innards.

Climb the ladder to the rafters. A green duffel bag behind hay bales holds the Flute. To reach it, though, shoot down the hanging lantern and then use your Cup-a-Spell on the exposed flame to torch the hay bales.

Return to Rancher Bill and fill him in on your barn brawl. Jimmy improves his fluting skills and signs up as your friend.

Side Quests

ManBearPig

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Look for Al Gore at the back of the Bijou Theatre.
Step 2: Speak with Al Gore about ManBearPig.
Step 3: Attach the first sensor on the farm's barn.
Step 4: Attach the second sensor on Kenny's garage.
Step 5: Attach the third sensor to the forest fire sign at Stark's Pond.
Step 6: Return to Al Gore.
Step 7: Meet Al Gore in his storage shed.
Step 8: Use the ManBearPig Defilibrator on the power generator in the sewers.
Step 9: Return to Al Gore.
Step 10: Wait for news on ManBearPig (begins "Unfriend Al Gore" sub-quest).
Step 11: Defend yourself against Al Gore's unwarranted attack.
Step 12: Search his super-secret base.
Step 13: Seek out ManBearPig at the church (begins "Defeat ManBearPig" sub-quest).
Step 14: Defeat ManBearPig.

Al Gore is hiding behind the Bijou Theatre; if you want to get mixed up in his madness, seek the former vice president behind the pine tree at the building's back corner.

He's very upset about a creature on the loose—the dreaded ManBearPig—and he's "super cereal" about its danger to public safety. Gore recruits you to stop it.

Before you can even blink, Al Gore befriends you. It's the fastest friend request on record, and you'll soon regret every torturous minute of it.

To track down ManBearPig, you must place three sensors around South Park. Start with the farm. Climb the ladder to reach the loft window, and then climb the ladder to the roof, where you can affix the sensor to the weather vane.

Next, head down to Kenny's garage. Inside the garage, climb the mattress ramp and shoot out the rubble to gain access to the roof ladder.

Climb atop Kenny's garage and attach the sensor to the telephone poll near the large transformer.

Now race over to the opposite end of town and look for the forest fire sign on the shores of Stark's Pond. Tape the sensor right to the forest fire sign.

Return to Al Gore by the Bijou Theatre. He dubs you a "Junior Al Gorean" and asks that you meet him in his secret headquarters for the next leg of your journey.

Travel to the U-Stor-It storage lot. If you haven't already opened the main gate, you'll have to sneak in. Take the ramp next to the vagrant merchant and stand atop the garbage bin. Shoot the ladder on the billboard platform, and climb up once it descends. Cross the billboard and drop down on the other side into the storage area.

Loop around back to the 200 series of storage areas. Gore's headquarters is the first storage locker, marked 204.

The storage area is decked out like a missing persons unit dedicated to finding MBP (ManBearPig). Gore hands you the ManBearPig Defilibrator and gives you the hint that it needs to be activated underground.

What's the only underground space in South Park? The sewer. Use the manhole cover in front of the South Park Gazette and descend into the gloom. Jump the gap with your alien probe and bypass the first sewage pipe to reach the power generator near the Hankeys' house. Plug in the Defilibrator and gather your information on MBP.

Return to Al Gore. He congratulates you on a job well done to this point and says he'll update you when the MBP readings come in.

Leave and go about your business on your next quest. Soon enough you'll be spammed by an anxious Al Gore, who's paranoid that MBP is hunting him down and is even now outside his headquarters. Race back to U-Stor-It as soon as you can, and you begin on the "Unfriend Al Gore" sub-quest. When you bust into the headquarters—nothing. There's no ManBearPig, but a paranoid Gore thinks it's all a ruse—and that you are actually MBP.

Gore attacks you, and his Super Cereal presentation attack will put even the stoutest adventurers to sleep. Resist it as best you can and fight back with stun and damage-heavy abilities.

Beware of when Gore brings in the Secret Service to fight for him. These goons are armed with automatic weapons and deal heavy damage even through Perfect Blocks. Heal with snacks and strike back with multiple-opponent abilities that max out damage on many targets.

Eventually, if you combine powerful abilities with your buddy and heal up whenever given the chance, you can take down Gore. Raid his body for the ManBearPig Ear, Health Potion (Large), and Al Gore's Secret Room Key. Use the key to open the green "super-secret" door in the back.

Gore's super-secret room is a replica of the oval office, complete with spotlights and camera. Gore and his ego must chat it up here on coffee breaks. Open the nearby treasure chest for the Super Cereal ManBearPig Club, ManBearPig Hoof, and Manly Pigtail Wig.

Just when you've forgotten about the crazy Gore, a new social networking entry pops up warning that MBP has been seen by the church. Head over to the church grounds to begin the "Defeat ManBearPig" sub-quest.

Apparently Gore hasn't been defeated yet, and this time he's dressed up in a costume that's bear extremities and pig-eyed helmet. Gore, or ManBearPig as he likes to be called now, is tougher with the helmet on, so take advantage whenever he throws off his helmet by dealing heavy damage to him quickly.

Pound MBP when his helmet is off. He has a lot of health; expect a long battle, during which you and your buddy will be trading off using consumables to stay in the fight.

Once MBP puts the helmet back on, he begins regenerating. Save your power points for big-damage attacks, and make sure you execute any combos perfectly to max out your damage.

Finally, for real this time, you will defeat Gore/ManBearPig and end this nightmare. Rewrite last sentence to read: For all your efforts, you gain a bunch of experience, five bucks, and the ManBearPig Claw, but you lose a "friend."

Side Quests

Mongolian Beef

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Speak with Mr. Kim in City Wok.
Step 2: Head next door to the Tower of Peace.
Step 3: Beat up the Mongolians on the first level.
Step 4: Beat up the Mongolians on the second level.
Step 5: Beat up the Mongolians on the third level.
Step 6: Solve the door puzzle.
Step 7: Defeat the Mongolian Horde on the roof.
Step 8: Return to Mr. Kim for your reward.

To gain the “Mongolian Beef” side quest, head to City Wok in Restaurant Row and speak with Mr. Kim inside.

Kim secretly detests Mongolian beef, and he’s only serving it because the Mongolians have him by the gonads—they conquered his restaurant and are forcing him to serve the vile stuff.

Go next door to the Tower of Peace and beat up the Mongolians’ children. Kim thinks if you can put a hurt on the young’uns, you can intimidate the Mongolians and force them out of town. Thaw out the Brocorri Chinpokomon in the snowbank outside if you want an extra collectable before heading inside.

Open up the Tower of Peace door with the key Mr. Kim provides and beat up the Mongolians on the first floor. Break out your multiple-opponent attacks to cause maximum havoc, and concentrate your attacks with your buddy’s to knock out enemies one by one, rather than chipping away at all of them and letting them all counterattack you.

After taking out the first set of guards, use your ranged weapon to shoot the pulley to the left and drop the ramp. Climb up to the balcony on the second floor.

Continue to the main arch on the second floor. Mongolians pour out of the walls to attack. Execute them just as you took out their first-floor compadres.

Look for the Lambtron Chinpokomon in the cage hanging off the ceiling on the right balcony. Shoot down the cage to add another collectable to your collection.

Climb the stairs to the third level and battle the last set of Mongolians. You should be well versed in making Mongolian beef out of them by now.

To reach the roof, you need to solve the door puzzle. Two dragon tails seal the door, and you have to slide them out of the way to proceed.

Head to the balcony on the right and shoot down a segment of the missing dragon tail.

Plug in the missing dragon tail segment and shoot the glowing red eye on the dragon head above.

Quickly shoot the glowing red eye on the dragon head to the right before the timer runs out.

Use the stairs behind the dragon door to reach the roof.

The Mongolian Horde is pissed that you’ve been knocking off their kids, and all of them meet you on the rooftop. They have a lot of health, so continue to whack them with your big attack and down snacks to keep your health high enough to survive.

You’re treated to a massive fireworks display after your victory over the Mongolian Horde. Pick up a Health Potion (Small) and a Genghis Khan flair item from their bodies.

Return to Mr. Kim. He’s thankful for your help against the Mongolians and rewards you with the Miniature Gong, which allows you to summon Mr. Kim once per day to perform his traditional war dance, which ends with you winning the combat.

Side Quests

Mr. Slave's Package

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Go to the red house next to the Kids' Park.

Step 2: Speak with Mr. Slave.

Step 3: Go to the Post Office.

Step 4: Get Mr. Slave's package from the back shelf in the Post Office.

Step 5: Return to Mr. Slave for your rewards.

To pick up the "Mr. Slave's Package" side quest, take the right path leading out of the Kids' Park and go to the red house on the block.

Enter the house and speak with Mr. Slave in his living room. He asks you to pick up his package at the Post Office in town.

Run over to the Post Office. If you have the Fast Travel Flags active, you can quickly jump there without much effort.

Enter the Post Office and push through the "Employees Only" gate to the back area. Look for a vibrating package in the left bin. You can also score more loot from the adjacent treasure chest and various post office boxes (both locked and unlocked).

Return to Mr. Slave for your rewards. He befriends you and gives you the Rawhide Whip, which can be used to summon Mr. Slave to share his inner self with your enemies and removing them from combat completely.

Side Quests

Nazi Zombie Bounty

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Go to the Police Station.

Step 2: Speak with Sergeant Yates.

Step 3: Kill five Nazi Zombies and take their Nazi Rings.

Step 4: Return to Sergeant Yates.

Head to the Police Station to track down the “Nazi Zombie Bounty” quest. Note that you can only do this quest when there are zombies loose in town. Ideally, this is after you’ve visited the Taco Bell Facility in Day 2’s “PTA Problems” and before you get too involved in Day 3’s main quests.

Speak with Sergeant Yates at his desk to the right in the main lobby. He wants you to bring back five Nazi Rings from the zombies loose in town.

Scour the town for random zombies, such as the one rifling through the dumpster in the alley next to Jimbo’s Guns.

Other zombies like to terrorize the neighborhood and make life hell for snowmen.

You might even catch a Nazi Zombie having a smoke break in the City Hall park behind Father Maxi.

Regardless of where you find them, kill all the Nazi Zombies with the same strategy. Avoid any attack that’s weak against them, and team up your stronger attacks on a single zombie to obliterate it before it can bite you.

When you find an attack that works, use it. Setting Nazi Zombies on fire may be more entertaining than a troupe of caffeine-junkie break dancers, but it also burns them for damage over time. Slam them with area-effect attacks if there are two or more and with your most damaging single-target attacks when they’re solo.

Once you collect five Nazi Rings, return to Sergeant Yates. He congratulates his new “Junior Detective” and sends you a friend request on the spot.

Phase 1

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Speak to the Underpants Gnome in your bedroom.
Step 2: Recover the Underpants in Cartman's mom's room.
Step 3: Recover the Underpants in Stan's room.
Step 4: Recover the Underpants in Stan's parents' room.
Step 5: Recover the Underpants in Kyle's room.
Step 6: Recover the Underpants in Kevin Stoley's room.
Step 7: Return to the Underpants Gnome.

After murdering a garden full of Underpants Gnomes in Day 2, you can speak with the Underpants Gnome hanging out in your bedroom by the boarded-up hole in the wall. The Gnomes still have their quotas to keep, and since you slaughtered his brethren, he figures the least you can do is collect five Underpants for him.

Start with Cartman's house two doors down. Search Cartman's mom's dresser for your first Underpants.

Continue down the lane to Stan's house. You find two Underpants inside, the first in Stan's dresser.

Look for the second in Stan's parents' bedroom dresser to the left.

The fourth pair of Underpants sits in Kyle's bedroom dresser.

The final is the hardest to find: It's in Kevin Stoley's dresser. The best time to pick this up is when you speak with Kevin about the "Vulcan Around" side quest.

Once you have all five Underpants, return to the Underpants Gnome in your bedroom. He's impressed and signs up as a social networkingfriend, willing to forget about the atrocities you committed against his old friends.

Side Quests

Rats in the Cellar

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Speak to the bartender inside Skeeter's Bar and Cocktails.
Step 2: Use Skeeter's Cellar Key to open the basement door.
Step 3: Kill the first group of rats through combat.
Step 4: Kill the second group of rats through combat or with the poison bottle and neon sign.
Step 5 Kill the third group of rats through combat or with the keg pile.
Step 6: Kill the fourth group of rats through combat.
Step 7: Return to the bartender for your rewards.

You pick up the "Rats in the Cellar" side quest from Skeeter in Skeeter's Bar and Cocktails on the far left side of Restaurant Row. They've run into health code violations because of really big rats in the basement. You look like a dungeon dweller, so Skeeter figures you're the dude for clearing out the nest. He hands you Skeeter's Cellar Key and sends you on your way.

Open the basement door and carefully descend. Four rat groups scurry about the basement. Run into one and they immediately attack. For some groups you can use an object in the environment to destroy them, while others must be exterminated through combat.

Give the first rat group a thrashing in combat. You start out fighting two Rabid Rats and one Mutant Rat. The Rabid Rats are easier, but you'll need to pull out your special abilities to splatter the Mutant Rat.

Tip

Smash the gumball machine for some loose change.

Get the second rat group with the neon sign hanging on the wall. First, shatter the poison bottle on the pool table, then shoot the neon sign so that it falls into the liquid and electrocutes the rats.

Knock off the third group with the beer kegs. Wait until the rat group approaches and then smash the wooden crate beneath the kegs. The keg pile topples over and crushes the rats if you time it right.

Tip

Break through the boxes to reach the toolbox under the stairs for extra loot.

Attack the final rat group in the back. You will have to kill two Demon Giant Rats this time. Follow the same tactics as during the first battle and chew down some snacks if your health gets low. This is the final battle for the quest, so don't hold anything back. You can always stock up on goodies later.

Once you've removed the rat threat, return upstairs and speak with Skeeter. He thanks you and hands you the ranged Bar Darts as a reward for completing the side quest. He and the bartender also join you on social networking and up your friends total.

Side Quests

Restoring the Balance

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Speak with DogPoo at the Elven Kingdom.
Step 2: Destroy the first banner in Kids' Park.
Step 3: Destroy the second banner at Mr. Slave's house.
Step 4: Destroy the third banner at Kevin Stoley's house.
Step 5: Destroy the fourth banner at the church.
Step 6: Destroy the fifth banner at Stark's Pond.
Step 7: Return to DogPoo.

Speak with DogPoo at the Elven Kingdom to begin the side quest. DogPoo asks you to destroy five human banners that have been eyesores across town.

Destroy the first banner in Kids' Park. Walk up to it and smack it with an attack to dismantle it easily.

Destroy the second banner in front of Mr. Slave's house.

Destroy the third banner in front of Kevin Stoley's house.

Destroy the fourth banner in front of the church.

Destroy the final banner on the shore of Stark's Pond.

Return to DogPoo. He loves the redecorating you've done around town, and he's honored to sign up as your new friend.

Side Quests

The She-Ogre

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Speak with Stan in the Elven Kingdom.
Step 2: Follow him home.
Step 3: Confront the She-Ogre, his sister.
Step 4: Defeat the She-Ogre in mighty combat.
Step 5: Step outside and claim your rewards.

When you want to get Stan's iPhone back and help him beat up his monstrous sister, the She-Ogre, speak with Stan in the Elven Kingdom.

Go with Stan to his house. He tells you nothing can prepare you for the upcoming battle. He's right.

Shelly Marsh is not happy that you're barging into her room. Her words are only slightly less menacing than her braces.

The She-Ogre starts with 10 times your health. It's going to take a long time to whittle her health down. Don't get discouraged when she lands a blow or two early.

Shelly is immune to stun attacks, but you can still gross her out, set her on fire, and try other fun diversions that shouldn't be allowed in the Marsh household.

Pile on the damage, even as you munch on snacks to keep your health high whenever the level drops below half. Her bedroom carpet has to suck up a lot of blood before Shelly's going to give up.

Deal enough damage and the She-Ogre will fall. You can be proud that you've bested the monster and left Stan's sister with a black eye that somehow doesn't make her look that much scarier. Stan's happy you've helped him maintain honor and befriends you as you leave the creature's lair.

Side Quests

The Timmy Express

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Tag any Fast Travel Flag.

Step 2: Unlock all 12 Fast Travel Flags.

Step 3: Timmy befriends you.

There are 12 Fast Travel Flags across the town. Tag any one to begin the side quest. Do this as early as you can in the game to open up the quick-travel network. It makes life a lot easier when you start running around completing quests.

Fast Travel Flags are located at the following places: the bus stop, Kupa Keep (Cartman's house), Elven Kingdom (Kyle's house), Kenny's house, Kevin Stoley's house, the elementary school, the church, the Post Office, Kids' Park, U-Stor-It, Dark Meadows, Restaurant Row.

When you tag the final flag, Timmy arrives with his wagon to congratulate you! Besides opening up Fast Travel all around town, Timmy signs up as another social networking friend.

Side Quests

Unfriend Al Gore

Note

See the “ManBearPig” side quest for complete details.

Vulcan Around

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Go to the Stoleys' house.
Step 2: Talk to Kevin Stoley up in his bedroom.
Step 3: Look for his dad's missing iPad at the church.
Step 4: Recover the iPad behind the tree next to the church.
Step 5: Return to Kevin and save the universe—or get a small reward.

Go visit the Stoleys' house. It's the blue house with the Fast Travel Flag outside of it.

Speak with Kevin Stoley upstairs in his bedroom. You'll have to decipher his Star Trek speak to figure out the quest: a tricorder—uh, iPad—has gone missing. Kevin thinks his dad dropped it near the church.

Head over to the church. Take the Fast Travel Flag route: It's quicker.

Search the third tree to the right of the church. You'll find the iPad on the ground behind the snow-covered pine.

Return the iPad to Kevin. He's ecstatic, befriending you immediately and handing you the Missile of Slowing. Now when you hang out you hope Kevin doesn't start jawing at you in Klingon.

Side Quests

Wasted Cache

SPOILER ALERT!

Quest Breakdown

Step 1: Head to the Community Center

Step 2: Speak to Mr. Mackey at the fundraising table.

Step 3: Go to U-Stor-It.

Step 4: Take the Monochrome Monitor to Mackey's storage locker.

Step 5: Return to Mackey.

Head over to the Community Center if you're looking for the "Wasted Cache" side quest.

Inside you'll find Mr. Mackey snoozing at the fundraising table. Wake him up and he asks you to deposit a Monochrome Monitor in his storage locker at U-Stor-It. You see, he doesn't have a hoarding problem; he just throws away things in the same place.

Take the Monochrome Monitor to storage unit 221 at U-Stor-It. If you haven't opened the gate yet, climb up the ramp by the vagrant merchant and shoot down the ladder on the billboard to gain access into the U-Stor-It facility.

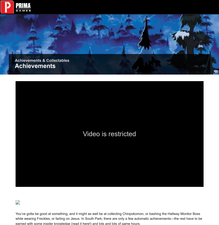
Mackey's storage unit is a huge, huge mess. Piles and piles of junk fill the space, though there are two items you might want to grab: a Chinpokomon and a green duffel bag. Shoot Ferasnarf out of its red bin on the top shelf and have it land down on a wooden plank. Chop away at junk until you can climb the ramp and pick up the Chinpokomon. Use your alien probe to zip over to the far side and open the green duffel bag for Wings Facepaint, Health Potion (Large), and Mackey's PO Box Key. You can then use the key to gain more loot back at the Post Office.

Place the Monochrome Monitor on the lowest shelf to the left of the storage unit door. Return to the Community Center.

Speak with Mr. Mackey. He thanks you for throwing his latest piece of junk away and decides you're not such a bad kid after all. You've gained another social networking friend; lucky you.

Achievements & Collectables

Achievements



Video is restricted

You've gotta be good at something, and it might as well be at collecting Chinpokomon, or bashing the Hallowy Wonder Bow while wearing Pandoras, or finding all the Keys in South Park, there are only a few automatic achievements—the rest have to be earned with some insider knowledge (and it's hard) and lots and lots of game hours.

To help you max out your achievements, we've grouped the achievements into identifying categories. Maybe you love combat or just feel like passing gas; it's all here. While bashing heads, you might want to buddy up with Cartman and hit 20 enemies to unlock the "Two of Them" achievement or bring a bottle on the carcass of an Alcohol Nazi Zombie Fetus to finish off the epithet "Tea Tub" achievement. Whatever your gameplay obsession, peruse the following categories to check off multiple achievements in a single sitting.

Automatic Accomplishments

These achievements happen automatically. They're as inevitable as taking a whiz after a 7-Eleven Big Gulp.

- Acceptance (name yourself Douchebag)
- First Day in South Park (survive your first day)
- New Kid on the Block (join the Kingdom of Kupa Keep)

Combat Moves

Bashing heads. Setting fires on fire. Blocking like a champ. Step your enemies around like you're in a Three Stooges routine and you're well on your way to some of these combat-related challenges.

- Axe of Fire (kill 25 enemies with Cartman's axe)
- Avenger (defeat 3 enemies while your buddy is unconscious)
- Day Walker (defeat the Hallowy Wonder Bow while wearing Pandoras)
- Elven Hero (defeat Cartman)
- Gingivitis Set (drops you by 3 times without blocking)
- Heisenberg (defeat the Meth Heads while wearing the Evil Cartman Goatee and Bald Cap)
- Invisible Sweets (kill your pants during a boss battle)
- KKK Hero (defeat Kyle in battle)
- Made This for You (make a tuck and fling it at an enemy)
- No Chill Left Behind (complete the game without a buddy being knocked out)
- Pulling Mail (hit your pants in battle 3 times)
- Shutout (block every enemy attack in a non-tutorial combat)
- Skilled Defender (block 100 attacks)
- Weapon Proficiency (score 100 perfect attacks)

Farting

Fart up on baked beans and broccoli, 'cause it's time to get busy with below-the-belt tactics that'll have opponents gagging the three-peats-a-day smokers at the new-kids-market at a breathless.

- Animal Cruelty (fart on 25 animals)
- Canadian Handshake (fart on people 100 times)
- Dog Whistle (fart on a canine or ferret)
- Dragon Wrath (fart on three foes at the same time outside of combat)
- Just Saying Hi (fart on all buddies)
- Re-Build (interrupt 5 clarinet attacks with a fart)
- Stop Green (fart on 10 enemies when they're already green)
- Tin Fan (fart on the corpse of an alcohol Nazi Zombie Fetus)
- Truth Is Power (fart on the mayor, Father Maxi, the principal, and the prime minister)

Friendly Endeavors

- Daddy Issues (friend your dad)
- Friends in Strange Places (friend the Crab People and Underpants Gnomes)
- More Popular than Jesus (friend half of South Park)
- More Popular than John Lennon (friend all of South Park)
- Nonconformist (friend all the Goths)

Kill Kenny

With more than 100 friends to track down throughout South Park, you've gotta be more popular than a prom queen, or Jesus, or John Lennon, to be truly successful. Start with Butters and build a network that'll make Katy Perry drool.

- Kill Kenny (kill Kenny after looking like Count Haesehoff)
- Outpatient (defeat Kenny while you have Dire AIDS)
- Stick Doctor (defeat Kenny and retrieve the Stick of Truth)
- Two Girls, One Stick (defeat Kenny in your Makeover disguise)
- You Resilient (have Kenny die 10 times in battle)

Cashing In

Spend money. Don't spend money. These accomplishments are all tied to your wallet and what you do with that hard-earned cash you got from mugging elves and stealing from your buddies.

- Fix the Hoarder (sell absolutely nothing for the entire game)
- Junk Peddler (sell 500 junk items)
- Make It Rain! (spend $500)

Fashion Designer

Gather as much gear as you can and deck yourself out like a king—or a S.W.A.T. officer. The more valuable enhancements require full costume sets—no mixing and matching if you want to earn them all.

- Clothes-Whore (complete all costume sets)
- Full Arsenal (own all the costumes and all the weapons in the game)
- Shopaholic (complete half of the costume sets)

Chinpokomon Collection

You might find a Chinpokomon hidden in a tree, an air duct, or even South Park's peeping-tom UFO. Stash these collectables in your inventory for rewards at 5, 15, and 30 Chinpokomon.

- Poco Chinpoko (collect 5 Chinpokomon)
- Chinpoko Loco (collect 15 Chinpokomon)
- Chinpokolypse (collect 30 Chinpokomon)

Miscellaneous

These achievements don't really fit anywhere else so they ended up here. Sort of like David Arquette at a metal center.

- Ate Me Cool? (as a Jew, find Jesus in the church)
- Inside Joke (summon Mr. Slave inside Mr. Slave's cabin)
- Mastery (unlock all upgrades for one of your abilities)
- Pacemaker (open all garages in South Park)
- Perverted (watch your parents have sex for 60 seconds)

If you don't have a desire to get Furryvail outside Kyle's house, or to get a glimpse of the ultra-rare Pixelbeeeeze flea in the Dreamscape, then you're not a true Armageddon's Children fan. Collectables are the bane of many a gamer's existence, but are extensive personality and try to collect all 30 Chinpokomon around each level. Some are right out in the open—we're looking at you, Cha-Cha Mokumi!—some are in hidden crates, some are just plain weird, and some require a bit more probe or Cup-a-Spell to recover. Read through the following tables for the locations of the game's Chinpokomon, the actions required to unlock them, and which day you can find each one in. You be gotta catch 'em all if you're a real collector!
